Pennsylvania 4-H, Ohio University Teams Win Judging At KILE

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's 4-H team took top youth honors and the Ohio State University took top collegiate honors in the 39th Intercollegiate and Junior Livestock Judging Contest held as part of the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

The Pennsylvania 4-H team was from York County, and consisted of Mike Burrell, Dover; Joe Emenheiser, Felton; Jen Flinchbaugh, York; and Travis Reid, Dallastown. The team placed first in beef, sheep and reasons classes, and placed second in swine. Burrell and Flinchbaugh placed first and second in individual reasons classes, Emenheiser was fifth and Reid was thirteenth. Burrell, Flinchbaugh and Emenheiser placed second, third and fourth overall as individuals.

The team members split their winnings, with Emenheiser placing first overall in beef cattle, sixth in swine and seventh in sheep. Flinchbaugh was first individual in sheep, seventh in swine and eighth in beef. Burrell placed second in swine and beef and eighth in sheep. Reid was 13th overall, 14th in sheep, and 15th in swine.

Coaches for the team were John Eaton and Melissa Trostle.

The Ohio State University team placed first in cattle, swine and reasons, and were third in sheep. Team members were Travis Shane, Allen Gahler, Jennifer Bok, Dave Sanders, Josh Seers, Mike Fearon and Joey Johnson. Team coach is Tom Turner.

Members of the team had five of the top eight overall individual winners: 2. Josh Sears, 3.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — More than 25 years of dedication and effort supporting and promoting the state's livestock industry, as well as the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), were cited as the hallmarks of Jim Watkins, the 1998 inductee into the Pennsylvania Livestock Association Hall of Fame.

The induction was made during a KILE opening ceremony Oct. 1, at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The PLA Hall of Fame display of inductees is located on the rear wall of the Small Arena of the Farm Show Complex, and the KILE opening ceremony has traditionally been held in front of the gallery of photographs of Hall of Fame inductees.

While the announcement of Watkins' induction has been reported, the actual event provided a forum for Watkins and others to express gratitude and recognition to those whose professional and personal efforts have made a positive impact on the industry and the KILE event.

After state Farm Show Director Dennis Grumbine introduced Watkins and cited his long-time and many involvements and accomplishments, Watkins said, "I didn't do it alone. The people you work with and the people who sup-

Dairy Production Economics, Cow Care Techniques On Agenda For Maryland Dairy Annual Meeting

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — Dairy producers, processors, and suppliers will gather here on Tuesday, Nov. 10, to discuss critical issues affecting Maryland's $1 billion dairy industry.

The program will be part of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association's (MDIA) 1998 Annual Meeting, slated for the Four Points Hotel on U.S. Route 40 East.

"We will focus on ways to enhance dairy operations for Maryland producers," said MDIA's president Myron Wilhide of Detour, Md. "It will be a full day of good information for all segments of the dairy industry."

Resource person scheduled for MDIA program include noted Cornell University dairy extension specialist Dr. David Galton, whose topic "Profitability in the 21st Century" promises valuable insight and management tips for Maryland producers. He will be joined by Penn State University dairy extension specialist Dr. Larry Hutchinson, presenting latest information on boosting milk production through proper foot care of dairy cows.

ATLANTA, GA.
OCTOBER 08, 1998

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying activity was light and selective. Breast cuts were fully adequate to ample and buyers generally bid sharply lower for additional offerings. Leg quarters had increased in availability and were more than sufficient for the current buyer interest. Machine cut wings remained available and slow to clear. Retail and distributive movement remained slow to fair; floor stocks were light but adequate. The market tone was about steady on leg items, weak and unsettled on breast items and machine cut wings.

SUMMARY

Sharp gains were made in grain and soybean bids Wednesday. A weaker US dollar, talks of Russian donations, and rain delayed harvest were all factors in the higher bids. Wheat 7 to 13 cents higher. Corn 6 to 10 cents higher. Sorghum 13 cents higher. Soy- beans 8 to 15 cents higher. Wheat bids jumped higher on talks of China buying 1/2 million tonnes of EU feed wheat. Some fund buying on the Board was noted. Corn and soybean bids moved sharply higher for fourth consecutive day. Rain delayed harvest and the weaker US dollar offered support. Soybean bids also gained strength on higher meal and oil demand. The potential for up to 500,000 tonnes of meal donations to Russia also underpinned bids.

Apply compost and organic mulch to any row crop automatically

The versatile Millcreek Row Mulcher makes different sized mulch beds as you need, from 18 to 48 wide, from 1/2 ' to 10" deep A mulching program can help you produce a healthier crop while reducing pesticide requirements

From tree fruit to vegetable beds, from bramble crops to vineyards, organic mulch and compost can reduce chemical input for weed suppression, retain soil moisture, and improve soil fertility by adding organic matter to sandy and clay soils

Now Millcreek eliminates the costly labor needed for organic mulch and compost application The remarkable new Millcreek Row Mulcher works with all types of organic material, and even lets you adjust the depth and width of the mulch rows

Starting under $5000, no other machine compares when it comes to capabilities, versatility, and cost effectiveness Rugged construction Five sizes, from 3 4 to 13 cubic yard capacity Custom designs Call today for a free color brochure, or to discuss your specific needs

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

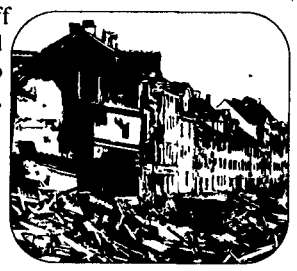
COLUMBUS DAY, OCT. 12.

SAN FRANCISCO EARTHQUAKE

October 17, 1989, is remembered by many around Loma Prieta, California, for the strongest earthquake to hit the state since 1906. With a magnitude of 7.1 and an intensity of 9, it killed over 60 people and brought estimated damages to $6 billion. Despite the fact that the earthquake was centered in the Santa Cruz Mountains 60 miles south of San Francisco, San Francisco and Oakland bore the brunt of its destruction. With the intensity level of 9, on a scale of 1 to 12, buildings were shifted off their foundations and great damage was done to substantial buildings, including partial collapse



Fear is the father of courage and the mother of safety.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ "Duck, cover, and hold," is the drill for earthquakes. Get under a strong desk, cover your head, and hold on!

PUMPKIN COOKIES

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, softened
- 1-1/4 cups brown sugar
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1-1/2 cups pumpkin, canned or cooked
- 1-1/2 cups flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup walnuts, chopped

Preheat oven to 400° F. Cream butter and sugar, then mix in eggs and pumpkin. Mix dry ingredients in sifter, then sift into pumpkin mixture. Stir, and add nuts. Drop by spoonfuls onto a baking sheet. Bake for 15 minutes, or until lightly browned

Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Dry your barley in October, or you'll be always sober.

If October brings heavy frosts and winds, then January and February will be mild.

There are always 10 (some say 21) fine days in October.

Unsteadiness of wind shows changing weather.

ATTENTION DAIRY FARMERS!

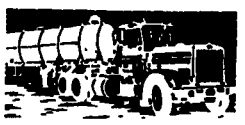
TIRED of hearing "THERE'S A SURPLUS... BECOME MORE EFFICIENT...MAKE MORE MILK..."
TIRED of the small 10¢ to 15¢ incentives to stay where you're at?
ARE WE NOT WORTH MORE THAN CENTS?
FARMERS do we not have the product? (THE POWER IS IN THE TANK)

AMERICAN RAW MILK PRODUCERS PRICING ASSOCIATION "ARMPPA"

We are now in 18 states and still growing!!

ARMPPA is not a milk plant, but simply a price setting agency striving to work with all existing milk handlers.
ARMPPA is now working with farmers who want to price their milk before it leaves the farm.



LAST 40 YEARS PRICING HISTORY
(Based on M&W series and Basic Formula Price)
1963 – $3.11
1973 – $6.30
1983 – $12.49
1993 – $11.80

IT IS FINALLY ANNOUNCED,THAT THERE IS A SEVERE SHORTAGE!! HOW MANY OF YOU DAIRY FARMERS ARE MAKING MONEY FROM IT??? LET'S COMPARE OUR MILK CHECK TO THE CO-OP'S PAYCHECK. THAT'S A MILLION DOLLAR STATEMENT.

OPINION

A Wake-Up Call

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the U.S. Department of Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) have recently issued a draft joint proposal for a unified strategy for cleaning up the 40 percent of the nation's waterways that do not meet quality goals for either fishing or swimming. The document marks an untraditional alliance between the EPA and USDA, especially with regards to environmental issues.

Essentially, the document seems to indicate that all livestock operations are expected to operate with a nutrient management plan including contingency plans. The document differentiates between those livestock operations which are currently required to have these plans and those with too few animals to be considered a major threat. However, the document does cite the proposed ability to require a mandatory nutrient management plan on farms of any size livestock population, depending on the farm operations and the proximity of livestock to water and techinques used to provide livestock access to water.

At issue here is the potential for all farming operations to need a permit to farm. In addition, the permitting process opens up the issue of right of privacy, as the protection of an operation's specific detailed information cannot be granted if the permitting procedure is open to general public comment.

This is a serious wake-up call to farmers. We seem to be headed for a future that will push food production off-shore and make us dependent on other nations (maybe even enemy nations) for our food just like we are dependent on enemy nations for our oil energy supply. This is not just a right-to-farm issue, our national security is at stake. Not only farmers but every U.S. citizen should rise up and demand that food production not be sacrificed on the altar of the buzz word "environment," especially since nonpoint polution can also be blamed on industry and city waste.

To Respect PTO Shafts

Power take off (PTO) entanglements account for a large number of the avoidable injuries on the farm. A PTO shaft turns between 540 and 1,000 revolutions per minute. At that speed it will entangle, wrap up and tear clothing at a rate of 5 to 13 feet per second. By the time you feel a tug on your pants, it is too late to react. If you are one of the lucky people, the clothing will tear.

Studies at Purdue University found a higher rate and more serious injuries from PTO entanglements during the fall. This is due to farmers wearing heavier clothing which is more difficult to tear. PTO entanglements happen more frequently when shielding is missing or damaged.

To Prevent PTO Accidents

Power take off (PTO) accidents are preventable! Common sense safety rules must be followed. Today's laws will not over look unsafe working conditions on farms. To prevent injuries associated with the PTO shaft follow these guidelines:

1. Keep all PTO shields in place while equipment is operating.

2. Repair or replace broken or damaged shields immediately. 3. Always turn off the PTO before dismounting the tractor. 4. Avoid working around spinning PTO shafts. 5. Never step over a spinning PTO shaft. and 6. Avoid wearing loose fitting clothing when working around PTO shafts.

Lets keep this harvest season accident free!

To Adjust Ventilation Systems

According to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, current ventilation needs on dairy farms are much different than those of summer. In summer we want to exchange a lot of air rapidly (2 to 3 air exchanges per minute) and provide a comforting 3 to 5 mile per hour breeze. This amounts to about 2,000 cubic feet of air per minute (cfm) per cow.

In cooler seasons, we still need to exchange air continuously, but at a much slower rate to keep the air fresh, barn temperatures around 40 to 50 degrees and prevent cold drafts. On the coldest days air exchange rates need to be about 70 cfm per mature cow. This can be accomplished with am small, continuously running fan. On warmer days the exchange rate may need to increase to 200 to 250 cfm per cow. This can be accomplished with one or two additional thermostatically controlled fans.

For good distribution of fresh, draft free air to all parts of the barn requires a well designed air inlet system strategically located along all walls. They should be self adjusting. Plans for a simple self adjusting air inlet box are available from your county Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SALVATION THROUGH POLITICS?

October 11, 1998

Background Scripture:
I Samuel 7:15 through 8:22
Devotional Reading:
I Peter 2:13-17

The other night on television there was some extensive footage of the national convention of one of our major political parties. I was amazed at the emotional pitch of the delegates. It doesn't really matter which political party was involved or even the year it took place, for this is par for the course in American political life. It appeared that these people had just chosen, not a presidential candidate, but a Messiah who was going to bring in the Kingdom of God.

"That's just harmless political enthusiasm," someone assured me. But I am not really certain that it is harmless. Enthusiasm is one thing, but false expectations are something else. Too many people approach politics as a way of salvation. Elect the right candidate, they believe, adopt the right political deology and we will be able to solve our most enduring and deepest problems

I may once have believed that, but I have learned that we elect fallible human beings, who, along with their virtues, have weaknesses and failings like those of us who elect them. To pretend that they are something else is to indulge in a kind of idolatry that we have long been warned against by our Judaic-Christian heritage. As Dwight W. Morrow put it, "Any party which takes credit for the rain must not be surprised if its opponents blame them for the draught."

BECOMING THE 'MESS'

In The Presidents' Men, Patrick Anderson speaks of the emotions with which the outgoing administration views the incoming team: "The departing warrior's only consolation, in this dark hour, lies in the assurance that, as Emmet John Hughes put it, those who come to clean up the mess in Washington will soon become the mess in Washington." Or anywhere else.

Our approach seems to be primarily a matter of deciding who are the "good guys" and who are the "bad" ones. Once decided, we assume that the "good" guys can never be bad or be wrong and that the "bad" guys can never be good or right. So we idolize the "good" politician and demonize the "bad" one, ascribing to the former a status that belongs only to God.

Also, we tend to elevate ideology over theology. To be sure, once we have chosen our ideology—whether we style ourselves as conservatives or liberals—we drag in our religion to support it. Some people assume that if you are Christian, you must be a Republican. Others would assume you must be a Democrat. I can make no such assumption for I have never found an ideology that is a match for the gospel.

REJECTING GOD

All of the above is a kind of introduction to 1 Samuel 7 and 8. People have often been puzzled at the attitudes of both God and Samuel in this matter. The prophet Samuel vigorously opposes the establishment of a monarchy in Israel. When Samuel thinks that the insistence for a king is a rejection of his leadership (which, in fact left something to be desired when he arranged for his sons to succeed him), God tells him: "hearken to the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have not rejected you, but they have rejected me from being king over them" (8:7).

What God is objecting to is not a monarchy or any other form of government, but the assumption by a people that a king will solve all their problems. To put a king, president, prime minister, dictator or anyone else in the place of God is both a blunder for us and an offense against God.

Yes, let us elect our leaders, but let us also not forget that they are human beings and expect from them the salvation that comes only from our God. Political life and politicians can bring us good, albeit human government. But no administration is the kingdom of God and salvation comes only from God.

Hawbaker Takes Top Honors

MERCERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The Franklin County 4-H Beef Club held its annual junior market steer show recently at the Franklin Country Fair. Judge for the show was Gary Dean of Strasburg.

The show started with the fitting and showing competition with 20 4-H members competing in three different classes according to age. The champion fitter and showman award went to 15 year old Matt Hawbaker of Mercersburg.

In the open show, Justin Conner, Chambersburg, showed the grand champion steer and Jaclyn Upperman, Chambersburg, showed champion.

Judge Dean took time and explained to each exhibitor how he or she could improve themselves in the show ring.

Other placings were as follows:

The Agri-specialists from Farmers First aren't a bunch of deskbound bankers waiting around for the phone to ring. We get involved with you. Right where you live and work. We lend the money farmers need to keep growing. And, we can help your business in a lot of other ways, too. We talk the talk. And we walk the walk. (wherever that might lead us)

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News
Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder cattle and calves steady. Demand moderate. Receipts curtailed some 40 percent by heavy rains throughout trade area. Quality of supply average. Weigh-ups gaunt to average. Flesh conditions of feeders medium; calves medium to fleshy. Excellent rain last week throughout Oklahoma and especially covering the big wheat country in western Oklahoma. Heavy thunderstorms Sunday and Monday dropped several tornadoes and 2-6 plus inches of rain in central and eastern Oklahoma. Over 12 tornadoes reported but damage relatively light due to limited number in urban areas. Slaughter cows 1.00 lower. Slaughter bulls 1.00-2.00 lower. Packer demand light. Demand remains very good for thin cows to return to country. 475 cows and bulls sold with 60 percent to packers. Receipts this week 8,171 (includes 1,980 for special cow sale); last week 11,723; last year 10,402. Supply consisted of 37 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 33 percent calves under 600 lbs; 30 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

Special Cow Sale - Saturday, October 3, 1998

Receipts: 1,980

Special replacement cow sale comprised of 1,980 head of mostly high quality Medium Frame black cows. Buyers from 5 states and 2 provinces filled the house to capacity. Many cows spent summer on drought stricken pastures in southern Oklahoma and Texas. Bulk of cows in adequate flesh condition for confident breed back, however 25 percent of offerings would be borderline as to breeding back in timely manner. Considerable rain received prior to sale day. Cows evenly split between fall and spring calvers. Several of the long breds already with baby at side. Though these babies were vaccinated due to the difficult conditions they were born into and looked decent despite the stress, many buyers preferred the long breds to the pairs. Thus price for long breds and pairs about the same. All cows pretested for bangs, pregnancy, and age.

QUESTION: Are there things we can do to prevent mycotoxins in this year's feed?

ANSWER: Unfortunately, this question came in about the time most corn silage was finished.

For those of you with long season varieties, or the desire to refill, we can talk about some sound approaches to silo filling. This is also the same time of year to be ensiling that last bit of alfalfa or grass crop.

Filling

1. Clean out old feed and, if possible, disinfect surfaces.
2. Harvest at proper maturity to obtain the highest quality feed.
3. Harvest at proper moisture to ensure good packing and proper fermentation.
4. Fill as fast as possible, and pack properly in bunk silos.

With a dry summer like we had in parts of the state, a judgement call needs to be made to establish a balance between proper moisture and proper maturity. Moisture at time of ensiling must take precendence over maturity, if we are going to have proper fermentation with corn silage.

Ensiling and Storage

1. Cover silo with plastic, attempting to eliminate as much oxygen as possible.
2. Recheck covers on regular basis and repair holes. Covers on tower silos become loose as silage settles. Weighting the edges or persistent tucking can help with this.
3. Consider using innoculants or preservatives as added insurance to feed quality.

Storage and feeding

1. Silage remains silage all year if the above procedures are a yearly practice and not just thought of at time of ensiling.
2. In bunks, feed evenly from the face and use four to six inches per day. Always dig a wedge from the bottom first and then knock feed down from above it, until you're at the top. This will prevent cracks and air entry back through the feeding face.
3. In tower silos, feed 5 to 6 inches, until you reach well-packed silage, and then feed 3 to 4 inches.
4. Remove spoiled feed from feeding areas promptly, so good feed doesn't become contaminated.

These are not new ideas, but will serve as remineders that feed quality is a year-round job.

Doing all of the above should lessen the chances of a toxin problem on your dairies.

I would encourage everyone to assess the feed management changes they have made in the last 20 years and then adapt new strategies that will help them deal with the problems that come along with their new management.

In today's modern dairies that use wet feeds in higher proportions than ever before, toxins will be a problem that will have to be met and dealt with.

The sealed silos will not eliminate this problem because a nice layer of mold forms on top every time we stop filling for a period. We don't see it, as it blends with other feed coming out.

Bunks that aren't covered certainly are a potential spot to find molds and toxins. With toxins being very water soluble, every time it rains toxins are moved down into our piles of feed.

Even silage bales are suspect to toxins. Often silage bales are made when the weather doesn't allow us to make the feed in any other way. This type of weather is also what allows molds and toxins to develop on standing crops.

Follow good feed making procedures. Test for toxins regularly in conditions and feeding styles that can promote toxin development. Look for telltale signs of toxins activity such as reduced dry matter intakes, cystic ovaries, increased SCC and clinical mastitis, abortions and decreasing cow health.

As always, contact your nutritionist and veterinarian to solve the problem. Lastly, my phone line is always available to you.

CONVENIENCE?

Deworming their way — open box...unscrew cap...connect shoulder straps...connect tube...estimate weight of cattle...calibrate dosing equipment...have fire extinguisher ready...put on gloves...round up cattle...do not kink tubes...check weather forecast...now the rodeo begins!...Disconnect hoses...reapply safety cap...wash equipment...check "O" rings...lube gun...remove gloves...wash off spilled dewormer and manure...wish for some spare time — or

Deworm the Safe-Guard way — tear open the bag...dump into the feed...plan what to do with your spare time!

KILE Breeding Beef Exhibitors Show Champions

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A number of Pennsylvania beef breeders showed their best at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, held Sept. 29-Oct. 5 at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The five beef cattle open division breed shows held at KILE attract exhibitors from across the United States and Canada, making it truly an international exposition.

The Hereford show is reported in a separate story. The results and photographs of the champions of the Simmental, Angus, Limousin, and Shorthorn breeds were reported this week by show staff.

The Simmental show also includes several Pennsylvania Capital Futurity classes.

Bobby Singleton served as judge for the Simmental Futurity, Hereford and Angus breeds. Jack Ward served as judge for the Limousin and Shorthorn cattle, as well as the regular Simmental breeding show.

Grazing Considerations - Article 18

Grazing is one of many farming options, and pastures are another source of feed that deserve your consideration. There are many systems of grazing and many ways of feeding and managing cattle on pasture. Explore the advantages and disadvantages, and the economics of the various systems.

1 Some advantages:

- Less start-up capital is needed for machinery, equipment, storage facilities, etc. However, it is hard to "save" start-up capital that has already been invested in non-salable assets such as poured concrete silos, etc. Some capital investments can be partially recovered by selling assets no longer needed, such as machinery and equipment.
- Well-managed pastures are very productive, and a source of good quality feed.
- Purchased feed costs can be reduced.
- Herd health can improve, but under poor management, it can deteriorate.
- Soil conservation is improved.
- Cropping costs are reduced.
- Peak labor demands during the traditional planting and harvesting seasons is reduced.

2. Some disadvantages:

- Managing pastures intensively for maximum profit requires intense management. You must manage pastures for yield, for feed quality, and for stand persistency.
- It takes about three years for pastures to develop a dense, productive sod. In the mean time, yields can be less than optimum and feed supplies may have to be supplemented with additional purchased feeds, or herd size reduced to match the amount of feed that is available.
- Managing pastured cows for good levels of milk production requires more, not less, management. It can be more challenging than managing high producing herds in confinement

  The availability and quality of feed available from pastures need to be checked frequently so modifications can be made to current feeding programs, and so pasture paddocks and feeding programs can be managed to meet the herd's future needs.

  Lush pastures contain a lot of soluble protein, and they are low in fiber. Adding more fiber and soluble carbohydrates to the ration is beneficial.

  When cows are getting most of their forage needs from pasture, it becomes difficult to feed ensiled feeds fast enough to keep ahead of spoilage, especially with small herds.
- Water needs to be supplied to all pasture areas.
- Fences need to be kept in good repair and moved almost on a daily basis
- When pastures slow down in hot dry periods, more stored feeds are needed
- Provisions need to be made to harvest excess pasture growth. Because these plots are smaller and because they mature at different times, it becomes more difficult to plan hay harvesting schedules, and the hay harvesting schedules will also affect when these plots will be ready to graze in the future.

Dairy Production

Extension agent Stanley Fultz of Maryland Cooperative Extension will lead a panel discussion on grazing and its effects on farmland in the Mid-Atlantic region. Leading suppliers to the dairy industry will be on hand to present new technology to industry participants.

Registration for the MDIA Annual Meeting opens at 8:30 a.m. on Nov. 10, with meeting and program events scheduled from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m. Luncheon will be served. All events take place at Hagerstown's Four Points Hotel.

Details of the program are available from MDIA headquarters at MDIA, Suite 1100, 1629 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, (202) 293-0476.

Trust Sponsors 8th Annual Harvest Fest

YORK (York Co.) — The Farm and Natural Lands Trust of York County will sponsor its 8th annual Harvest Fest at Brown's Orchard Farm Market in Loganville on Oct. 24 - 25. Hours of operation are from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The fest features games for the kids, great food, and entertainment. Pennyroyal and Coyle School of Irish Dance will be the featured performers on Saturday from 1 p.m. - 4 p.m. A Tai Chi demonstration will follow.

Sunday features the Modern Icons at 1 p.m. A magician will also perform at noon and 3 p.m.

Kicking off this year's Harvest Fest on Saturday will be the 5K Country Run at 10 a.m. The Fun Run for kids begins at 10:30 a.m. All participants will receive T-shirts provided by C. S. Davidson, Inc. and awards.

This year will feature hot air balloon rides, weather permitting. Also new this year will be moon walks for the kids and craft demonstrations and participatory projects for the children.

Donough's Fifth Attempt At Manheim Market Grand Lamb Proves Sweetest

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Simply put, Travis Donough was getting tired of trying.

After four reserve market lamb championships at the Manheim Farm Show, he thought he used up all his chances of ever getting the coveted grand champion trophy.

But the fifth attempt on Thursday night proved key.

Parading "Renegade," a purebred homebred Suffolk wether in front of judge John Conaway, Suffolk breeder from Newville, helped Travis clinch the overall champion, using the sale lamb, in competition against the nonsale lamb and bred-and-owned lamb. Conaway liked the wether's tremendous muscling and how it was "extended in frame," he noted.

Finally, Travis, 18, son of Ed and Larue Donough, Manheim, could hold the grand champion trophy. Travis, a 1998 graduate of Manheim Central High School, serves as the state FFA sentinel.

Travis said he named the champion "Renegade" in honor of one of his favorite songs by Tim McGraw. The 129-pound purebred Suffolk was homebred from the family's ewe. Travis said he has one more year to show in 4-H and another two to three years in FFA.

Reserve went to the 97-pound nonsale champion exhibited by John Tracy, 13, son of Gerry and Ellen Tracy, Elizabethtown. John, in the eight grade at Elizabethtown Middle School, exhibited a Suffolk crossbred wether named "Blizzard." John's first Manheim champion was purchased from the Svonavec Family in Somerset at a club lamb sale in April.

Both John and his dad decided on the lamb when it was about 40 pounds at the sale. The lamb will be going to the Farm Show this year, according to Gerry Tracy.

In the breed competition, Jessica Stoltzfus won overall champion with a Dorset ewe lamb.

Conaway said the lamb exhibited a "tremendous amount of muscle." Jessica, 18, is the daughter of Frank and Irene Stoltzfus, Elizabethtown.

Jessica, who was reserve champion market lamb last year at the farm show, is a senior at Elizabethtown High School. She said this was the last year she would show at Manheim.

She said she would keep the purebred Dorset in her flock to breed. The Dorset won supreme at the county roundup and at the Elizabethtown Fair.

Her dad, Frank, attributed the bred-and-owned champion to consistency and good genetics.

Plant Biology Training Takes Root

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Researchers in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences have received more than $630,000 for the second phase of a unique program that trains students to take an interdisciplinary approach to studying plant root growth.

"This program provides a wide umbrella for students to do research, with thousands of things that they can do relating to root biology," said Hector Flores, professor of plant pathology and biotechnology, and project director of "Radical Biology II: Collaborative Research Training in Advanced Root Biology."

"For instance, if someone wants to study how roots modify their structure to cope with water deficiencies, they may need to collaborate with a biologist, an engineer or a mathematician. Our program allows them to incorporate these different people and disciplines."

Although plant roots are responsible for a wide array of natural products, they are just beginning to be studied as discrete biological systems, according to Flores. And, he explains, the interdisciplinary nature of this program allows researchers to take a non-traditional approach, bringing together experts in plant biology, genetics, biochemistry, toxicology, and many other areas.

Starting in fall 1998, the program will fund two- to four-year training programs for graduate students, who will work with faculty teams in overlapping areas that range from ecology to molecular biology. They will participate in special courses, workshops, annual retreats and sem-

Homestead And Farmstead Exclusions: What Are They?

MICHAEL J. HELMS
Extension Agent
Environmental/Natural Resources

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — In May, the state legislature passed Act 50 of 1998 called the Homestead Property Exclusion Program Act. This law provided implementing language and rules for how homestead and farmstead exclusions can be used in your school district, county or municipality. Homestead and farmstead exclusions can be implemented without any changes to the existing tax structure as long as the taxing jurisdiction can pay for the exclusion without raising real property taxes.

What is the homestead exclusion?

The homestead exclusion is a way of providing real property tax relief to homeowners. The homestead exclusion works by reducing the assessed value of homestead properties, thus reducing the real property tax on these homes. The exclusion provides the same dollar tax reduction to all eligible properties in the taxing jurisdiction, including farm houses, condominiums, single family homes, and other types of permanent residences owned by the occupant. Homestead exclusions will not be the same value for all taxing jurisdictions. There will be one exclusion value for your school district, one value for the county, and one value for your municipality.

Homestead exclusions provide a reduction in the homestead properties assessed value. The reduction can be up to one-half of the median assessed value of all homesteads in the taxing jurisdiction. (The median value is the middle number of all homestead property values in the jurisdiction when they are lined up from smallest to largest.)

To illustrate this, let's assume the median assessed value of homesteads in the Changing Area School District is $40,000. The school board is allowing a homestead exclusion of one-half (the maximum) of this median value ($20,000). All homestead properties will receive a $20,000 reduction in their assessed values. That means that a homestead property valued at $50,000 will be taxed as if it was valued at $30,000. This effectively reduces the school real property tax bill by 40 percent.

Now you're probably asking, "What's a homestead property?" A homestead property is a dwelling used primarily by the owner as their permanent home. No one can have more than one permanent home at any one time. Rental units, vacation homes, camps or other homes where the owner does not live on a permanent basis ar not included. In general, the address where you are registered to vote and have registered your driver's license is considered your permanent home.

What are farmstead exclusions?

The farmstead exclusion is similar to the homestead exclusion in that it targets real property taxes for farmers. It allows for a reduction in tax on the buildings (other than the farm house which is covered in the homestead exclusion) on a farm, as long as the farm owner lives on the farm. This is in addition to the "Clean and Green"

New Holland Posts Hog Sale Prices

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Prices for sale hogs at New Holland Farmers' Fair were recently announced.

Kevin Pfautz sold his 244-pound grand champion market hog for $3 per poud to Stauffer's of Kissel Hill. M.H. Eby Inc. bought Patrick Good's 236-pound reserve for $2.50 per pound.

Jake Brubaker's 226-pound lightweight champion went to Hatfield Quality Meats for $1.75 per poud. Chris Good sold his 250-pound heavyweight champion to Dutchman's Truck Service for $1.50 per pound.

Smithson Shows Futurity Champions

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 14-year-old boy from White Hall Maryland showed the champion bull of the Simmental Futurity and the champion heifer of Simmental Senior Futurity, held recently in conjunction with the Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

"Pond View Fester," owned by Shane Smithson, son of Rick and Debbie Smithson, was named champion bull of the Simmental Futurity.

The senior futurity champion heifer was "Pond View Tobassy," also owned by Shane Smithson.

The futurity contest began in 1989, under the direction of Lee and Linda Snyder of Franklin. It was designed as a promotional tool to help sell farmer's calves.

Since then, the contest has raised more than $70,000, and has grown to the where this year's contest provided $7,000 in premiums, 16 exhibitors with about 60 head entered.

While Smithson's young bull was named champion, he also exhibited the reserve champion heifer, "Missing Oaks Miss First Edition."

The champion heifer of the contest was "Harvest MCR Red Light," owned by Bob McGregor of Doylestown, Ohio.

The reserve champion bull was "Echo Valley Moon Shire," owned by Tammy Nelson of Forest Hill, Maryland.

Centre Co. Fair Open Dairy Show Results Given

CENTER HALL (Centre Co.) — The Centre County Grange Fair open dairy show was held early this month in Centre Hall. Steve Shaw of Williamsburg, sorted through 161 animals of five breeds to find their respective champions.

The Ayrshire and Brown Swiss shows were predominately taken home by Charles Liner. The only honor that he did not take was Jr. Champion, which Holly Heinrichs received.

Four Springs Jerseys was farm pre-fix of three of the four champion Jerseys. Jennifer Kellerman owns the jr. champion winter calf and her brother Joshua owns the res. jr. champion spring calf. J. Craig & Susan Wicker (Four Springs Jerseys) had the grand champion 4 yr. old and EDN-RU Jerseys (Harold & Shirley Harpster & Family) own the res. grand champion aged cow.

In the Holstein breed the show is split. The calf and heifer classes are during the day and the cow classes are in the evening. Emily Cloninger with her fall calf had jr. champion and Lori Connelly had res. jr champion with her fall yearling. In the cow classes the fair committee and Centre Co. Holstein club sponsor a three year old futurity class. Taking that honor was Penn Dell Farm with Penn Dell Slocum Rita The grand champion was a 5 yr old cow owned by David Kochner and the res grand champion honor went to Troy Hartle with his 4 yr old The premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards went to Penn Dell Holsteins Jay H and Marv F Houser Family Jay and Mary were pleased to take the honor home, with all of the family present except for Mary Ellen's husband, who was home on the farm in Wisconsin

Lancaster Chamber Of Commerce and Industry Plans Annual

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dean Kleckner, president of the world's largest farm organization and a trade adviser serving under three U.S. presidents, will keynote the 22nd Annual Lancaster County Agriculture-Industry Banquet, Nov. 24, at the Lancaster Host Resort at 6:30 p.m.

Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will speak to an expected audience of 600 at the event. Al Pell, anchor of Ag Day, the only nationally syndicated, daily agriculture and agri-business show, will emcee the banquet, which is sponsored by The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry's Agriculture Committee.

"We are indeed fortunate in Lancaster County to present two individuals with such prestigious credentials in the agriculture industry," said Jim Shirk, Chamber agriculture services manager. "Mr. Kleckner, a sincere advocate for the American farmer, is known internationally for his common sense approach to agricultural issues."

Kleckner has been president of the AFBF since 1986. Prior to becoming AFBF president, Kleckner was president of the Iowa Farm Bureau for 10 years and a member of the AFBF board of directors. He served on numerous Advisory Committees, including the National Economic Commission and the U.S. Trade Advisory Committee where he was first appointed by President Reagan, reappointed in October 1989 by President Bush and since reappointed by President Clinton.

Ag Day and Pell can be seen at 5:30 a.m. Monday through Friday on WPMT Channel 43 and Saturdays on WGAL, Channel 8 also at 5:30 a.m.

The George C. Delp Award honoring someone whom has given outstanding contributions to agriculture and agri-business will again be presented at the banquet. Families receiving the Century Farm Award will also be honored.

Tickets are $40 per person or $350 for a table of 10. To make a reservation or for information regarding sponsorship opportunities, contact Jim Shirk, Chamber agriculture services manager, at (717) 397-3531.

Supreme Dairy Champion At Bedford County Fair

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — How does a judge pick a supreme champion from a dairy show made up of six breeds.

"It's now easy," said the judge at the Bedford County Fair Open Dairy Show. "Each breed has its own characteristics. But we do have certain things to look for. We give 40% for udders, 15% for legs, 15% on the frame and 20% on dairy characteristics."

The judge then shook the hand of Jan Snider leading his 4-year-old Guernsey into the ring indicating this as the supreme champion at the Bedford County Fair.

Reserve supreme went to Holly Morse for her red and white with Blackcrest BM Katie-Red. Holly resides at Five Forks Farm in Clearville.

The supreme champion show concluded the almost day-long open dairy show.

Nick Burket had little competition and took all awards in the Brown Swiss division including Jr. 2-year-old, 3-year-old, Grand Champion and Reserve.

Grand champion Jersey was shown by Christine Young of Horizon Farm. Wayne Koontz of Stan-El showed the Reserve champion.

Grand and reserve champion Holsteins were shown by Angie Morse and Miranda Fisher. Fisher was representing Scott-Lea Holsteins of New Enterprise.

Holly Morse showed the grand champion red and white and Jason Mowry of Bakers Summit showed his brother's cow to reserve.

Beef Quality...

Is Every Cattleman's Business!!

All Pennsylvania cattle producers are invited to attend one of the fall educational meetings sponsored by the Pennsylvania Beef Council, the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Livestock Markets Association, Taylor Packing, and Moyer Packing. The meetings will bring cattle producers the latest information on targeting breeding for customer satisfaction, culling strategies, and enhancing beef quality and product value. The beef industry is going through tough times and facing increasing competition, but with good information, cattlemen can meet the challenges.

port you who make successes possible."

He cited his pride in and the long-time support from his family — wife Faye, and children Pamela and Randy. He also cited the dedication of others, such as Grumbine, with whom he has worked to promote the livestock industry and KILE, and state Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr.

Watkins said that when Hayes served as a leader in the state House of Representatives he could always be counted upon to support agriculture and the livestock industry.

Watkins said that Hayes was instrumental in helping KILE (as well as other agricultural ventures and programs), that at times needed help to continue. According to Watkins, support from the state Legislature helped the event become the pride of the state's livestock industry.

He talked about the impact others made upon him, such as the late Glen Kean, also a Hall of Fame inductee, a former Penn State animal agriculture professor, who served for years on the PLA and KILE board of directors and served with Grumbine (also Hall of Fame inductee) as co-chair of the KILE show for about 14 years, and was a mutual mentor of Watkins, Grumbine and Hayes.

All three men have said that their memory of Kean was as a constant force in motivating them to do their utmost to ensure that state programs and the Farm Show Complex were used to the best effect to promote the industry, and to educate the public to its importance and economic magnitude.

Overall, Watkins said that in his 30 years involvement in the Pennsylvania livestock industry he has enjoyed the company of other people involved.

"I never met a person I didn't like, in the livestock industry," he said.

Further, Watkins said he has been thankful for being able to live in Pennsylvania, and implied that he would like more Pennsylvanians to appreciate the state in which they live. "I think we have a great state to live and work in. It's a fine state," he said.

The ceremoney started with a tribute to the horse industry, the various breeds represented at KILE, and the industry's economic importance to the state, made by Don Tanner, co-chairman of the KILE Horse Committee.

He talked about the the various breeds and their origins and different characteristics and uses. The national Shire (a breed of draft horse) Show at KILE was the largest Shire show in the last 70 years.

As Tanner began his presentation on the history, importance and characteristics of the nine different horse breeds — Belgian, Shire, Clydesdale, Percheron, Haflinger, Arabian, Quarterhorse, Appaloosa, and Paso Fino — there were riders in show garb on the show-fitted horses of each breed lined up across the width of the Small Arena.

As Tanner talked about each specific breed, the rider of that breed horse would walk or ride the animal around the ring.

On the rear rail of the Small Arena were large placards with facts about the different horses, so the public could learn more at their leisure. Providing the show-attending public with more basic breed information through placards and displays has become an ingrained aspect of the KILE event.

According to Tanner, the horse industry is an integral part of the Pennsylvania agricultural economy, and contributes more than $1 billion and employs about 22,000 people.

In other business, Harry H. Bachman, outgoing PLA president and KILE Horse Committee co-chairman with Tanner, was recognized by Secretary Hayes for his service and leadership.

Bachman is an Annville-based auctioneer involved for a long time with beef and dairy cattle, hogs and sheep, who has been a consistent hands-on supporter of local and state livestock and dairy, and youth programs.

Secretary Hayes said that "colonel" Bachman ("colonel" is the traditional term used to address auctioneers) has done so much in addition to serving well as president that he derserved to be promoted to "general."

Bachman was presented with a plaque bearing a president's gavel by Tony Dobrosky and Secretary Hayes.

In his own address to the audience, Secretary Hayes said the future is bright for agriculture in Pennsylvania.

"I can't help but be excited about agriculture. I have never been as excited (about agriculture) as I am at the present time. There's never been a brighter moment."

He said that to appreciate his understanding and outlook of agriculture, it is necessary to understand the context of the past and present.

While not specific, the sense of the secretary's brief address was that — given the changes around the world with governments (trending from being closed or antogonistic ruling structures to becoming governing structures more on track toward democracry and free markets), and the resultant opening of trade or at least discussions of fair trade — the potential and opportunities for Pennsylvania to market its agricultural products globally have never been greater.

With state government being in position to promote and support the industry (improved laboratory testing facilities, disease control, etc.), and political leadership seeming to understand agricultural business's economic importance to the state and its people, the potential for the industry here is broad and full of possibilities.

Hayes recently returned from a trade mission to South Africa, and although details of the trip are yet to come (trade missions help establish relationships which can lead to trade negotiations), he said it was a success.

He has made several trade missions in the past year and most have led to improved relations as well as actual trade.

Hayes said that the horse industry in Pennsylvania is as important to the state and to him, as secretary, as are all the other aspects of agriculture.

"I can't help but be proud to have the equine industry we have in Pennsylvania," he said. "I don't want anyone to think that this secretary doesn't recognize the integral part (the equine industry plays)."

Charles Itle, Farm Show livestock show manager said that KILE 1998 was one of the best to date, with the KILE horse shows the largest to date, with about 550 draft horses (with about 100 Shire and 50 Clydesdale, and the Percheron show being the second largest in the nation).

He cited the national and regional cattle shows, the feeder cattle show, more than 370 head of swine, and about 1,200 sheep (including the regional Montadale breed show and the Eastern Regional Tunis show), as other examples of the strength of the event.

All combined, there seemed to be a sense that the show has matured to a grander scale.

In most cases, there were more livestock exhibitors for the breed and specie shows.

In addition, while many things can affect the attitudes of exhibitors and attendees of any special event, the atmosphere at the Complex and KILE has changed.

The new system of stalls, upgrades in appearance to the entire Farm Show Complex, quality entertainment, the largest KILE trade show ever, and visits from almost 2,000 school children who received promotional and educational materials from the breed organizations representing the four livestock species, were just some of the aspects of the show and facility that seemed to provide an aura of excitement and optimism.

Also part of the opening ceremony was the PLA's presentation of awards to outstanding FFA and 4-H youth. Every year the association selects a boy and girl from each youth organization who have distinguished themselves in their livestock endeavors.

Though the names of recipients and their backgrounds were previously reported, they received a plaque and a monetary award from Kathy Stewart, with the PLA committee, during the ceremony. Recenlty elected PLA President Mike Firestine of Womelsdorf helped to make the presentations.

The FFA youth recognized were Heather Bankert of Red Lion and Gregory Moyer of Middleburg. The 4-H youth were Heidi Svonavec of Rockwood, and Paul Kitzmiller of Wellsville.

Beef Quality Educational Meetings Set

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Beef Council, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and several other organizations, has scheduled a series of meetings to provide information to producers.

Some Win, Some Win Again At KILE Hereford Point Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A spring yearling heifer born in March 1997 caught the judge's eye last week. The heifer that "always looks good, always on the move, is really fresh and really angular up front," according to judge Bobby Singleton, Murfreesboro, Tenn., won intermediate champion and eventually grand champion heifer of the Polled Hereford Show at the 42nd annual Keystone Livestock International Exposition (KILE).

The heifer, NS Sara Optima X2948388 (S: SBR Prime Exp 43A, D: WNM Optima 9312) was exhibited by NS Polled Herefords of Mason, Ohio, late last week during KILE open show competition at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Although the exhibitor, Gene Steiner, farm manager for NS Polled Herefords owned by Dr. Norman Starr, won grand champion in 1994, this was the farm's first grand champion heifer ever at KILE. Steiner, who helped NS Polled Herefords become premier breeder and exhibitor of the show, said this was the first championship for the heifer.

Steiner said that he also goes to several other point shows, including the one at KILE. The KILE show represents the northeast region, though NS Polled Herefords also attends the Denver and Louisville shows in addition to Ohio State.

NS Polled Herefords maintains about 120 cows on the farm's cow/calf operation in Mason, Ohio. They are primarily a seedstock producer for Herefords.

Singleton, manager of Four L Hereford Farm in Murfreesboro, Tenn., chose the junior champion heifer for reserve overall. The junior calf was "really long, really angular, and really fresh," he said, with "not too much or too little flesh."

The reserve overall was exhibited by Sunnyside Farm, Lebanon, shown by Cliff Orley. The overall, the junior champion of the show, was MS Honoria H8 Pending (S: Star Magic Pace 335E, D: Jr K58 Brandi D71).

Singleton made the point that different judges will pick different champions, based upon what works on a certain farm. "That's what makes the cattle business fun," he said.

Grand champion bull went to the entry exhibited by C.J. Furlong, farm manager for Salunga Acres, Mount Joy, Salunga Form 19F X23909322 (S: Bar B 15S Yankee, D: CSSBBN BSHNG DL 306R), a 2-year-old bull that won champion senior bull. Singleton noted the bull "is a super correct bull, with a good rear quarter and rump," he said. "The bull gets along well for being a big ole 2-year-old."

For Dorothy Metzler at Salunga Acres, the show was dedicated to her husband George, who passed away some time ago. For the bull, it was a return to the championship limelight it enjoyed when it won supreme champion bull at the Hereford show last year at KILE and supreme champion bull overall at this year's state Farm Show.

Singleton chose the champion yearling bull exhibited by Iron Forge Farm, Lebanon, Star National LT 23G ET X24003887 (S: Star SS Banshee 36E, D: MM MS Pacemaker), for reserve overall bull. Singleton noted the "real attractive" calf that was "a long-sided kind of bull, very athletic."

There were a total of 36 exhibitors and 72 animals at the point show. Following is a list of show placings.

Police Seek Horses To Add To Equestrian Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Got an extra horse around the stable? State Police might be able to give it a job — and a home.

State Police Commissioner Paul J. Evanko announced that the department is seeking donated horses to supplement its equestrian program. The department has 25 horses and wants to add at least five, he said.

"When the department began in 1905, it had a stable of 230 horses which were crucial to patrol efforts," Evanko said. "Now the horses are used chiefly for searches, crowd control, security and patrol of remote areas."

They are also used routinely in State Police Cadet training, parades and other public relations activities, Evanko said.

Donated horses must be geldings, 5-15 years old, stand at least 16 hands (64 inches at the shoulder), and be quiet and sound. Horses that are brown or chestnut in color are preferred.

A veterinary examination will be performed, and horses will be accepted on a 90-day trial basis to determine suitability, Evanko said.

Persons interested in donating a horse should contact Cpl. Wade Crimbring, supervisor of the State Police Mounted Unit, at (717) 533-9111, ext. 352.

New Holland Posts Sale Prices

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The New Holland Fair Market Lamb Show was highlighted by the sale of Sarah Boyd's grand champion market lamb, who accomplished a rare feat, going through the extremely competitive local fair circuit undefeated.

The 131-pound champion was purchased by Darvin Boyd representing First Union National Bank for $3.75 per pound.

Rachel Day's 122-lb. reserve champion lamb was purchased by Alan Strock, representing Blue Ball National Bank, for $3.50 per pound.

Support for the Grassland FFA's Dr. Robert D. Herr Scholarship Fund was evident when Rachel Day's purebred dorset wether, originally donated by Nix Bessler Dorsets, topped the sale. The lamb was purchased at the FFA Foundation Golf Tournament by Pepsi before being donated back to Day for her to raise and show at the local fairs. The scholarship lamb brought the top bid of the evening. Menno Eby of MH Eby, Inc. paid $6 per pound for the lamb. Day will donated half of the sale price to the Grassland FFA scholarship fund. The Robert D. Herr Scholarship is awarded to a deserving member of the Grassland FFA who has shown livestock as part of their SAE program and/or who is majoring in an animal science or agricultural education curriculum in college. The infamous "Pepsi lamb" earned more than $2,600 for the scholarship fund, the state FFA Foundation, and its owner, Rachel Day.

In all, 50 lambs were sold for an average price of $1.59 per pound with none of the lambs bringing less than $1 per pound.

"We really appreciate the support of all the buyers throughout the entire sale, and the outstanding job done by Allen and Carol Diffenbach, who once again donated their auctioneering skills to benefit these junior exhibitors," said Clifford Day, show and sale chairman.

inars, with special emphasis on innovation in training and courses. They also will be encouraged to participate in internships with industry. Undergraduate students who show promise can participate in a rigorous summer study program. Successful elements of the training will be incorporated into Penn State's biological curriculum, according to Flores.

Originally funded through the Collaborative Research Plant Biology Program sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the National Science Foundation (NSF), Phase II funding is provided by the NSF. Additional funding comes from Penn State's senior vice president for research and dean of the Graduate School, the Biotechnology Institute, and the College of Agricultural Sciences.

"The training grants are a relatively recent initiative from the federal funding agencies," he said. "The idea is to provide an alternative to grants based on individual research projects. Most students funded by conventional grants are constrained to work with a particular professor, with little leeway or freedom to follow the research wherever it takes them."

In addition to Flores, participating faculty members include Dr. Jonathan Lynch, assistant professor of plant nutrition; Dr. David Eissenstat, associate professor of woody plant physiology; and Dr. Jack Shannon, director of the Intercollege Graduate Program in Plant Physiology and professor of horticulture.

Homestead And Farmstead Exclusions

program currently available to farmers. By law, if a taxing jurisdiction offers a homestead exclusion, they have to offer a farmstead exclusion also. The farmstead exclusion rate is also set by the taxing jurisdiction and it cannot exceed the amount of the homestead exclusion. Like the homestead exclusion, farmstead exclusions will be different for each taxing jurisdiction.

Farmstead property includes all buildings and structures on a farm of 10 contiguous acres or more in size that are used primarily for agricultural purposes (housing animals, storing supplies, etc.). The farmstead must be the permanent residence of at least one farm owner. Farmstead exclusions would be applied to buildings and structures that are not already exempt from real property taxes under other laws.

How do homestead/farmstead exclusions get started?

In general, homestead/farmstead exclusions are initiated by the elected officials in a taxing jurisdiction. Initially, they must decide to implement the exclusions and, most importantly, decide how they are going to pay for them. The law states that local officials are prohibited from raising real property taxes to compensate for lost revenues. That means they need to find other sources of money. For most jurisdictions, this might only be possible through tax reform since they will need significant new revenues to pay for the exclusions. School districts can implement homestead/farmstead exclusions by adopting the school tax reform measures included n Act 50. A public referendum is required for a district that wants to implement the reform measures.

Property owners wanting to be included in the exclusion program will have to apply to the county tax assessment office. This office will use the applications to determine the median values for homestead properties in each jurisdiction.

Penn State Cooperative Extension is currently working on materials and programs related to the issues of tax reform, including the homestead and farmstead exemptions. Watch for the release of new written materials and educational programs during the fall and winter.

Penn State is an affirmative action, equal opportunity university.

CORN TALK

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

Corn Talk, Lancaster Farming, Saturday, October 10, 1998

RANDY WELLS
Indiana Co. Correspondent

DAYTON (Armstrong Co.) — Despite the relatively dry weather this summer in Armstrong County, George Rumbaugh was able to walk into one of his corn fields near here on the first day of September and gaze up at the green stalks stretching well above his head. The ears had filled out nicely, too, he noted, and he predicted his crop would probably yield 80 or more bushels per acre.

Rumbaugh probably knows as much about growing corn as any farmer in his county and perhaps the state. He had not only been growing corn but studying it for years when he was asked in the early 1970s to serve as the first president of the newly-formed Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA).

"George was a student of corn. He not only grew it, but he watched it to see how it reacted to weather and soil conditions," said Bill King a retired Armstrong Penn State Extension Service agent.

Rumbaugh lives on the Wayne Township, Armstrong County farm his great-grandfather bought in 1857, and he lives in a 131-year-old brick farm house along with a two-lane blacktop that winds through the rolling farmland.

Eventually the farm was divided between his grandfather and his great-uncles — "In those days you could raise a family on 50 acres," Rumbaugh said — and today at age 76 Rumbaugh operates part of the original farm with his son David. Their 360-acre spread has about 260 acres of tillable land.

Lush, alternating contour strips of corn and hay swirl across much of the 360-acre Rumbaugh farm in eastern Armstrong County.

Rumbaugh was taking a critical look at his corn crops even before PMCGA was started. Rumbaugh, along with extension agent King and Willard Kimmel, another Armstrong County farmer, conducted some of the first interval corn planting tests in the state.

Despite the conventional wisdom of that time that corn should not be planted before mid-May, the three men started planting corn as early as mid-April — six rows each of the same seed variety in the same field — and continued the weekly plantings through May. The results

30,000 Could Be Corn's Optimum Population Rate

ANDY ANDREWS

PEACH BOTTOM (Lancaster Co.) — Producers often seek that "optimum population rate." That rate is the amount of corn seeds to put down per acre

In several planting demonstrations involving grain and silage corn, the optimum population rate could be 30,000 seeds per acre. The best stands were planted this year at that rate, according to Ed Herrmann, adviser to the Solanco Young Farmer Association.

President's Message

Chris Krimmel
President, PMCGA

Another growing season is coming to an end — and it's been a very active spring and summer for the PMCGA and the NCGA.

The ethanol battle was won once again. Special thanks to all of you who took time to send a seed corn tag, with your "Save Ethanol" message to your congressional leaders.

Because of our combined efforts, ethanol production will use more than 600 million bushels of corn each year, adding 43 cents per bushel or

TEN WAYS TO LOOSE MONEY ON CORN PRODUCTION

GREG ROTH
Penn State Agronomy Associate Professor

Here are a few ways corn growers lose money.

1. Never check the planting depth. Seeds get planted too shallow or too deep, stand are reduced by 20 percent, yields by 10 percent, $30 per acre lost.

2. Don't account for manure or crop rotation nitrogen credits. Entire crop gets about 50 pounds per acre too much nitrogen, $10 per acre wasted.

3. Assume the insecticide boxes are calibrated from last year. Inadvertently you apply 25 percent more product per acre than necessary, $4 per acre wasted.

4. Plant all full-season hybrids that yield well but don't dry down. drying a 150-bushel per acre crop four more points at $0.04 point per bushel costs an additional $24 per acre.

5. Plant hybrids you have no performance data on or experience with on significant acreage, or plant all acreage to a single hybrid. You get a surprise on hybrid performance, yields are reduced by 10 bushels per acre or $30 per acre.

6. Use a high Phosphorus starter fertilizer on a soil testing excessive for phosphorus. No response to fertilizer investment, $10 per acre lost.

7. use a soil insecticide on corn following soybeans. no rootworms to control, cutworms and other pests don't show, $13 per acre wasted.

8. Practice recreational tillage by plowing fields that could be easily no-tilled. Labor, equipment, and fuel cost $20 per acre.

9. Use 100 units of nitrogen where you need 150. Crops run out of nitrogen late in season, yields reduced by 10 bushels per acre. $30 acre lost, but you saved $10. Out $20 per acre.

10. Have complete faith in your pre-emergent herbicide program and don't check for escapes 2-3 weeks after planting. Weather fails to cooperate and herbicide performance is less than ideal. Weeds reduce yields 10 bushes per acre before you apply rescue treatment in early June, $30 per acre lost.

Unfortunately these scenarios will be repeated again next year on many fields. Try not to make them with your crop.

Preferring Scare Tactics To Sound Science, EWG Slams Administration Implements of FOPA

WASHINGTON, D. C. – The Environmental working Group (EWG) issued a report denouncing the Clinton administration's efforts to fairly and objectively implement the Food Quality Protection Act (FOPA).

Passed in 1996, FQPA substantially changes the way pesticides are evaluated for their health effects. Vice President Al Gore recently directed the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and U.S. Department of Agriculture to work together to ensure smooth implementation of the law. Based on that direction, the agencies formed a Tolerance Reassessment Advisory Committee (TRAC) to provide policy guidance on the use of sound science, ways to increase transparency in their decision making, strategies for a reasonable transition for agriculture, and ways to enhance consultations with stakeholders as they reassess pesticide tolerances.

"Vice President Gore has outlined a process that will bring all the stakeholders together with the promise that sound science and real-life farming practices will be taken into consideration as EPA and USDA make decisions regarding the future availability of crop protection chemicals," noted national Corn Growers Association (NCGA) President Ryland Utlaut, a farmer from Grand Pass, Mo. "EWG is obviously taking a preemptive strike because they are concerned that fairness, objectivity and open dialogue might get in the way of their ongoing efforts to demonize the entire agricultural community.

"Corn growers look forward to working with EPA, USDA and other stakeholders - including the Environmental Working Group - to make sure that the FQPA is implemented using the best scientific methodology and data and the most accurate information based on real farm practices and actual pesticide use," Utlaut said.

Transportation Bill Extends Ethanol Tax Incentive

CORN TALK NEWS
PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Corn growers and all Americans can breathe easier today, thanks to congressional passage of an omnibus transportation bill that extends the federal ethanol tax incentive through 2007.

HR 2400, the Building Efficiency Surface Transportation Equity Act (BESTEA), was approved overwhelmingly by both the House and Senate in May.

"This landmark legislation marks a major victory for all Americans who will reap the benefits of cleaner air, new jobs, increased farm income, rural economic development, lower fuel costs, and reduced U.S. dependence on foreign oil," said National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) President Ryland Utlaut, a farmer from Grand Pass, Mo.

The conference report on H.R. 2400 passed the senate by a 88-5 vote, and was then cleared by the House 297-86. NCGA is urging President Clinton to act quickly to sign the measurement into law.

Currently, gasoline marketers who blend their product with ethanol can claim a 5.4-cent-per-gallon exemption from the federal gasoline excise tax. That exemption was scheduled to expire on Dec. 31, 2000. The final language in the transportation bill extends the incentive through December 31, 2007, with modest reductions to 5.3 cents in 2000-2001, 5.2 cents in 2005 and thereafter.

"Congressional supporters of an environmentally and economically sound energy policy, accompanied by farmers across the United States, worked long and hard to ensure this vital incentive was preserved," Utlaut said. "We owe a particular debt of gratitude to a number of key policymakers whose drive and motivation ensured that sound public policy triumphed over politics.

"Chief among them are Sens. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) and Carol Moseley-Braun (D-IL), the original authors of the extension provision. We also appreciate the efforts of Sen. Kent Conrad (D-ND) and Reps. Jim Nussle (R-IA) and Kenny Hulshof (R-MO). They, along with Sen. Grassley, served on the conference committee that crafted the final details of the bill," Utlaut noted.

Utlaut also praised the co-chairs of the congressional Alcohol Fuels Caucus – Reps. David Minge (D-MN), Lane Evans (D-IL), Bill Barrett (R-NE) and Nussle – who worked long and hard to build bipartisan support for the ethanol extension. In addition, he cited the leadership of House Speaker Newt Gingrich (R-GA), House Minority Leader Dick Gephart (D-MO), Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott (R-MS) and Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle (D-SD), all of whom instrumental in ushering the extension through the legislative process. Finally, the backing of the Clinton administration, particularly Vice President Al Gore and Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman, was invaluable in assuring that the extension became a reality.

Utlaut also acknowledged the individual efforts of many thousands of corn growers and other ethanol supporters nationwide who have worked tirelessly to educate policy makers about ethanol's benefits to the economy, the environment and U.S. energy security. "Their letters, phone calls and meetings with elected officials obviously reaped rich dividends and proved the power of grassroots democracy," he said.

"This transportation bill will provide a tremendous boost to the domestic ethanol industry, an industry that creates jobs, boosts farm income, stimulates rural economies, cleans the air, saves taxpayers millions of dollars and it helps reduce our nation's dependence on imported oil," Utlaut said. "Inspired by this victory, the nation's corn farmers are more committed than ever to ensuring a long and viable future for this home-grown, renewable fuel."

Farmers Union Applauds Commitment To Ethanol

WASHINGTON, D.C. – National Farmers Union (NFU) applauded U.S. House Speaker Newt Gingrich for the recent appointment to a conference committee House members who support the ethanol tax incentive program.

The conference committee is charged with reaching a compromise on the House and Senate versions of the highway bill which extends ethanol tax incentives through 2007," said NFU President leland Swenson. 'We are extremely pleased with Speaker Gingrich's decision to appoint ethanol supports to the conference committee. Gingrich's action follows strong leadership for extension of the ethanol incentive by House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., and Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D.S.D."

Book Examines Weeds Of Northeast

DWIGHT LINGENFELTER
Penn State
Agronomy

This new book contains about 300 weed species that are common the the northeast region, from south to Virginia, north to Maine and souther Canada, and west to Ohio and Wisconsin. It contains weeds species from various groups including grasses, grass-like weeds, herbaceous broadleaves, and woody perennials.

This guide helps to identify species based on vegetative characteristics rather than floral features. many color photos and line drawings are included to provide additional help in identification.

A description of characteristics for each species is included, as well as other information on habitat, geographic distribution, potential toxicity problems, and similar species. This book also includes a vegetative key to the weeds, numerous identification tables, and a glossary.

"Weeds of the Northeast" by R.H. Uva, J.C. Neal, and J.M. DiTomaso, 1997, is published by Cornell University Press at a cost of $29.95 for a paperback and $60 for a cloth cover copy. To order, include a check or money order and send to Cornell University Press, P.O. Box 6525, ithaca, NY 14851-6525 or call (607) 277-2211 to oder.

This book is an excellent reference guide for weed identification and related practical information some species not found in other popular texts and is formatted in an easy-to-use layout.

that will provide the best yields at the best price.

Solanco Young Farmers think the found that optimum rate.

In several planting demonstrations involving grain and silage corn, the optimum population rate could be 30,000 seeds per acre. The best stands were planted this year at that rate, according to Ed Herrmann, adviser to the Solanco Young Farmer Association.

At a corn silage test plot at the Ed Zug farm in Peach Bottom, 12 companies provided seed on three acres of land. Zug, who has been doing test plots at his farm for about eight years, places about 10 tons of dairy manure to the acre.

The soil is conventionally tilled. Planting of the 23 varieties was done on April 30 this year in 36-inch row spacing at a seed rate of 30,000 per acre.

Zug said that herbicide and a 20-20-0 starter (150 pounds per acre of nitrogen) is banded in at planting. When corn is a foot height, he cultivates. At 16 inches of height, another herbicide application is applied with drop nozzles. Also, about a pound per acre of atrazine is used. Herbicides on the plot included six pounds per acre of Counter and 1½ quart per acre of Prowl (banded in row).

Last year, according to Herrmann, Zug harvested about 23 tons of silage per acre. During a field day in July this year, Herrmann noted the field test could yield 27-28 tons per acre.

At a nearby farm, the young farmers are looking at a grain plot involving 14 different companies. The corn results, including efficacy of herbicides and harvest, are evaluated at a special meeting this month.

At the Victor Brinton farm nearby, the test plot was planted no-till on April 30 this year. Spacing was at 30-inch rows at a seed rate of 29,000 per acre.

At the Eldora Station farm, Aztec insecticide was used at 7.6 pounds per acre. In addition, one quart of Prowl and 1½ quart of Atrazine per acre was used. A cleanup spray for burcucumber was applied, which included ½ pint of Banvil and 2,4-D as needed.

Also, 150 pounds per acre of 30-0-0 fertilizer was used. The ground receives 3,000 gallons of hog manure per acre.

Herrmann noted that sometimes cultivation pays off in terms of better standability. The conventionally tilled and cultivated silage corn at the Zug farm looked better than the no-tilled corn for grain at the Brinton farm, according to Herrmann.

This is the first time ever for a grain plot and the first time a no-till approach to corn was under test by the young farmers, noted Herrmann.

The results of the corn test plots will be evaluated during the fall and will help plan additional testing.

The plots were open all summer long for inspections by members of the association.

Grower Named State Winner In National Corn Contest

ST. LOUIS, Mo. – An area corn grower has been named a state winner in the 1997 National Corn Yield Contest 9NCYC), sponsored by the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA).

Matthew Maximuck of Doylestown placed second in the state in the a no-til non-irrigated class with a yield of 202.19 bushels per acre. The hybrid planted in the winning field was Dekalb DK618.

The local operations was one of 490 winners named out of a total of 3,318 entrants in nine classes in the 1997 contest. The 490 winners produced an average yield of 203/1 bushels per acre, or 17 bushels per acre higher than the 186-bushel average for all contest entrants. the average yield of all winners was 76 bushels per acre higher than the 1997 overall U.S. average corn yield of 127 bushels per acre.

Gettysburg Area Corn Growers Get Firsthand Look At 'Stacked Genes'

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — In the year 2001, corn growers may not be testing hybrids on a whirling space station, wearing Velcro shoes and wondering when the first moon shuttle will arrive, as, years ago, futurists predicted.

But a fascinating development is just as exciting: "stacked genes."

The stacked gene process is a method by which corn genetic engineers breed corn for traits to make it more resistant to pests and to herbicide treatments.

Someday soon growers could be using hybrids made from various manufacturers that incorporate not only

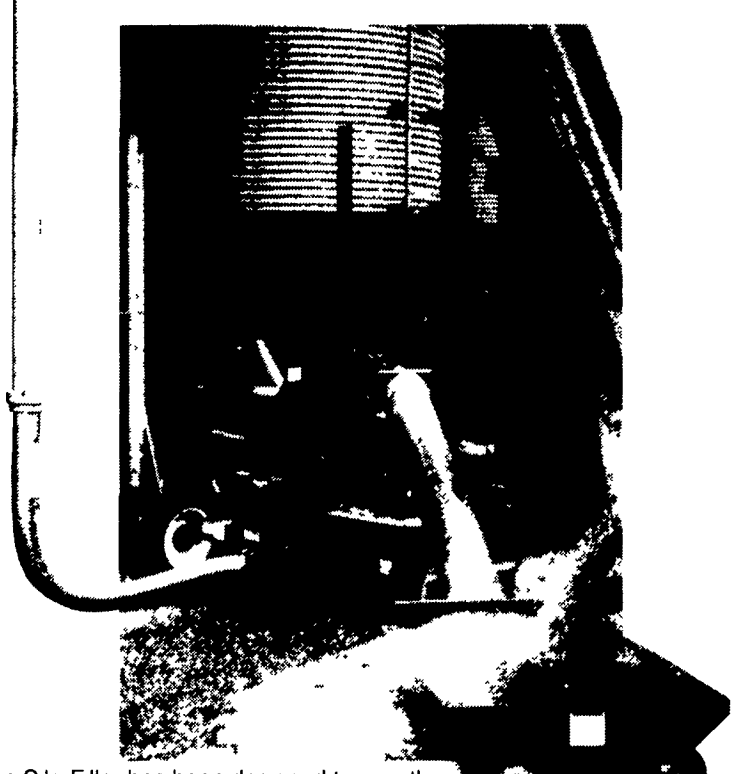
WALINGA

SILO-FILLER



The Silo-Filler has been designed to give the user maximum capacity, flexibility and product control. It does not actually "Throw" the product, but blows it gently, using a cushion of air. With the Walinga Silo-Filler, you simply dump from your truck or trailer directly into the hopper, and the transfer auger moves the product up and into the Drop-Thru / Blow-Thru Airlock. The blower then moves the product up the silo pipes. Ideal for blowing high moisture corn into silos, the Silo-Filler is compact, and can easily be moved from one location to another

Roundup Ready capability, but also incorporate genetic protection against both corn borer and corn rootworm.

Already some hybrids have been developed and are under university field testing at Penn State and elsewhere that have both Roundup Ready and corn borer protection built in.

Bt (which stands for Bacillus thuringiensis) varieties protect the corn plant from borer stalk and ear shank damage through a naturally occurring gene which destroys corn borers once they ingest it. Corn has been naturally selected and bred to contain the material to ward off the borer.

There are varieties available that "stack up" several genetic traits in one hybrid.

Adams County is home to about four different test plots of the stacked gene, Bt, Roundup Ready, and Liberty genetically enhanced corn varieties. Two companies, Dekalb and Northrup King, supplied the seeds for cooperating farms in the county.

Test plots were set up with

Hesston Forage Harvesters Model 7155S

It's no big secret that whole-stalk corn silage produces 40 to 50% more digestible energy over corn harvested as grain

The big secret is how economically and efficiently you can harvest it with a Hesston® 7155S Forage Harvester

More cutting power.

Designed for the average-sized livestock producer, this small machine packs a big punch. Its "straight-thru crop-flow" design puts more power into cutting, less into handling the crop. That means greater field efficiency year after year.

The 7155S easily handles tractor PTOs from 90 to 175 hp, and is available with 2-row corn silage header or 6-foot-wide hay pickup

Fingertip control.

Electro-hydraulic remote control puts harvesting functions at your fingertips, and the 1,000 rpm drive assures big capacity.

This season, make silage more efficiently and economically – with a new Hesston 7155S. See us today.

the help of the growers, seed dealers, and Penn State Extension Service to look at the genetically enhanced corn for the first time in the county.

Penn State is addressing the question: Are these hybrids going to be cost-effective on farms?

According to Larry A. Swartz, Adams County dairy and crops agent, "It's nice to have Bt corn, but the question that we want to answer is, does the benefit of Bt corn justify the extra seed cost for the producer?"

There was evidence, here, of feeding on the stalk, and other damage from the larvae.

In late June and early July this year, Larry visited several of the farms with the test plots to determine the extent of first generation corn borer damage.

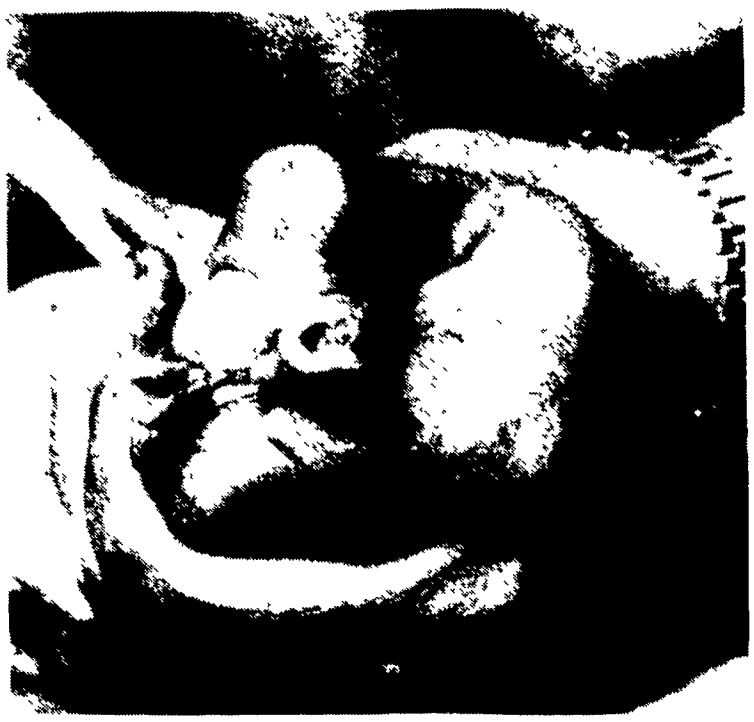
What he concluded: despite the predictions for additional damage from overwintering larvae, the conventional hybrids have not been drastically affected by corn borer populations. They have seen, according to Swartz, some damage from first generation corn borer.

More on the results, including yield data, will be collected in the following months. The data will be presented at several meetings during the winter, including the Adams County Corn Growers Day on Monday, Jan. 25 at the York Springs Fire Hall and at the Cumberland County Corn Growers meeting on Thursday, Jan. 28, at the Huntsdale Fire Hall.

Much of the corn was planted early to late May. If the corn will be affected by corn borer, the first generation will attack it in late June, feeding on the yet-to-emerge leaves that are still in the whorl.

In early September, Swartz again scouted several of the fields under study to determine the extent of the corn borer damage. What he found included the typical "shotgun-like" feeding at the "whorl stage" (three feet high) on leaves, damage to the core of the stalks, feeding on the ear

(Turn to Page 12)



There was some feeding damage on the non-Bt corn from second generation borer. The borer chews into the stalk, leaving residue on the outside, and can move up or down, feeding away, at the center of the stalk. When the stalks turn dry in the fall, they can break — this can have a huge effect on grain and silage yields.

Some kernels were eaten by the borer at the plots.

shank, and other damage from the larvae.

The feeding can affect corn nutrient uptake (causing a purpling of the upper stalk), can introduce fungus and other diseases, and can also, more importantly, cause the ears to drop and fall off as a result of damage to the ear shank.

The Bt varieties, however, remained largely unaffected by the borer. Most stands looked healthy.

For the grower who is producing grain, the Bt varieties could mean enormous savings in terms of less lodged corn and unharvested ears. But for silage producers, the advantages of paying the extra premium for the transgenic corn may be questionable.

"Is there an economic advantage to paying extra dollars for Bt seed corn?" Swartz said. "My guess is that, in some years, it will pay off and some it won't."

The reasons: there are a lot of variables in the growing season, including weather, soil conditions, pest and weed load, variety selection, and other concerns that could affect the yield.

One of several test areas across the state, the Bt and non-Bt comparisons will shed some light about how yield is affected and the quality of grain that is produced.

This year has been a year of stark contrasts compared to 1997. Rainfall came at critical times, including silking and ear growth, in mid-summer to help the crop along.

"We've had adequate moisture," said Swartz. "We had a lot of rainfall in the spring. Though we could use some right now." Conditions were droughty for most growers throughout the state last growing season.

Swartz said, during the days he scouted in September, that "the crops looks good for the most part — a lot better than last year." The test plots involved several that were no-till. One has been no-tilled the past nine years.

Most of the Bt varieties controlled the corn borer. There were also check plots planted to non-Bt corn.

On one 200-acre farm (about half in corn) managed by Tom Oyler in Gettysburg, the soil has been no-tilled continuously for eight years. The fields make use of Roundup Read and Bt, some in stacked configurations, on the test plots. The corn stood at 9-10 feet high.

There was some feeding damage on the non-Bt corn from second generation borer. The borer chews into the stalk, leaving residue on the outside, and can move up or down, feeding away, at the center of the stalk. When the stalks turn dry in the fall, they can break or lodge. This downed corn can have a significant effect on grain yields.

In other fields on different test sites, there was shank damage caused to corn, which caused the ears to droop and fall off prematurely — this can also significantly affect grain yield.

Also, some ears on other plots showed evidence of feeding, around the husk and, in some cases, right into the kernels.

The corn was planted mid-May. It was the third year the field was planted to corn.

On the farm operated by Lee Horst in Gettysburg, about 126 acres are in corn and about 133 acres in beans. This is the first year that Horst has used Bt corn.

This year they planted about 22 acres in Bt corn, including some Roundup Ready Bt. Horst noted he is looking at applications at his farm for the "stacked gene" varieties.

The Horsts, including Lee's son Arvin, use minimum till (chisel plow) and use turkey manure. They obtain their manure from a 10,000-bird operation under contract for Wampler.

Lee noted that there could be a 7-14 bushel per acre differential between using or not using Bt corn for grain.

Because of the mild winter, Horst expected a lot of overwintering of the insect, but noted "this year doesn't look any worse than any other year." The Horsts, last year, harvested about 40 bushels of corn per acre as a result of the drought conditions.

This year, they could harvest about 150 bushels per acre.

At the Richard Adams farm in Gettysburg, some second-generation corn borer damage was evident. Some ear shank damage was evident and sections of ears were eaten by the borer.

The Adams farm had 16 rows of Bt and 16 of non-Bt hybrids in a replicated format.

This is the first-time that Bt was used on the dairy. The corn was planted the third Saturday in May.

Richard noted that he, along with brother Ed, farm about 120 acres of corn, some for cash grain. They have about 100 cows on the dairy.

Growers should examine the tradeoffs for cost versus need and see if Bt varieties could be used on their farm.

For growers, Swartz said, "If you've had good luck with a certain variety, maybe you could use non-Bt variety," he said. "Does it justify a corn grower to spend more money for Bt corn?"

Additional research may tell.

In other fields on different test sites, there was shank damage caused to corn, which caused the ears to droop and fall off — this can also significantly effect grain yield.

President's Message

Chris Kimmel

$4.5 billion to total net farm income.

The NCGA has also been working for the corn growers for strong trade policies, water quality issues, deficiency air programs, and research.

The PMCGA has many activities going. We have printed a one-sheet handout about Pennsylvania corn. These are available if your would like to hand some out at meetings or banquets.

For this winter there are two corn conferences planned. The first one is at the Mercer extension office on Dec. 18, from 8:30 a.m. - 3 p.m. The second meeting is Jan. 15 at the Days Inn Conference Center in Foglesville from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. The two meetings are different and I would encourage you to attend them.

Information on the meetings are in Corn Talk. There will be lots of grower information, with the intent of helping you, the producer, at the meetings.

I hope you have a good and safe harvest.

THE KEY TO EARLY SEED GERMINATION

You start with a simple, dependable row unit design with easy adjustments that give you exact depth control, and the most ideal seed-to-soil contact possible At KINZE we call it "Precision Placement" Simply put, it's the toughest, most dependable system in the field today

How does it work? At the exact point of seed placement, 15" double disc openers and dual gauge wheels combine to mold a clean, consistent V-formed seed trench at a pre-set depth Trailing V-closing wheels then securely press the seed trench walls on each side of the seed for positive seed-to-soil contact, virtually eliminating air pockets and leaving a loose "hill" of soil on top of the seed It's the ideal environment for the emerging seeding

Each row unit is independently adjustable for depth and down pressure Spring-loaded parallel arms give you all the flexibility you need Down pressure? Your choice Standard, quick-adjustable dual springs for conventional planting, or quad springs (shown right) for conservation tillage Each with four positions so you can set the unit's down force for your conditions

Ag Progress Demonstrates Corn Harvesting Equipment

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Kernel processing, fast and more efficient silage harvesting, and even methods to get improved fresh market sweet corn ears into the wagon were highlights of two Ag Progress demonstrations.

During Ag Progress Days in August, a couple of companies introduced corn silage harvesters to a crowd of several hundred visitors to the Rockspring research site.

Afterward, one company put on a show of a sweet corn picker and demonstrated the technology to a crowd of about 45 vegetable growers and agri-industry representatives.

Lynn Hoffman, Penn State agronomist, provided information about the corn hybrid planted at the demonstration area and introduced two corn silage harvesters.

The harvesters included new corn kernel processing technology to allow improved ensiling, which creates better dry matter feed for livestock. The processor, in essence, crimps, cracks, and shreds the kernel to allow improved digestibility for animals.

The corn was planted on 30-inch rows no-tilled on May 15.

The two harvesters demonstrated to the crowd included one that uses a rotating blade and the other with a conventional chopping silage head.

The material was a couple of weeks early to ensile, noted Hoffman, because the corn was at the milking stage with too high moisture in the corn. If the corn was planted in early May instead, the kernel breaking process could have been better demonstrated, he noted.

Visitors were allowed to see how the corn was chopped and loaded into wagons at the site.

In a separate demonstration, sweet corn growers were provided information on several varieties of bicolor sweet corn planted both no-till and conventionally tilled. The demonstration at the test plots was on a corn picker by a company based in Wisconsin.

The no-till plot was planted May 15 and the conventionally tilled plot was planted May 18, according to Tom Murphy, Lycoming County extension agent. For both plots, a preplant fertilizer with 400 pounds 34-0-0 was used. A sidedressing of 100 pounds of 10-30-10 was also added. About 150 pounds per acre of nitrogen altogether were applied.

In addition, several weed and insect control applications were used.

The no-till plot was planted into rye stubble and hairy vetch. The same applications were applied.

The corn picker draws the stalk into an area that pinches the corn and pulls it off, similar to how it is done by hand in the field.

According to several growers, the challenge is coming up with a machine that can differentiate between useful, marketable ears and those that won't sell on the auction block or at the farm market.

Varieties need to be planted, if using the picker, that mature at the same time.

Also, according to an equipment demonstrator, growers need to consider several factors before deciding to pay about $26,500 for the machine, including materials and labor cost and sweet corn market prices, before deciding on the cost effectiveness of the picker compared to hand-picking.

The growers had a chance to look into the wagon at the sweet corn picked by the harvester. Many noted that the sweet corn ear size was sufficient.

after three years of tests showed that not only could corn be planted as early as mid-April, but some of the best yields came from crops planted in April.

Some of the early experiments also searched for the right combination of seeds and soils.

"We had a method where we'd run four sections with 12 or 14 hybrids staggered to get away from soil problems," Rumbaugh said.

In those years farmers could have good crop yield seasons and bad crop yield seasons. Rumbaugh remembers one year when the corn was well ahead of "knee-high by the Fourth of July." However, the rest of that summer turned to dust, and the crop produced only about eight bushels an acre.

Rumbaugh remembers that he was harrowing oats one spring day when his wife told him some gentlemen in State College had telephoned. They wanted to form a state corn growers association, and they knew Rumbaugh from his early work on running the corn test plots with the extension service. They asked him to lead the foundling association and he agreed, serving for three years as the first president of PMCGA.

Dr. Joe McGahen, a retired professor emeritus of Penn State University's College of Agriculture whose specialty was crop production, was one of the men who encouraged Rumbaugh in his experiments.

"I visited his farm. That was my position at the time — to visit corn producers throughout the state" as the extension service's corn specialist for Pennsylvania, McGahen said. "We had this corn program — the one-acre corn contest — but I didn't like the connotation of a contest. I thought there were more benefits than just a contest."

According to McGahen, Rumbaugh was instrumental in getting other farmers in Armstrong and Indiana counties to participate. The program went from being a contest to a study that looked at the cultural practices of producing corn.

CORN TALK NEWS
PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

The real educational part of their cooperation was that the farmers got together for a "crops day."

"People were talking with their neighbors about what they did with their crops," McGahen said.

Results of seed experiments were shared with association members, and awards were presented each year to top growers. Originally the association's prizes were awarded at the state Farm Show, Rumbaugh said.

Rumbaugh himself is the proud owner of one of those trophies. In one of the first years of competition he was named the corn growing champion with a five-acre average yield of 170.7 bushels per acre using Pioneer 3773 — a yield that would be more than respectable even today.

"And this isn't prime corn-growing country here," he said.

In the early days Rumbaugh's family operated a poultry business on the farm and grew corn for chicken feed. Later they also raised sheep and Angus cattle.

But today the Rumbaughs are strictly crop farmers — "deer and groundhogs" are the only livestock on his farm, Rumbaugh said — and this season they're growing oats and hay in addition to about 90 acres of corn.

They sell their crops mainly to neighboring hog and cattle farmers. A small amount of their hay has been sold for mulch in Armstrong County's underground mushroom farms, and in past years some of their hay fed thoroughbreds at The Meadows harness racing track in Washington County.

The Rumbaugh experimental corn plots have been posted with signs advertising the use of Pioneer Funk Agway, Doebler's, and other brands of seeds as the Rumbaughs searched for the right combination of seed and soil types that produce the highest yields.

Another big change in corn growing has been the trend toward no-till land preparation.

"I've been no-tilling for quite a few years. It's worked out pretty good for me," Rumbaugh said.

He and his son have also found success with a crop rotation of three years of corn followed by one year of oats, using contour strips to arrest soil erosion and doing whatever has to be done to control weeds.

Rumbaugh's interest in corn and general agriculture issues has also kept him busy outside of his farm. He has traveled often to Washington, D.C. as a member of the association's national legislative committee, and he remains active on legislative committees with the state Grange and his local Dayton, Grange.

Rumbaugh also served as the president of the Armstrong County Agricultural Extension Association from 1953-1955 and was on the association's executive committee from 1949-1978.

"We are not a noted corn county," retired extension agent King said. "But we had a few people here who were really up at the front, and they looked to George for leadership."

Rumbaugh Works On Leading Edge

DAYTON, (Armstrong Co.) — Dr. Greg Roth, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA), described George Rumbaugh, the organization's first president, as the type of farmer the association is interested in having as members: He's progressive, willing to try new ideas, and work on the leading edge of new technology.

"Rumbaugh's experience on the board has left him with an appreciation of what the organization has been trying to do," Roth said. And Rumbaugh has been politically active, not just for the

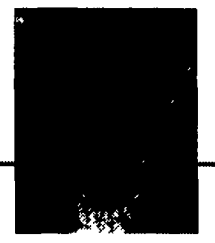
PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOCIATION

Between The Rows



Dr. Greg Roth
Penn State Agronomy Associate Professor

The curtain is closing on another season and it was another learning experience for most corn growers this year. As this season draws to an end, lets take time to take one look back at some interesting events of 1998 and one look to the future.

First a look back. Although we had a rough start, fortunately, for many it turned out to be a good year after all. This year reinforced one concept that I have grown to find true — corn can often overcome ugly conditions in the early season to do rather well. I saw one field where part or the filed got all of its nitrogen at planting, before "the rain" in early May. Another part of the field didn't get any nitrogen until late May.

In early June, the part of the field that got nitrogen was vigorous and dark green and the later fertilized corn was pale and short.

When I returned in August, I was surprised to find the situation had completely reversed. now the corn that got nitrogen after the rain was tall and dark green was going to win the yield contest in the field.

The take-home message — don't let early season appearance totally dominate your management decisions. In this case, the best option probably would have been to split the nitrogen into two applications to get the best of both works — good early season growth and late season nitrogen availability.

I was also impressed with a number of examples of appropriate and successful uses of new technology. Here are a few I saw this year.

One group we worked with wanted to grow corn with a minimum of residual pesticides at the request of they landlord. They killed an alfalfa sod i the fall and followed with Roundup Ready corn in the spring. Weed pressure was low and single Roundup application and no insecticide did the trick.

Another example I encountered was when two of my colleagues modified their planter to have both a frame-mounted no-till coulter followed by row cleaners. The result appeared to be great stands in high residue fields and more consistent success than they had with the row cleaners alone.

I took my own advice and stuck a few Bt hybrids in one of my late planted population test plots along with several good non-Bt hybrids. Corn bore pressure in this field was significant and the Bt hybrids were showing their trademark excellent standability while others were lodging by late September.

And now for a look forward. The new plateau for grain prices that some predicted was on the horizon has never materialized. In fact, it appears we have gone to the valley floor instead. Current corn prices will likely mean some belt-tightening in the season ahead.

As you go through the though the thought process of those things you are going to cut back on, be careful. Remember to still prioritize those inputs that we know are cost effective and have a solid payback. Quality seed, weed control, nitrogen, lime and insecticide (where necessary) are fundamental inputs to bank on. When investing in new technology, put it to work where you'll see the biggest return.

Also look carefully at some fixed cost decisions. Can equipment be shared or used for custom operation Can a good servicing make equipment last another year before replacement? Also look hard at the economics on high priced or low yielding ground.

Try to keep a positive attitude. Keep in mind that low cost commodity producers are those who generally prevail. And remember, as I recently saw on the Internet, the best cure for low prices is low prices.

association, but on other issues affecting farmers.

According to Roth, the association today has three main functions: to share production information, create better corn markets, and to educate the public about issues facing corn growers.

The Pennsylvania association is an affiliate of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA). The state association sponsors the five-acre Corn Club that receives about 150 entries each year for its yield contests, and sponsors a couple of conferences each year with outside speakers.

About nine billion bushels of corn are grown in America each year, Roth said. Of that total, five billion bushels are used for livestock feed, two billion bushels are exported, and about one billion bushels are used for industrial purposes. Approximately 600 million bushels are used in the production of ethanol, which the association considers to be a domestic, renewable source of energy.

The state association has 310 members.

Researchers Write Roadmap To Renewable Future

ST. LOUIS, Mo. – Working under the auspices of the Renewable Vision 2020, nearly 100 of the country's top scientific minds joined together recently to tackle a single problem — how do we replace petroleum-based chemicals with plants as the main "building blocks" upon which the material needs of our society are met?

The end result of their efforts will be a technology roadmap endorsed by the agricultural, forestry, and chemical industries alike, that will be equally accepted by both public and private researchers in setting research and development priorities. Initiated in 1995 and led by the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) and the U.S. Department of Energy, the purpose of the Renewable Vision 2020 effort is to replace 10 percent of all petroleum-based chemicals with plant-based, renewable resources by the year 2020, and 50 percent by 2050.

"This is very important work we're doing. So many people don't understand that petroleum doesn't just fuel our cars,: observes workshop attendee Al Cotter, a corn grower from Minnesota and a member of an NCGA Corn Action Team. "Petroleum is the base chemical used in the production of nearly all plastics, the synthetic fibers in clothing, paints and stains, inks and fast food containers and so many more of the materials thins we enjoy.

"For all economic purposes, fossil fuel supplies will run out over the next 20 to 30 years. If that happens before we've found economically viable replacements, it will seriously threaten the economic growth, healthy standards of living, and strong economic security Americans now enjoy."

Plants are one of the most promising replacements for petroleum because plants are more readily abundant and renewable, cut costs, require less energy and produce less waste in the production of consumer goods.

"Believe it or not, there is actually more carbon—or energy—in a 'barrel' of corn than in a barrel of oil, but we can't tap into and use that energy today," said Cotter, a former manager who worked in research, engineering and manufacturing for the 3-M Company. "So you can see how this effort makes not only good environmental sense, but good economic sense to companies looking for healthy returns for their stockholders."

The technology roadmap represents an important intermediate step in the efforts of the Renewables Vision 2020 coalition.

Step one was the development of the "Plant/Crop-Based Renewable Resources 2020" document which outlined the coalition's vision and goals. In February, companies, Associations and government agencies signed a historic agreement in support of the vision.

The second and current step is the preparation of a technology roadmap for use by government and industry in setting R & D priorities. The NCGA and DOE will create the roadmap based upon the discussions of these workshops.Upon completion, it will become a "living" document, that can change and grow as new discoveries and research breakthroughs are made.

The final step will the be actual research and business development efforts that will make renewable technologies and products a reality.

For more information on the Renewable Vision or a copy 2020 or a copy of the "Plant/Crop-Based Renewable Resources 2020" document, contract the NCGA at (314) 275-9915 or visit its web site at http://www.ncga.com.

Corn, Soybean Conference in Fogelsville Jan. 15

FOGELSVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — The 1999 Corn and Soybean Conference is scheduled here at the Days Inn on Jan. 15.

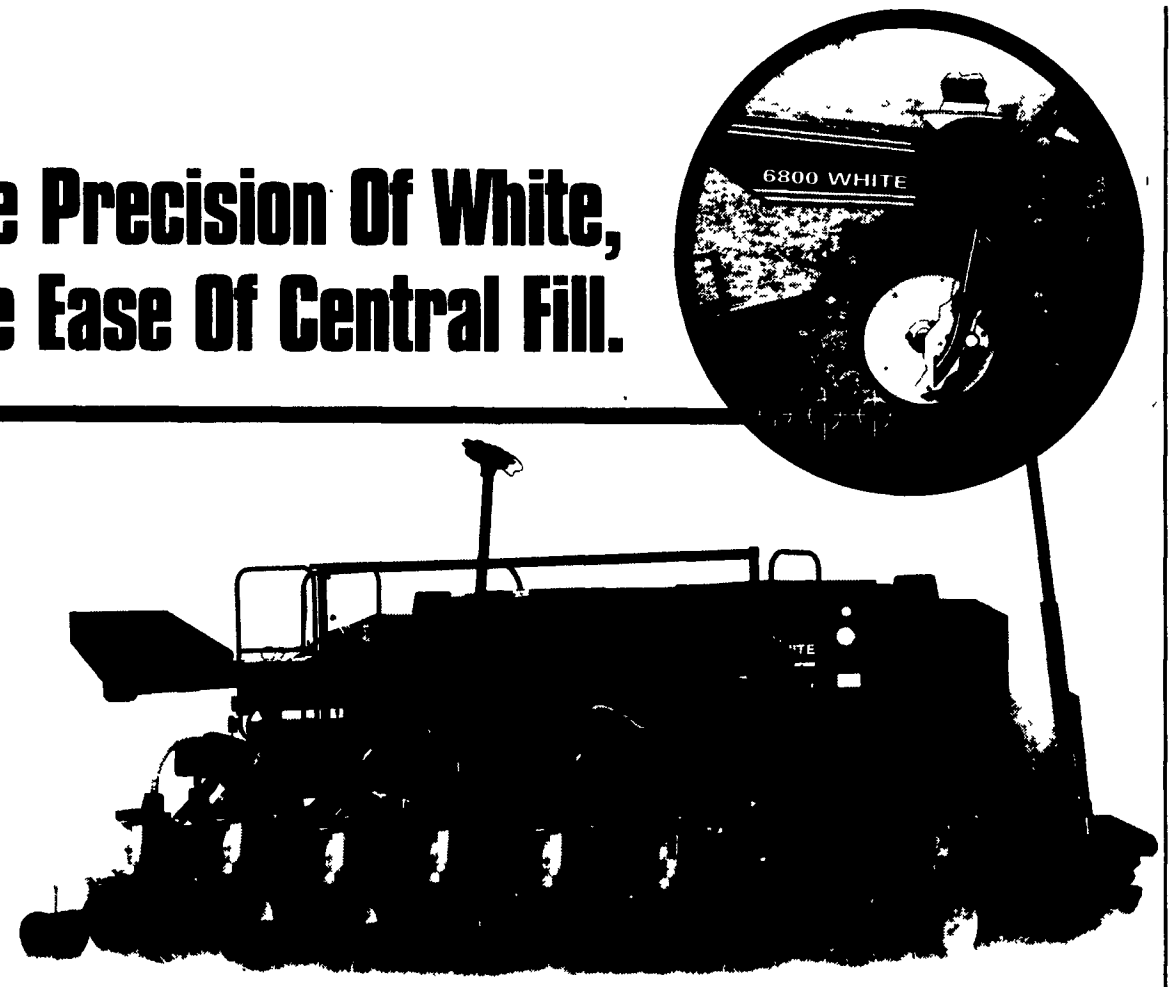
This year's program will feature a variety of timely topics on key issues that corn and soybean growers faced in 1998: graining marketing, soil health, the potential of precision farming, and some key ideas for improving corn and soybean management.

A variety of age exhibitors will also be on hand for the event. Fire Acre Corn Club Awards and Soybean Yield Contest Awards will also be presented during the program.

A variation in this year's program will be that it will be followed by an all-day program on grain marketing the following day, Saturday, Jan. 16.

The Days Inn is located in Fogelsville, west of Allentown on Rt. 78. For information on registration for either conference or exhibiting, contact Greg Solt at the Northhampton county extension office, (610) 746-1970.

The Precision Of White, The Ease Of Central Fill.



The 6800 Series Central Fill Planters.

With the White 6800 Series planters, you get accurate seed placement, precise depth control, narrow row spacing, and central fill convenience in one planter. Its unique rigid frame positions row units at 30" for corn and 15" for soybeans and 10" for soybeans, wheat and other seed. The convenient seed meter control lets you adjust the seeding rate as you go, matching seed population to the yield potential of the soil.

Up to three gangs of row units power through thick, standing stalks and other heavy residue, while accurately and gently placing seed in the ground. A large, 35 bushel, single seed hopper is quicker to fill than individual row units, and it's more cost-efficient.

To see how your operation can benefit from the most advanced planting system available, stop by your AGCO® White Planter dealer today.

Narrow-Row Corn Studies Focus On Hybrid Type, Planting Date

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Narrow-row corn can show improved yield performance in some silage and grain studies conducted recently over two years here at the Penn State Southeast Research and Extension Center.

In late August a field day to look at two projects, one involving narrow-row corn and another Bt corn, provided some interesting findings.

According to Greg Roth, Penn State corn specialist and a project coordinator, there is a complex relationship between narrow rows and the selection of the correct hybrid and planting date.

In their 1997 study, Penn State researchers found that responses to narrow-row (15-inch row spacing) corn were improved when using an upright leafed hybrid, with a high plant population and a later planting date.

According to Roth, in 15-inch rows, the upright leaf captures more of the normally "wasted" sunlight that falls between conventional, 30-inch rows. Also, corn planted early in 1997 and again this year showed some moisture stress and some drought effects, and selecting a hybrid to control that type of stress could do a lot to improve yields.

The researchers noted that these studies have been consistent over two years, but many factors, including the weather, would affect the results for different growers.

Roth indicated there were four planting dates comparing the conventional 30-inch rows to the narrow-row corn: April 29, May 18, June 1, and June 18 this year. Each was planted to approximately 32,000 seeds per acre.

The seed spacing was approximately 12 inches apart on the 15-inch rows and about 6 inches on the 30-inch rows.

In 1997, two corn hybrids, an upright leafed and a normal leafed hybrid, were planted in 15- or 30-inch rows either at 27,000 or 32,000 plants per acre on similar dates: April 29, May 14, May 29, and June 16. Each plot was replicated four times.

Silage yields were sampled when the crop reached approximately 40 percent dry matter.

In general, the results showed there was a slight yield advantage to the later hybrid. There was a trend for slightly higher silage yields with the higher plant population and for narrow rows.

The effect of planting date was also significant. Yields were reduced with delayed planting compared to the April planting date.

Is Starter Fertilizer Necessary For Corn?

DOUG BEEGLE
Extension Specialist
Penn State

One of the most common questions recently is when do I need to use a starter fertilizer for corn?

Starter fertilizer is usually most effective in cold, wet soils where nutrient release and root growth are slow. These conditions limit the ability of the seedling plant, whit it's small root system, to get enough nutrients to get off to a good start. This is especially critical for an immobile nutrient critical for an immobile nutrient like phosphorus.

Starter fertilizer provides the seedling plant with a supply of easily available nutrients until it can establish an adequate root system and the soil conditions improve. Then, if the soil has good fertility, the plant will be able to take care of itself. The starter will have done it's job.

The decision about whether a starter is necessary will depend on two main factors, the fertility level of the soil and the conditions at and immediately following planting. It is recommended that a starter always be used on soils which test low, especially for phosphorus. On soils with optimum to high fertility levels, this decision will depend more on the conditions.

If the corn is being planted early in cold, wet conditions, and it will be cold and wet for a while after planting, it is likely that a starter fertilizer will be beneficial. However, if the corn is planted on soils with optimum or higher fertility, and the soils are warm and will likely stay warm, starter fertilizer will provide little or no benefit.

Starter fertilizers rarely provide a benefit on soils that test high or excessive unless the conditions at and immediately following planting are very adverse.

There are several important management considerations for starter fertilizer.

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

The first consideration is the starter fertilizer material. Any good complete fertilizer which contains at least nitrogen and phosphorus will work as a starter fertilizer. Avoid materials containing urea. The physical form of the fertilizer, whether it is a blend, granulated complete fertilizer, or a fluid fertilizer does not make a difference in starter performance.

The second consideration is the rate of starter fertilizer. If the fertility level of a soil is good, then only a small amount of starter is required. Usually, 100 pounds of starter per acre is more than adequate. At low soil fertility levels the rate can be increased to meet more of the needs of the crop. However, the maximum rate should not exceed a total of 70 pounds of nitrogen plus potash applied per acre.

The final consideration is placement. The key to starter fertilizer performance is to place it where it is easily accessible by the limited root system of the seedling plant. Thus it should be placed near to the seed and preferably below the seed for best results.

Narrow-Row Corn Studies

Compared to conventional rows, yields were increased by an average of 0.9 tons per acre when the population was increased in the narrow rows. As planting was delayed, there was an increased response to narrow row spacing. This may have been due to "improved light interception," based upon Penn State's findings.

This may be important in areas where corn is planted double-cropped after hay or barley, according to Roth.

According to Bob Anderson, Lancaster crops agent who participated in the study, narrow row corn planted later allowed the crops to canopy over earlier.

During the field day in August, growers had a chance to "eyeball" the crops to see the effects of the normal compared to the upright leafed hybrids and the effects of planting both conventional and narrow-row corn.

Research has found that grain yields improve generally by about 5 percent when using narrow row corn. Silage yields improve about 10-15 percent when using narrow rows.

In the studies, row spacing and plant population had no significant effects on forage quality.

The challenge facing growers, according to Roth, includes selecting the right types of planting and harvesting equipment.

Anderson noted that it is relatively easy to obtain planters for narrow-row corn, but harvesting equipment is only slowly coming into the hands of growers.

The large silage operators and the smaller custom harvesting businesses will be the first to see the benefits of narrow-row corn, noted Roth. Roth noted that harvesting equipment technology is slowly adapting to the demand for use on narrow-row corn.

Price-Sensitive Corn Growers to Pursue Grassroots Trade Campaign

DENVER, Colo. – The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) met here last week to discuss four serious "can'ts" confronting corn growers preparing for this fall's harvest: can't sell, can't export, can't ship, and can't store.

Corn Growers nationwide are deeply concerned about near record-low corn pieces, drops in world demand for U.S. corn, high carry over stocks, and worrisome forecasts that critical rail transportation will be unable to meet harvest shipping demands.

NCGA's Corn Congress met Aug. 27-28 to determine immediate action growers nationwide should take to deliver a strong and clear message regarding global competitiveness and trade concerns which impact grower profitability to political leaders in Washington.

NCGA will coordinate a comprehensive grassroots campaign to address these critical shortfalls. "NCGA's strategy is to call for important legislative and policy solutions that can remedy current low price concerns," said NCGA President Ryland Utlaut from Grand Pass, Mo.

Trade policy, according to Utlaut, is a top priority that Washington must address immediately if farmers are to survive globally. "Since last fall, corn exports for the 1997 crop have fallen 550 million bushels, which significantly was also when Congress failed to pass fast track authorization for the next President to negotiate new, better agreements," noted Utlaut.

CORN TALK NEWS
PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

Without fast track authority, most nations will not negotiate with the United States for fear they will then have to go back and renegotiate with the entire Congress. "I don't blame them. The fact of the matter is that our bread and butter is linked to international trade," Utlaut said, "If we are locked out of foreign markets, or if international monetary conditions keep our product uncompetitive, then corn growers are left twisting in the wind."

NCGA's immediate priority is to influence Congress and responsible government agencies to pursue sound and strong trade policy objectives, which include:

- Passage of fast track and International Monetary Fund (IMF) support which are both scheduled for deliberation in late September.
- Meaningful trade sanctions reform, streamlining biotech trade approval policies, World Trade Organization (WTO) negotiations, Foreign Market Development (FMD) and Market Access Program (MAP) funding.
- Equally sound and strong domestic solutions like crop insurance reform, flexible loan policy and Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPS) to provide more timely relief.
- In the area of grain transportation, NCGA is calling for enactment of a Federal Emergency Preparedness Plan, emergency repeal of the Jones Act, passage of the Water Resources Development Act (WRDA), and close monitoring of the nation's railroads to ensure adequate service.

"This ambitious plan takes advantage of our proven grass-roots capability, but we can't do it alone," said Utlaut. "The outcome great-of these workshops.Upon completion, it will become a "living" document, that can change and grow as new discoveries and research breakthroughs are made.

The final step will the be actual research and business development efforts that will make renewable technologies and products a reality.

MGPA Welcomes Challenge Event

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

EDGEWATER, Md. – In June, the Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA) hosted a press event to welcome the Ethanol Vehicle Challenge teams from 14 competing universities and colleges nationwide.

The challenge —sponsored by the General Motors, US Department of Energy (DOE), and Natural Resources Canada — hopes to spur automotive technology toward clean, renewable fuel.

The goals of the challenge are three-fold, according to Bob Larsen of Argonne National Laboratory and project coordinator for the event. "We're trying to attack technology barriers that prevent dedicated ethanol vehicles from competing with conventional automotive technologies. We're training automotive engineers that will be the future of this industry. Technology is worthless without those who know how to use it. And finally, we're raising visibility of ethanol as a clean alternative fuel."

The State of Maryland has operated E85 85 percent ethanol, 15 gasoline) flexible fueled vehicle (FFVs) since last year. FFVs can operate on any combination of ethanol up to 85 percent or gasoline. The E85 FFVs were purchased by federal and state agencies to comply with the Energy Policy Act of 1992 (EPACT).

Charles "Jamie" Jamison, on behalf of the MGPA, indicated that the association is committed to placing refueling infrastructure where adequate vehicles are stationed. "We need the cooperative of the state to place sufficient vehicles into a refueling area to justify Maryland's first E85 station. We hope to open a E85 station in the state by the end of the year."

Maryland agriculture has benefited from the national fuel ethanol program since its inception in the early '70s, according to Pat McMillian, director of Intergovernmental relations for the Maryland Department of Agriculture. "Corn sold to produce ethanol in the Midwest raises the price of corn sold in Maryland by $0.45 per bushel. On average, we sell 45 million bushes of corn per year. This equates to about $20 million annually for the state," said McMillan. He also thanked the students for contributing technology to help America meets its energy goals.

The competition, which began at the General Motors Proving Grounds in Milford, Mich., ended as the motorcade arrived at the nation's capitol for the DOE Clean Cities Conference. During an awards banquet held in the Cannon House Office Building on Capitol Hill, the following awards were presented: 1st place - Wayne State University, Michigan, 2nd place - university of Waterloo, Ontario, Canada, 3rd place - University of Illinois, Chicago, 4th place - University of California, Riverside, 5th place Cedarville College, Ohio, and 6th place - Illinois Institute of Technology.

Free Bag Of Seed Corn For Corn Growers With 3-Year Membership

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA) is conducting a Membership Incentive Program (MIP) in conjunction with a number of seed corn companies.

The MIP with seed corn company sponsorship will entitle any corn grower who plants at least five acres of corn to a free bag of seed corn (standard size) with a three-year membership in PMCGA/NCGA.

This program applies to all three-year memberships, new or renewal. To participate, complete the membership form and select the brand of seed corn you would like to try.

The theme of the program is "Try Something New." PMCGA hopes you will use this opportunity to experiment and not just get a bag of free seed corn.

You will receive a certificate from PMCGA for a free bag of seed corn from the company you selected. You will make the final decision about which hybrid to receive in consultation with the local seed corn dealer for the company you selected.

PMCGA member benefits include Corn Talk, Corn Farmer (a successful farming magazine), Pennsylvania five-acre Corn Club, copies of the "PA Commercial Corn Hybrid Test Results," National Corn Growers Association updates, Annual Pennsylvania Crops Conference, and a strong voice in issues facing corn growers.

Ethanol Tax Incentive To Benefit Producers

WASHINGTON, D.C. – producers and consumers alike will benefit from Congress' decision to extend tax incentives to blenders of ethanol through 2007, according to National Farmers Union (NFU).

"NFU is extremely pleased with the strong support for ethanol tax incentives demonstrated by members of Congress in last week's passage of the highway bill," said Toms Buis, NFU vice president of government relations. "This is extremely good news for grain producers and for rural communities that make ethanol."

The final bill, which included the ethanol tax incentive language, passed in May by a 297-86 margin in the House and by a 88-5 margin in the Senate. it extends the ethanol blenders tax incentive--currently at 5.4 cents per gallon--through 2007, reducing it to 5.1 cents per gallon by 2005. President Bill Clinton has said he will sign the bill.

Here Are Some Steps To Produce, Market Quality Corn Grain

GREG ROTH
Penn State Agronomy Associate Professor

The first step to becoming a reliable quality corn supplier is to become proficient at assessing grain quality. Have a good idea of what constitutes quality grain and how to measure it. Monitor grain quality during harvest. if necessary, segregate low and high quality grain before storage.

Estimate your grain quality before you market it and know the requirements of your markets. The requirements of grain buyers vary, however, so it is important to understand the specific needs of your market.

For some markets, requirements may be rather lax, for others standards may be rigid.

Common grain quality factors that are monitored for corn are moisture, bushel weight, damaged kernels, broke corn, and foreign material (BCFM), odor, visual appearance, stones, weed seeds, and insects. Understand market requirements will help you to target markets that will give you the best price for your grain and will help to avoid load rejections.

Consider purchasing a test weight cup, moisture tester, sieve, and six foot grain probe to monitor grain quality. learn to sample trucks effectively to obtain a representative grain sample. Grain samples are typically obtained by probing containers or sampling flowing grain. never use a dipped sample for assessing quality of a load of grain.

The next step to improving corn quality is to adjust management to improve grain quality. Below are listed a few factors that can influence corn quality:

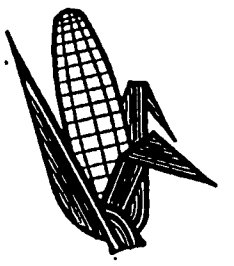
•Crop maturity. This is often most influenced by hybrid maturity and planting dates. Work hard to get full-season hybrids planted earl and avoid depending too much on full-season hybrids for your area. Monitor hybrid maturity level sin the field and avoid those that regularly are frosted before 3/4 milk line.

•Hybrids. Hybrids vary in test weight. Consult with your seed supplier regarding grain quality characteristics if your markets dictate high levels of quality. Monitor the test weight of your hybrids during harvest. Hybrids may also vary in susceptibility to ear molds, which can cause mycotoxin and other quality problems. Hybrid variation also occurs in oil, protein and other nutritional traits that my bring a premium in the market.

•Weed control. Poor weed control can introduce potentially toxic wee seeds into the grain. It also contribute to the spread of noxious weed seeds across farms in feeds. This is a major avenue for weed dispersal in our state.

•Harvest. Harvest at grain moistures below 30 percent with a combine adjusted to clean grain properly. Avoiding cracked kernels is essential. The quality of grain should also be monitored during harvest. Fields or loads which are lower quality (moldy, damaged, or low test weight) should be segregated and marketed separately.

•Monitoring moisture content. Storing grain that is too wet is a common cause of spoilage. Measuring grain moisture before storing grain is essential to prevent spoilage.



•Grain drying practice. Excessive heat during grain drying can reduce grain quality by increasing the amount of heat-damaged kernels and by causing additional stress cracks in the grain, which will increase the breakage susceptibility.

•Storage management. Developing a sound grain storage management program is essential for marketing quality grain. This starts with making sure clean dry grain goes into a clean storage facility. Then follow up with monitoring and control of insects and rodents, and regular monitoring of grain temperature and moisture.

By learning to assess grain quality and how to manage to improve it, it may be possible to gain access to new markets and better prices.

New Corn Products For Toddlers

GREG ROTH
Penn State Agronomy Associate Professor

A new product has hit the market this summer that is made from corn and targeted at the toddler market. The product is called Piddlers, and they are biodegradable toilet targets for toddlers.

The instructions for use of the product are simple: bring your child who is toilet training into the bathroom, throw a toilet target in the bowl, let the child take "target practice", and then flush the biodegradable target away.

While toilet targets are not likely to use up this year's corn carryover, they are a fun way to share the "new uses" concept with the public. We had them at our Ag Progress Days Display this year and they generated a lot of interest and a few laughs.

The Illinois Corn Growers sent boxes of the Piddlers to legislators to show the importance of new market developments for corn products.

Piddlers are being marketed by Target department stores. I found mine in Frederick, Md. Remember these are supposed to be for kids only.

Vision vows To Replace Petroleum With Plants

ST. LOUIS, Mo. – A broad-based coalition of U.S. agricultural, forestry, and chemical industry leaders met in St. Louis to advance an industry-wide vision for creating plant-based, renewable products that would replace current petroleum-based products as fossil-fuel supplies dwindle.

The goal of the "Renewables Vision 2020" coalition is to achieve at least 10 percent of basic chemical building blocks arising from renewable, plant-derived sources by the year 2020 — a five-fold increase over today's level — and at least 50 percent by 2050. That could mean everything from car tires to plastic soda bottles to paint would in the future be made from renewable sources, such as corn.

"For all economic purposes, fossil fuels will run out over the next 20 to 30 years. If we allow that to happen before we've found renewable replacements, it will seriously threaten the economic growth, healthy standards of living and strong economic security Americans now enjoy," said Floyd Schultz, a corn grower from Plainfield, Ill., and chairman of the national Corn Growers Association (NCGA) Customer and Business Development Action Team. NCGA hosted the may 7 coalition meeting.

The initial work of this coalition began with leadership from NCGA and is consistent with NCGA's vision and goals to make the corn industry worth $40 billion at the farm gate and to invest its growers; dollars in research that pays dividends to U.S. corn growers.

Not just talk or an effort to jump on the popular "green" bandwagon, this coalition is active, aggressive and has a strategic game plan for accomplishing its ambitious vision and goals.

Step one was the development of the "Plant/Crop-Based Renewable Resources 2020" document which outlined the coalition's vision and goals. In February, more than 60 companies, associations and government agencies signed an historic agreement to support the vision. The second and current step is the preparation of technology roadmaps for use by government and industry. The final step is the actual research and business development efforts that will make renewable technologies successful.

As evidenced by last week's meeting, the coalition is now moving quickly to make that vision a reality.

An executive steering committee is establishing a charter and will oversee implementation of the vision. The committee is chaired by industry business consultant Jim McLaren, who represents the NCGA, and co-chaired by Ronald Eirckson, Great Lakes Chemical Corporation.

An industry workshop, target for August, will invite a wide range of industry experts to identify renewable technology targets. Technology roadmaps that will help guide public and private research and development efforts will follow. The resulting development of renewable technologies will prevent "major global problems" that will result from the depletion of fossil fuels, but will cost money.

How much?

"We're talking about billions and billions of dollars worth of changes in the United States," said coalition chairman Jim McLaren for NCGA. "Attracting the kind of coordination and support this vision requires couldn't be left to one company or industry alone. This requires—and very much is — a multi-industry effort to make significant change in U.S. production."

The executive committee will reach out broadly across the United States to identify the best talents and minds to accomplish coalition goals. Supporters are enthusiastic and anxious to get on with the jog at hand NCGA will continue to serve as a catalyst to make this happen.

Serving on the executive committee are A. E. Staley; B.F. Goodrich Co.; Catgill; Corn Refiners Association; Dow AgroSciences; Genecor International; Grain Processing Corporation; Great Lakes Chemical Corporation; Inverizon International, Inc.; Monsanto; National Corn Growers Association; National Renewable Energy Laboratory; USDA Forest Service; and the U.S. Department of Energy, Office of Industrial Technologies. Other farm commodity groups are expected to participate more fully in the future.

For more information on the Renewable Vision 2020 or a copy of the "Plant/Crop-Based Renewable Resources 2020" document, contact the national Corn Growers Association at (314) 275-9915 or visit their website at http://www.nega.com/15D)E/page15.html.

Sharpen Your Corn Management With The Five Acre Club

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) – Are you interested in improving your corn management skills? Are you interested in comparing your corn production practices with more than 100 other corn producers in the state?

If the answer to either of these question is yes, consider entering the Pennsylvania Five Acre Corn Club.

The Five Acre Corn Club is a program that provides you with a report on the production practices and yields of over a hundred other producers around the state. In addition, you'll receive an accurate yield estimate from one of your production fields and be able to compete for one of twenty one awards made annually. You'll also have an opportunity to sharpen your farm management skills by participating in our farm management exercise.

Last year, 100 growers participated in the program. Each participant receives a detailed 22-page report at the end of the year showing hybrids, plant populations, nitrogen rates, and yields of all the entrants.

The entry fee is $10 and registration information and a more complete set of rules can be obtained from participating county extension offices. This program is cosponsored by The Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association and the hybrid seed corn industry in Pennsylvania.

Regional Crop Management Project Under Way

GREG ROTH
Penn State Agronomy
Associate Professor

CORN TALK NEWS
PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

In 1998, we began to participate in a regional crop management project that is designed to address some common concerns we have in the mid-Atlantic region regarding crop production.

A key emphasis is to find ways we can use technologies to increase yields on the drought-prone soils of our region.

In the next few issues of Corn Talk, we'll discuss some of the projects that are under way in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and here in Pennsylvania. The project is being coordinated by the Foundation for Agronomic Research with industry support from a number of regional ag suppliers.

During the summer we were able to visit some of the research sites our colleagues had established in Virginia and North Carolina. In Virginia the main study site is located on Camden Farms, near Port Royal, Va. There our project director, Dr. Mark Alley, and his research team are evaluating various no-till corn wheat soybean rotations using precision ag technologies on the variable soil in the area.

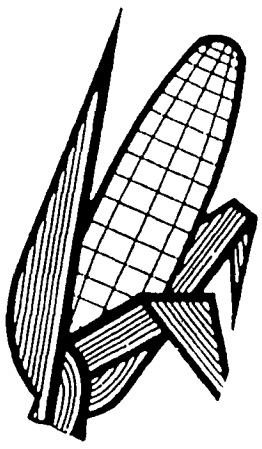
The fields at this study site are large, flat, and seem uniform, but the soils actually vary from sandy loams, which are fairly productive to loamy sands which are quite droughty. The aim of the project is to determine of field mapping and variable rate applications can improve crop productivity on these soils.

One activity they reported on this summer was a project where they have begun to evaluate the effectiveness of various soil sampling strategies: a 2.5-acre grid, a 1-acre grid, a whole field composite, and composting by soil series. They compared these results to those obtained with a very intensive sampling system on a 60 x 100-foot grid. Then they compared the results of phosphorous and potassium fertilizer recommendations from each method by calculating the how far off off the fertilizer recommendations would be in each of the small grids for the various soil sampling systems.

Results varied by fields and are apparently influenced by the source of the nutrient variability. In one fairly uniform field, the average miss for Potassium with the normal composite method was only nine pounds/acre and composting by soil type reduced it to four pounds per acre. Using 2.5- and 1.0-acre grids resulted in average misses of 6 and 5 pounds per acre, respectively. In another field compositing the whole field resulted in an average miss of 23 pounds per acre in the recommendations compared to 17 where composited over soils. Going to the 2.5- and 1.0-acre grids reduced on this field reduced the average miss to 13 and 11 pounds per acre, respectively.

These results suggest the need for "smart sampling" as some researchers have advocated, where the sampling system for precision ag purposes is dependent on the characteristics of the individual field. We will probably do our best if we let the field conditions and nutrient levels dictate our sampling system.

This research project is only one of many involved in the overall study. In future issues of Corn Talk, I'll provide updates of other projects, including those under way in Pennsylvania.



FARMERS #1 CHOICE IN COMBINES

. . . with a kinder, gentler grain handling system.

Your grain doesn't have to take a beating anymore. With GLEANER's exclusive Natural Flow processing cylinder your crop never changes direction. Giving you higher grain quality and better returns at the elevator. Our unique transverse mounting system moves your crop in a ribbon-like fashion from the concave through the cage. It's never forced to make hard turns. You also get the cleanest grain with our combine. We have the longest cleaning shoe in the industry, 64 inches to be exact. And we've added "cleaning shoe" enhancements, like a 4-degree sloped chaffer and sieve, for even finer cleaning and separation. To find out just how gentle we can be, contact your GLEANER dealer. Balanced Diet Is Essential For Corn Plant Development

NORCROSS, Ga. – Potassium, just like nitrogen and phosphorus, is essential for developing corn's genetic yield potential. Plant physiologists have set the yield potential well in excess of 500 bushes of grain per acre. yet, the national average for all U.S. corn producers have not reached one third of that potential.

Some yield can be lost due to disease, crop injury by pests, competition by weeds, stress from inadequate moisture or high temperature, timeliness of operations, or perhaps due to inadequate nutrition. Potassium nutrition could be one of those factors in need of attention for corn yield improvements.

Corn must absorb its potassium from soil reserves and/or from applied fertilizer potassium sources. Regardless of source, a corn crop yielding int eh 180 bushel per acre range will require nearly 240 pounds of potassium to produce the roots, stems, leaves, and grain. The nutrient reservoir of many soils is inadequate to supply the total potassium needs of high yielding corn, especially during the critical peak demand period just prior to silking.

The functions of potassium in corn growth are well known. Research by universities and private industry scientists identify why potassium is a vital part of a balanced fertilization program for corn.

Effective and efficient use of nitrogen. Potassium teams with nitrogen and sulfur to produce protein essential for plant growth. It helps to improve protein level and quality of corn silage for optimum feed value and forage digestibility by livestock. Environmentally, it helps put more of the available nitrogen into the plant where it belongs.

Optimum rate of photosynthesis. Potassium, nitrogen, phosphorus and magnesium are team members in this process of converting sunlight, water, and carbon dioxide into sugars and forms of stored energy for plant growth. Potassium helps to regulate the supply of carbon dioxide available for photosynthesis, the rate of sugar use by plants during respiration, and more than 60 enzymes systems associated with plant growth.

Movement of sugars from leaves to grain. Potassium is needed for efficient movement of sugars from leaves, conversion of sugars into starch, and optimum grain fill. A severe shortage of potassium in corn can delay silk emergence, create pollination problems, and result in poorly filled grain on the tip-end of ears.

Corn, whether grown in Kansas, Illinois, or Georgia, performs best when plant nutrition is removed as a yield limiting factor. Potassium is essential for best use of nitrogen, phosphorous and all other production inputs. It helps growers put more high-quality grain in the bin at harvest time, generate optimum profits and do it in an environmentally sound manner.

President Signs Bill Extending Ethanol Incentive

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Clinton signed into law an omnibus transportation bill that extends the excise tax exemption for ethanol-blended gasoline through 2007. The Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA 21) was overwhelmingly approved by the House and Senate in May.

"Today's signing of TEA 21 marks the culmination of a hard-fought battle by farmers and other ethanol supporters. Now we can move ahead with the business of building the domestic ethanol industry – an industry that generates jobs, revitalizes rural communities and provides an important market for home-grown corn," said National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) President Ryland Utlaut, who attended the White House signing ceremony.

Utlaut, who raises corn, soybeans and wheat in Grand Pass, Mo., emphasized the significance of the ethanol market to U.S. farmers. "We're operating in an environment of extreme uncertainty right now. Corn prices are down and agricultural export projections have dropped significantly due to the Asian financial crisis, weak foreign currencies and other factors. This makes value-added domestic markets such as ethanol increasingly important."

Consuming approximately seven percent of the U.S. corn crop, ethanol is one of the largest industrial uses for corn. In addition, many farmers and rural communities have invested in ethanol-producing cooperatives. More than 80 percent of U.S. ethanol plants are owned by small producers. These small-scale facilities, with more than 25,000 members and about $1.3 billion in capital investment, are the fastest-growing sources of ethanol production, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Obviously, farmers and rural citizens have a vested economic interest in ethanol," said Utlaut. "But the benefits of this home-grown, renewable fuel extend far beyond farm country. Ethanol cleans the air, lowers fuel costs, and reduces U.S. dependence on foreign oil. By supporting the extension of the ethanol tax incentive, Congress and the Clinton administration have done right by all Americans."

Invest In Higher Yields

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC, INC.

NORCROSS, Ga. — Spend money to make money . . right? Absolutely. After all, farming is an investment and obtaining a return on that investment is what it's all about.

Just like the stock market, the goal is to invest wisely. So, how do farmers invest wisely? Invest in higher yields.

Profit is the difference between the total return from sale of the crop and the costs, both fixed and variable, of producing the crop. It is what is left over after all the bills are paid. If nothing is left over, there is no profit. Think of profit as a pie and costs as slices from that pie. Higher yield gives a bigger pie to work with and greater opportunity for more leftovers.

Total return is the product of yield and price. Some years prices are great and some years they are not so great. The question is, what can growers do to increase total returns? Unfortunately, they seldom have much say about price. Market factors such as supply and demand, government farm programs, and so forth basically determine crop price. Price may be influenced by quality, but within a specific grade, price is, as previously stated, out of the growers' hands in most situations.

Yield level significantly influences total return. The greater the yield, . . . the greater the total return. This is the area where growers can dramatically make a difference and why best management practices (BMPs) are so important.

Agronomic BMPs are aimed at optimizing yield. Some BMPs cost more, such as additional fertilizer or more total irrigation water to reach a higher yield goal. Others cost no more or little more than previous practices. Examples of low cost inputs are selecting improved seed and planting to a higher plant population. Good management decisions are no cost inputs that can significantly increase yield. For example, changing the planting date to a more optimum time for a specific variety and adjusting equipment for more precise and uniform application of fertilizer are no cost inputs.

High yields obtained through BMPs have additional benefits beyond more profit. They also protect the environment because:

- Efficiency of inputs such as fertilizer and crop protectants is increased.
- Earlier ground cover is achieved which decreases erosion hazard.
- More crop residue is produced which increases water infiltration when residue is incorporated. Erosion hazard is also reduced.
- Greater root development reduces erosion potential.
- More yield per acre increases freedom to idle fragile acres.

High yield management involves careful investment of inputs. Done properly, the return can be substantial. If not, potential profit is lost, and risk is actually increased because all controllable inputs are not being properly managed . . . some are being left to chance. There will always be risk involved in farming because of factors beyond our control. But let's be sure to minimize that risk by managing those factors that are, in fact, manageable

Higher yields are always a good investment with BPMs

New Tools Detect Hidden Hunger In Crops

NORCROSS, Ga. — When the nutrient deficiency symptoms appear in growing crops, we become concerned that yields and profits will suffer. Usually that is a safe assumption, and we know that the deficiency must be corrected and optimize profits.

Most farmers and crop advisers know the important deficiency symptoms in their crops and will be able to identify problems once they are visible. Unfortunately, considerable yield potential is already lost when visible symptoms appear.

Some of the new tools of site-specific farming may offer opportunities to better detect and treat hidden hunger in growing crops.

All essential plant nutrients are required in at least a threshold amount throughout the life of the plant in order to support normal growth and development. If any nutrient falls short of its respective critical level at any time during the growing season, there will likely be a reduction in growth and potential yield. Even if the nutrient supply is replenished, there may have already been irreversible damage done. The critical levels for each nutrient, and the effect of deficiency, vary with stage of growth.

Deficiency symptoms are usually physiological reactions to the insufficient supply of the nutrient. They are expressed as reduced growth, abnormal color, or death of tissue. Sometimes the effect can be overcome with the addition of supplemental fertilizers, but often it is too late for corrective action when the symptoms appear.

Hidden hunger, on the other hand, is less severe and does not produce the visible symptoms. Thus, it is also more difficult to detect. Analysis of plant tissue samples or in-field tissue quick tests can help identify these shortages. New electronic tools, such as the chlorophyll meter, can be used to help detect a nutrient deficiency that is developing. Researchers are experimenting with in-field measurement of light reflectance with remote-sensing scanners to detect variability that may be due to hidden nutrient deficiencies.

Plotting such measurements with global positioning system (GPS) tools and logging the date into a geographic identification system (GIS) database permit farmers and their advisers to analyze the spatial variability of the relative measurements and detect areas of the field where unseen nutrient deficiencies are possible. Then plant analysis can be used to accurately determine whether there is a deficiency developing, so that corrective action can be taken before the problem reaches the point of severely impacting yield.

As yield levels continue to increase and management is intensified, the effects of stress factors will likely be more common, and potential for hidden hunger will increase. Farms and their advisers will benefit from using the new tools of GPS, GIS, electronic monitoring instruments, and remote sensing to help detect these developing problems and make management decisions for corrective action.

Top Gun Conference Planned for Mercer

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — The Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers and Penn State Extension will be sponsoring a conference on key corn production issues for western Pennsylvania corn producers on Dec. 18 here at the Mercer County Cooperative Extension office.

The conference will feature some key topics specifically targeted at improving crop production in the western region. The program will feature Tom Murphy from Lycoming County Extension, who will review how producers in his area have initiated and benefited from a grain marketing club.

The program will also feature presentations on how to produce and market quality grain, including the potential for the new high oil specialty corns on the market.

The afternoon presentations will focus on how to manage machinery more effectively. These will include a session on how to extend the effective life of your corn planter.

Another presentation in the afternoon will address the process of deciding whether to buy new or used equipment and factors that you need to consider. The conference also will review the potential of custom farming arrangements that have allowed some area producers to invest in newer equipment while providing a valuable service to the dairy industry in the area.

The program will start at 8:30 a.m. and continue until 3:30 p.m. Area ag suppliers will be on hand with exhibits. Lunch will be provided on site.

Registration for the program is $7. For registration information, contact Ryan Hockensmith at the Lawrence County extension office at (724) 654-8370.

Conference Showcases Future Of Nation's Top Crop

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The corn industry got a glimpse of its future as hundreds of experts from around the world shared research and expertise at the Corn Utilization and Technology Conference (CUTC) here.

Hosted by the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) and the Corn Refiners Association (CRA), the CUTC brought together corn growers, corn refiners, and researchers to explore new uses for corn, share technological know-how, and familiarize themselves with new or improved equipment, innovative ideas, and techniques for corn processing.

Past conferences have yielded new technologies in amino and organic acid production from corn starch, major cost reductions and improved productivity and quality in corn refining and processing; and the first genetic transformation of the corn plant. Nearly 600 people attended this year's CUTC, including foreign trade teams and visitors from Japan, Korea, Egypt, Mexico, Brazil, Venezuela, Peru, Chile, the Dominican Republic, and Columbia.

"As a corn grower, I want to see even greater uses and value for corn," said Lee Schafer, NCGA Corn Board member and a corn grower from Brighton, Iowa. "CUTC is not just pie-in-the-sky predictions of our future. It's the corn industry's efforts to ensure the tools we need are commercially viable and available."

CRA President Charles F. Conner agreed. "Corn wet milling technologies presented at past conferences added more than $3.5 billion to the value of 1.3 billion bushels of corn last year alone," Conner said. "Technologies presented at this year's conference promise to deliver even greater efficiencies, increased production, and new product ideas that will benefit the entire corn industry."

The Corn Utilization and Technology Conference merges NCGA's popular Corn Utilization Conference and CRA's former Technology Conference into a single powerhouse meeting of the best minds in the corn industry. CUTC will be held every other year.

Should You Use Bt Corn?

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)–Does it pay to spend the extra money for Bt hybrids?

Unfortunately, the most common answer is usually "it depends".

Listed below is a list of criteria developed by Dr. Dennis Calving, Penn State, to help determine if Bt corn would provide an economic advantage to your operation.

1. History of European corn borer damage in field, and planning on corn in the same field next year.
2. Earliest planted fields, either long or short season corn.
3. Fields that are low lying, next to streams, or waterways.
4. Fields that are surrounded by dense grassy vegetation.
5. Fields planted at populations of more than 26,000.
6. Fields grown for grain and/or harvested late in the season.

As you begin to plan for next year's seed corn needs, if you have fields that match most of these criteria, they would be fields that could receive the biggest economic benefit from using Bt seed.

Since not all Bt hybrids are created equal, there are several factors you should keep in mind when deciding on which Bt hybrids to purchase.

1. Check yield data on any Bt corn you may have planted this year. Compare this data to our non-Bt varieties.
2. Remember some Bt corn varieties only provide protection of first generation infestation. Second generation infestations usually cause the most economic damage. Check to see if the variety has protection against second generation borer pressure.
3. A Bt corn variety should meet all your other requirements, besides having the Bt gene.
4. Yield checks are the only sure way to determine the value of a Bt hybrid. Some Bt corn will look better than some of the non-Bt numbers.

FARM MAPPING — WHO NEEDS IT?

DAVID WAGNER
Penn State Ag & Bioengineering

Several years ago, I started asking people I met, "How do you know where you are? Geographically speaking, that is."

I was surprised at the answers I received. Some people would reference their location to a major landmark, others would reference themselves to a distance and a direction from north, like "we live 10.5 miles northwest of the center of Phillipsburg."

Still others (usually geographers or engineers) would give a set of coordinates such as "I am at 40 and a half degrees north latitude and about 78 degrees west longitude." Still others, when asked how to get to their work, or home or to the store, might say, "it's over there (pointing vaguely with their finger)." Others, say with utter sincerity and if checked by their performance, used the sun as a positioning and direction instrument. That's OK as long as the sun is shining or it is daytime.

Now, I've met a lot of farmers, when asked where the ground was the wettest, or where a patch of weeds were located in his field, could walk me right to the spot, but when asked how they knew where they were standing in the field, could not give a consistent and precise answer – but they knew exactly how to get to a certain problem located in the field.

The point is this, in today's emerging agricultural production arena, many different people are interfacing in acquiring data from the field (soil characteristics, nutrient levels, yield from grain combines, topography (elevation), and weed/pest outbreaks). These people may not be the farmer that has driven all the farm machinery over those fields for the last 30 years. In evaluating the field data and making decisions about chemical application, manure application, nutrient application, we have to have a common language that can be used to personally discuss the interpretation of the data and to make management decisions, and also to program or control the farm machinery to apply those crop inputs we discussed.

We need a system of keeping track of where we are and how to get to the next place, so that both humans and machines can communicate with sufficient accuracy that the chemicals and crop inputs get to approximate correct location in the field.d There are two considerations: 1) a consistent set of locational guidelines and, 2) an understanding of the accuracy of the specific location we think we are talking about when we decide to apply some manure or chemical, or – even the seed population. That is why farm mapping is becoming much more important.

There are two kinds of data, spatial data – such as a location point on the surface of the earth (like in the middle of a corn field where a sink hole is developing), and attribute data (descriptive data) that describes a condition, like "wet, dry, clay, loam, red, green, but – you get the idea." Farm mapping systems can be simple, such as a hand drawn sketch that give the reader an approximate sense of the location and characteristic of some place in a field. Farm mapping systems can be complex, using computers and geographic information systems (GIS) to store digital maps in the GIS database. Each of the digital maps, is characterized by a common set of locational (spatial) characteristics, so that the different digital maps can be referenced to each other.

That is the purpose of GIS – to keep track of each location in one specific map can be located on each of the other maps. To visualize this, if you had a stack of transparent maps of the same field, you could lay each map on top of the other, a single location in a field would form one single point if you were above the map stack and looked down through the digital map layers. That is called "piercing," so we could electronically chose any point in a field, say where there was a weed problem, and electronically, look down through each layer – the soil, nutrients, yield, weed, pest maps, and data at that location in each map layer could give us an insight as to the probable cause of the problem.

Now we could talk about the geographic data and coordinate systems, such as latitude and longitude, and the datums, and geoids that allow us to use a consistent set of distances and coordinates. But if we are going to get into the precision agriculture age, we need to use computers and spatial (locational) data that is universal in its ability to allow any person, or computer, or agricultural machine to understand where the point of interest is located or "where we are,"

We need these computer-based farm mapping systems that use GPS-derived locational data and a system of common coordinates so that we can store digital and locational information about the production fields. By using computer-based farm management systems, we can, from year-to-year, always be able to refer to the same place in the field with accuracy. We will talk much more about this in "farm-mapping" technology in future articles.

The Season for Apples

Apple bars and fresh apple slices dipped in caramel dip are the perfect combination for a fall celebration.

The return of fall marks the beginning of apple season. As days grow cooler and leaves change from gold to red, you can sink your teeth into fall's finest fruit—enjoying all the different varieties at their peak.

Apples are a delicious ingredient in many recipes. Fill your kitchen with sweet aromas of baked apple, nutmeg, and cinnamon as you bake apple desserts for the whole family.

Here are some great recipes to make while you and your family usher in the fall season.

APPLE PANCAKES

1½ cups all-purpose sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
1¾ teaspoon baking powder
2 medium eggs
3 tablespoons melted butter
1¼ cups milk
1 cup finely chopped apples

Sift together flour, salt, sugar, and baking powder into a mixing bowl.

In a separate bowl, beat eggs; add butter and milk and blend. Stir into dry ingredients until well blended then stir in finely chopped apples. Cook over medium heat in a greased skillet. Yields: 12 to 14.

Lebanon

APPLE SQUARES

1 package deluxe yellow cake mix, divided
¾ cup melted butter, divided
1 large egg
2 cans apple pie filling
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 9x13-inch baking pan. Remove and set aside 1 cup cake mix. In a medium bowl, combine the remaining cake mix, ½ cup melted butter, and egg. Mix thoroughly and spread and pat into prepared pan.

Spread apple pie filling over batter in pan.

Mix together the reserved cup cake mix, ¼ cup melted butter, sugar, and cinnamon, and sprinkle over top of pie filling.

Bake for 45 minutes. Cool and cut in desired portions or eat warm with a dip of vanilla ice cream.

Drizzle some butterscotch sundae syrup over ice cream and top with whipped cream and you'll think you've gone to heaven. Happy eating!

CIDER

1 gallon apple cider
⅓ cup brown sugar
Tie into a cheesecloth bag:
24 whole cloves
2 teaspoon whole allspice
4 2-inch cinnamon sticks

Heat cider over medium heat. Stir in sugar. Add spice bag. Simmer 15-20 minutes.

Tina Forry
Palmyra

APPLE CRISP

4 apples
¾ cup oatmeal (not instant)
¾ cup brown sugar
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup butter
Whipped cream or ice cream

Pare apples and slice thin; arrange in a greased 8-inch square pan or 9-inch pie plate. Combine oatmeal, sugar, flour, and cinnamon. Cut in butter; sprinkle over apples. Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream. Serves 6.

Eileen Greenaway
Somerville, N.J.

A dollop of whipped cream dresses up apple cake and is quicker to prepare than frosting.

Apple bars come in a variety of tastes and appearances, but fresh apples make a nutritious addition to them all.

TURKEY-APPLE QUESADILLAS

Sweet honey mustard
4 flour tortillas
4 slices deli-smoked turkey
28 tart apple slices
6 slices cheese
Butter, melted

Spread mustard on one side of each tortilla. Layer 1 tortilla with two slices turkey, ½ apple slices, and 3 slices cheese. Cover with one tortilla. Repeat with remaining tortilla. Brush melted butter on both sides of each quesadilla. Heat 10-inch skillet or griddle. Grill quesadilla over medium heat, turning once, until cheese is melted and quesadilla is lightly browned (2 to 3 minutes). Repeat with remaining quesadilla. Cut into wedges. 4 servings.

(Turn to Page B6)

APPLESAUCE SYRUP

1 cup applesauce
10-ounce jar apple jelly
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Pinch cloves

In a medium saucepan, combine all ingredients and heat over medium heat. Cook and stir mixture until jelly melts and syrup is hot.

B. Light

CINNAMON APPLE FROSTY

1 gallon cold milk
12-ounce can apple concentrate
1½ quarts vanilla ice cream, softened
Cinnamon and nutmeg to taste

Combine all ingredients in punch bowl and beat until frothy. Add cinnamon and nutmeg to taste.

Few things define the softer side of our American heritage more than quilts.

There's an aura about a quilt, a soft, touchable piece of history one can hold in one's hand, wrap about one's shoulders, or display as a treasured piece of fabrice artistry.

Actually, most of the quilts of history didn't start out to be art, but a practical piece of household necessity.

Quilts were made to keep warm with, after all. They were a job for for the long confinements of winter, as well as busy-hands-work to be shared when friends or relatives visited. Quilts were both practical and special-occasion gifts for newly-weds, new babies or folks who had suffered hardships of lost homes or possessions.

The aura of a quilt always conjures up — at least in my mind — the image of our rural grandmothers. But surely village and town folks needed quilts just as much as did their country cousins on cold winter nights.

And, our ancestral foremothers did not have the luxury we enjoy of having bolts and bolts of wrinkle-free, beautifully-colorfast, relatively inexpensive fabrics from which to choose when it came to quilt making. The raw materials were, in many cases, leftovers of other endeavors. Bits remaining from the making of a hard-working farmer's workshirt in dark, rugged fabrics. Snippets salvaged from a little girl's prized lone new calico dress for starting school. Or pieces left from shaping a long, durable farmwife's skirt which went from garden tending to wiping a child's smudged chin to serving as an impromptu basket fer the hens' egg production.

Many were pieced together with whatever was available in what we today often refer to as "crazy-quilts." The daily lifestyle of a family was probably spelled out with the fabrics in many of those quilts. But with a sense of pride and appreciation for practical beauty as well, color, pattern, and symmetry came to play an important role in the quilts of our history.

When we were married, a quilt that (I think) one of my grandmothers had made somehow made the move with me from my childhood home to our present one. It was not a fancy one by any means, not in fabric, nor in design. Just a sturdy, useful, practical quilt. Our kids made tents with it, just as my siblings and I had done. It was a handy throw on the couch when they were home from school with a cold. And made numerous trips to the beach. Over the years it became ragged around the edges and threadbare here and there over the middle.

A couple of years ago, I began to realize that, even though this was no fancy quilt or one of great meaning or heritage, it nevertheless was a quilt of the family. Suffering pangs of guilt, I promptly reoved it from casual use and put it away upstairs.

Again, a few months ago, I did the same with another hand-stitched piece that had casually come down through the family. A thin quilt, of no great design or historical significance, except that it is handmade and quilted. And that was enough to make me decide that the colorful fabric composite really had no business being in the trunk of my car, despite the stains which exist on it from a former life.

Surely, this story must be replicated, time and again, around this area. Many quilts have been carefully stored, guarded and kept in pristine condition over the years. But, surely, others must have taken regular use, and sometimes, abuse, like mine, because they weren't particularly spectacular works of art, just quilts for use as quilts.

And what do we do with them now?

The York County Historical Society and York Quilters' Guild have recently joined efforts to document quilts and quilt-related items made here in the county before 1950. During each of the next several months through next spring, a one-day quilt-documentation site is being hosted at locations scattered across the county. Quilt items will be examined by experts, documented and photographed, at no cost to the quilt owner, and the date available for future historians.

Just old — and battered — quilts, they are, stashed away upstairs for history's sake.

But I may take them to be documented, just to see what I can learn.

How To Participate In Quilt Documentation

YORK (York Co.) — The Historical Society of York County and the York Quilters' Guild are sponsoring a countywide noncommercial quilt documentation project. Our purpose is to preserve York County's unique quilt heritage by identifying and registering quilts and quilt-related items that were made in York County prior to 1950. These items will be examined, documented, and photographed. All information gathered such as pictures, family histories, and wuilt histories will be maintained by the York Quilters' Guild and the Historical Society of York County. This data will be available through both sources for future study and information.

The York Quilters' Guild and the Historical Society believe that this project is an important tool to help raise public awareness of York County's significant quilting heritage. In conjunction with our educational goal, information about proper care, storage, and restoration will be given to all who bring their quilts for registration.

Ten different sites throughout York County will serve as collection points. All Discovery Days are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. These sites and dates are as follows:

Oct. 24 - St. Paul Lutheran Church, 11894 S. Susquehanna Trail, Hamestown;

Nov. 7 - Hanover YWCA;

Jan. 16 - Pine Grove Presbyterian Church, RD 2, Airville;

Feb. 6 - Wellsville Fire Hall, Wellsville;

Feb. 27 - Trinity UCC, 200 E. Market St., Hellam;

Mar. 20 - St. Paul Lutheran Church, 250 Trinity Rd., West York;

Apr. 10 - Failor's Photography, 201 S. Charles St., Red Lion;

May 1 - Historical Society, 250 E. Market St., York.

At the Discovery Days the quilts will be examined by quilt experts. All pertinent data regardijng the quilt, the history of the quilter, and information about the owner will be taken. The quilt willbe photographed and the owner will receive information on quilt care and storage. There is no cost to participate in this project. For additional information contact Joan Hamme 840-1443 (project chairman) or Sharon Angelo 845-7304 (publicity chairman).

Buckle Up Your Children!

Perhaps like me, many of you have heard the statistics that four out of five car seats are not used properly. It shocked me to think that many children are not really protected the way their parents think they are. Unless car seats are used exactly as directed they don't guarantee the level of protection that is needed.

Recently I researched this problem. I spoke with Angela Ostenhuber, a traffic injury prevention specialist in southeastern Pennsylvania. She conducts safety checks with local police departments and trains local health departments to present educational programs in their communities. Once I interviewed her, my shock about car seat misuse turned to embarrassment. I realized I was part of the statistic. There were things that I wasn't doing correctly — things that made my daughter less protected.

One common mistake that parents make is that they don't strap the seat into the car tight enough. A car seat should not move more than one inch in any direction. The best advice I got was this — installing a car seat is often a two-person job. It may help if one person kneels on the car seat while the other tightens the belt. I found that I could get my car seat much tighter even if I just placed one knee on the seat while I pulled the belt.

In many models of cars, seat belts are a combination lap-shoulder belts. These belts require a locking clip (an H-shaped metal clip placed just above the belt clasp) to keep the belt from loosening. All current models of car seats come with a locking clip.

Another mistake that parents make is that they don't strap the child in tightly enough. If a child fusses, the parent kindly loosens the straps. Unfortunately, this puts the child in jeopardy if they are in an accident. The safety guidelines specify that the car seat harness should be snug enough that an adult can only slip one finger between the strap and the child's collarbone. Any sliding clasp should be high on the child's chest (roughly arm pit level) to keep the child's head and upper body from moving too much.

A third mistake that parents make is that they put a child in a forward-facing seat too early. It is important that a child stay in a rear-facing seat until she is at least one-year-old and at least 20 pounds. This is one of the areas that we did wrong. If your child is a 20-pound nine-month-old and is too big for the rear-facing infant seat that you brought him home from the hospital in, then you need to buckle him up in a rear-facing convertible seat that accommodates children up to 40 pounds. Once the child is both 20 pounds and one-year-old, he can then sit in a forward-facing seat.

Although Pennsylvania rules are not this stringent, the highway safety programs recommend that children use some sort of car seat or booster seat until they are at least eight years old and 80 pounds. They also suggest that no one under the age of 12 should ride in the front seat of a car.

I know for many families these expectations seem ridiculous. You have children who want to sit in the front, who think they are too old for car seats. You have infants who would rather look at you in the mirror or watch the lights on your dash board than stare at a gray seat back. You just don't have the patience to listen to their complaining one more time. But remember why you are doing it. And remember there are a lot of crazy, out-of-control drivers on the roads these days. You want to protect them!

Each year nearly 1,400 children under 15 years of age die in motor vehicle crashes. Another 280,000 are injured — most because they are not properly secured in their vehicles. Your choice to buckle them up in a rock solid car seat may save their life.

On Sept. 17-20 Penn Manor's Poultry Evaluation and Technology Team and Tyler Swanson went to the Big E Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass.

The Poultry Evaluation and Technology Team, consisting of Juli Greider, Garrett Neff, Cheri Lake, and Josh Murry, placed first as a team.

Garrett Neff placed first as an individual. Tyler Swanson went to Eastern States for extemporaneous public speaking. He placed in the top 10.

The Poultry Evaluation and Technology Career Development Event consisted of identifying chicken parts and grading chicken carcasses. Eggs were graded for interior and exterior quality. Live birds were placed according to egg production and a class of broiler/breeders was kept or culled according to the quality of the birds.

Contestants also gave oral reasons for the placing of broiler/breeders and carcasses. There was also a written test on the knowledge of the poultry industry. A team activity consisted of having 20 minutes to research a topic relating to the poultry industry and then 10-15 minutes to present it to a panel of judges. The presentation was followed by a few questions asked by the judges.

The extemporaneous public speaking contest consisted of picking a subject out of a hat and having 30 minutes to prepare a 4- to 6-minute speech about your topic. After the speech, the judges have five minutes to ask questions about a contestant's knowledge of the topic and ag industry.

During their spare time, FFA members explored the largest state agriculture fair in New England. There were rides, games, exhibits, and lots of fun.

PLANTING BULBS
'October Has 21 Fair Days'
American Folklore

Fall is for planting trees, shrubs, and bulbs. Use this month of October to visit gardens, parks and to make your flowering bulb selections. Select your bulbs based on type (variety), colors and size. Be sure to buy enough of each color and type for a good display in your garden. Use them for naturalized plantings, garden accents, landscape borders, rock gardens, or container gardens. Force for indoor bloom or as cut flowers.

Let's escape from the ordinary. The well-known crocus, hyacinth, narcissus, and tulips are all favorites, but many other lesser-known bulbs are available. No matter what you select for planting this fall, make sure the bulbs are disease-free. Diseased bulbs look moldy, discolored, or soft and rotted. Bulbs should always be firm with unblemished skin. If you buy bulbs now, keep them in a cool, dry place. Temperatures higher than 70° will damage the flower buds inside the bulbs.

Try some of the little bulbs such as crocus, snowflakes, snowdrops or winter aconite. Also called Galanthus, a snowdrop will show its small frosty-white, bell-like flowers in the very early spring. Pearl-like buds are protected by long green leaves when a snow and frost are still heavy. Watch for them even before the crocus bloom.

Another small bulb-type which is easily mistaken for blue bells is the scilla. Late-blooming scilla is also called Spanish bluebells. Woodland plantings are preferred but scilla also look good in border plantings or as a wildflower for a naturalized garden area.

All spring bulbs are easy to lant. Place bulbs in a hole two to three times as deep as the diameter of the bulb. Soil at the bottom of the bed should be loosened and a fertilizer added, such as bone meal or one high in phosphorus, calcium, and magnesium.

Plant the bulbs firmly in soil with the pointed end up in mid-late fall. Then fill the bed with soil and water thoroughly. Finally mulch and water thoroughly again.

In the spring, as soon as the shoots begin to emerge, fertilize with a high nitrogen and potassium fertilizer. When the blooming period is over, let the foliage die naturally so that the food reserves from the leaves will be transported down to the developing roots.

If you plan you spring bulbs planting carefully, you can have a continuous bloom period from March through the end of June. Try interplanting the smaller bulb types with tulips and daffodils. Then, as the little bulbs fade, the reds, blues, golds and bi-colors of the larger blooming flowers will take their place.

Lastly, use a layer of mulch to protect the emerging bulbs. A light or medium weight mulch made of compost, pine needles, bark or straw, will protect your bulbs from "heaving" out of the soil.

State Recognizes Pennsylvania Farm Women's Vital Role

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The House of Representatives unanimously adopted a resolution sponsored by Rep. Sheila Miller (R-Berks) to recognize the vital role farm women have played in preserving and enriching Pennsylvania's agricultural and rural heritage. House Resolution 515 designates October 14, as "Farm Women's Day" in Pennsylvania.

"Agriculture is our Commonwealth's number one industry. Whether driving a tractor or caring for livestock, farm women are members of the vital team that puts food on the plates of every Pennsylvanian every day," said Miller. "The current economic situation for farmers today, with commodity prices falling and challenging the stability of our family farms, our farm women are called on more than ever before to hold the family together."

The contributions of Pennsylvania's farm women and the Society of Farm Women are deserving of special recognition and appreciation, noted Miller, a member of the Society. "I am proud to have sponsored this resolution and encourage everyone to take time October 14 to honor the hard-working members of the Farm Women Societies across the state," Miller said.

The Society of Farm Women, 2,772 members strong and with 159 societies throughout the commonwealth, has been a leader in promoting Pennsylvania agriculture since its inception in 1914. Pennsylvania has more rural residents than any other state in the nation. Forty-seven of the commonwealth's 67 counties, including Berks County, are predominantly rural.

The Season For Apples

APPLE CRISP VARIATIONS

Fruit Mixture:
- 6 cups sliced peeled apples
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon, if desired
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Topping:
- 1 cup rolled oats
- ¾ cup all-purpose flour
- ¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- ½ cup butter, softened

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Peel apples and toss with cinnamon, water, and lemon juice. Place apples in ungreased 2-quart casserole or 8-inch square baking dish. In large bowl, combine all topping ingredients; mix until crumbly. Sprinkle crumb mixture evenly over apples. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 35 minutes or until fruit is tender and topping is golden brown. (If the topping gets browner than you like, the next time, microwave the apples 5 minutes before putting the topping on the apples). Serve warm with cream, ice cream, or whipped cream, if desired. Yield: 12 (½ cup) servings.

Microwave directions: Using a 8-inch square microwave-safe dish, prepare apple crisp as directed above. Microwave on high for 12 to 14 minutes or until fruit is tender, rotating dish ¼ turn once during cooking.

Variations:

• Apple Cheese Crisp: Top baked crisp with ½ cup shredded cheese, bake an additional 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese melts.

• Blueberry Crisp: Substitute blueberries for the apples.

• Peach Crisp: Substitute sliced peeled peaches for the apples.

• Pear Cranberry Crisp: Substitute 5 cups sliced peeled pears, 1½ cup fresh or frozen cranberries, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, and 2 teaspoons grated orange peel for fruit mixture.

An apple a day keeps the doctor away . . . Our grandparents were ahead of their time when they realized the benefits of eating an apple a day. Apples are an excellent source of fiber, a good source of potassium, and are low in fat and sodium.

Apples are a versatile and convenient way to get in one of your fruit servings every day. Tossed into a lunch bag, or eaten as an after school snack, they require no preparation. Just wash, and munch! Eaten in this form they also serve as "Nature's Toothbrush." Whereas eating an apple doesn't and shouldn't be encouraged as a substitute for proper brushing of teeth, it is a great natural "assisdtant." The mild fibrous texture of the apple for detergent action, its juice content and its delightful aroma to induce salivary activity all combine to make the apple an ideal "meal-ender" and natural "toothbrush" for those times when regular brushing isn't possible.

Purchasing Tips

• Apples should be purchased when ripe for best flavor. Most ripened green varieties have a greenish-yellow background color.

• Choice apples are firm and free of bruises, skin breaks, and decay spots. Soft apples have a mealy texture. Apples with discolored streaks or spots on their skin are safe to eat. Their flavor and texture is not compromised in any way.

• Choose an apple variety best suited for your purposes. Some varieties are better for baking, while others are better for eating from your hands.

• Approximately three medium-sized apples equals 1 pound. One pound of unpeeled apples yields about 3 cups of peeled, sliced or diced fruit.

Popular Pa. Apple Varieties

• McIntosh — Deep red skin, sometimes with a greenish background. Tender, juicy, and very flavorful. White flesh. Excellent raw, in salads, and in sauce.

• Golden Delicious — Greenish-yellow skin. Moderately firm and juicy, with a mild flavor. Cream flesh. Retains its shape when cooked. Excellent raw, in salads, and for baking.

• Red Delicious — Solid red, occasionally red-striped skin. Moderately firm and juicy, with a milk, sweet flavor. Cream flesh. Good raw and in salads.

• Ida Red — Shiny, bright red skin, with green touches. Sweet-tart flavor. White flesh. Retains it shape when cooked. Excellent raw, in salads, sauces, and for baking.

• Rome Beauty — Red striped sin, mingled with yellow. Greenish around stem. Moderately juicy, with a crisp, mild flavor. White flesh. Retains it shape when cooked. Excellent for baking. Good in salads and sauce. Fair for eating raw.

• Stayman — Dull red skin, with white dots concentrated near blossom. Quite firm and crisp, with a tart flavor. Cream Flesh. Excellent for baking. Good raw and in salads.

Storage Tips

• Unrefrigerated ripened apples will retain their quality for about one week.

• Unripe apples can be quickly ripened at home by storing them in a partly sealed bag at room temperature.

• Ripened apples stored in the humidifier compartment of the refrigerator (35-40 degrees F), in an unsealed plastic bag or in a film-wrapped tray, may retain their quality for one month.

• Bruised apples do not store as long and should be used first.

• Apples stored below 29 degrees F will freeze. Freezing causes the apples to become mushy and discolored, greatly reducing their quality.

• Storing apples in a partly sealed plastic bag helps reduce the odors apples can pick up from the refrigerator.

Preparation Tips

• Apples are a very versatile fruit. They can be used in pies, muffins, cakes, and salads or just eaten from your hand.

• Peeled and/or cored apples brown quickly. To prevent this, soak apples 5 minutes in o1 quart of water with 3 tablespoons of bottled lemon juice and 2 crushed 500-mg vitamin C tablets. The flavor will not be affected, and the flesh will retain its color for about 3 hours at room temperature.

• For freezing and canning direction, call your local County Extension Office and ask for the "Let's Preserve" fact sheets.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My ancestors certainly saved many scraps of paper. Some are recipes to improve the health of animals and some are for humans. The ingredients listed are often foreign to me.

I'm reading from a booklet handed out by a Dr. D. Fahrney & Son of Hagerstown, Maryland. They sold Health Restorer, Teething Syrup, Peerless Liniment and Syrup of Wild Cherry. Their Health Restorer will cure "all disease originating in impure blood and disordered liver." The "impure blood" covered all the diseases imaginable.

However, this small 1880 booklet is interesting to me because my grandfather, Benjamin Landis, kept all the records of his hired man in it. Levi Roland worked for him by the day and each day's work is listed from April 4, 1885 to September 1. He started by plowing day after day, then hauled manure and planted corn. Later they made hay and harvested wheat. They worked with tobacco and oats and then started plowing all over again.

Even more interesting is how the money was doled out to him by my grandfather bit by bit. Butter was 36¢ for 2 pounds and 1 gallon of vinegar was 20¢. He bought lard for 12½ ¢ per pound and apple butter 12½ ¢ a quart. He was given small amounts of cash to go to the store for muslin, calico, shoe polish, bonnet stuff, and garters. The store was only a mile away in the village of Oregon and was owned by a Bard. It was a combination store and post office.

In today's modern world it is difficult to imagine how life was in 1885. They walked on dirt roads, they paid toll when they drove horses, they heated their houses with wood, they ate what they raised on their own land, and when they got sick, I suppose they tried Dr. Fahrner's medicine to regain their health.

Active Parenting Workshop

YORK (York Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension will be sponsoring an Active Parenting of Teens and Preteens workshops starting Monday, October 19, 7 p.m. It will be held on six consecutive Monday evenings at Penn State Cooperative Extension, 112 Pleasant Acres Road.

This workshop is specifically for parents of preteens and teens to help parents understand today'd tough teen issues and initiate effective communication with teens. The video and group discussion will help parents learn how to "get cooperation" from your teen-ager and avoid common teen conflicts. The sessions also addressed critical issues such as drug and alcohol use, teen sexuality, and violence. You will also learn positive parenting skills and learn what techniques to avoid. Parents tell us the skills they learned in these sessions "really work."

Advanced registration is required. The deadline is October 14. The fee for the course includes a 250-page parent guide. The cost is $20 per person or $30 per couple. Call Penn State Extension at (717) 840-7408 for registration information.

ANSWER — Here's a recipe from Ruth Bricker, Glen Rock who sent in a recipe that had been requested for spiced tomato jam.

Spiced Tomato Jam

Begin with 2¼ pounds tomatoes and 2 lemons. Scald, peel, and chop fully ripe tomatoes. Simmer 10 minutes. Measure 3 level cups prepared tomato (add water if needed to make 3 cups) into 8-quart saucepan. Add to that 1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind, ¼ cup lemon juice, ½ teaspoon each allspice and cinnamon, and ¼ teaspoon ground cloves.

Put tomato mixture into large saucepan and mix in 1 box Sure Jell. Bring quickly to a hard boil, stirring constantly. At once, add 3 cups sugar. Bring to a fully rolling boil that can't be stirred down.

Boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Quickly skim off foam with metal spoon.

Pour quickly into hot, sterilized jars, leaving ⅛ -inch head space. Wipe top edge and threads of jars with clean, damp cloth. Put on seals. Process in hot water bath for 5 minutes.

After processing, invert jars to prevent floating fruit. After 30 minutes turn upright again. Cool and store.

ANSWER — To make your own spices, try these from Delphine Zimmerman, Newmanstown.

Italian Seasoning

½ cup dried oregano
¼ cup dried basil
2 tablespoons onion powder
1 tablespoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon crushed hot pepper flakes
½ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf, crumbled

Combine and whirl briefly in a blender.

Pumpkin Pie Spice

½ cup cinnamon
¼ cup ground ginger
2 tablespoons nutmeg
2 tablespoons ground cloves

Combine ingredients. Use 3¼ teaspoon for each 1½ cups canned pumpkin.

ANSWER — Richard Kophazy, Moorestownship, wanted recipes using eggplant. Thanks to Elizabeth Beaver, Ringtown, for sending this recipe.

Caponata

2 teaspoons olive oil
½ cup chopped onion
2 minced garlic cloves
7 cups chopped, peeled eggplant
1 chopped tomato
2 tablespoons chopped fresh basil
1 teaspoon chopped fresh parsley
½ teaspoon oregano
2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper

Heat olive oil in a large skillet. Cook onion and garlic over medium heat about 2 minutes or until tender. Stir in eggplant and tomato. Cook 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Stir in remaining ingredients. Refrigerate at least two hours.

ANSWER — Debra Allgyer, Womelsdorf, wanted a recipe for Elephant Ears. Numerous readers have sent recipes for funnel cakes, which is another name for Elephant Ears. Thanks to Tina Forry, Palmyra; Rebecca Case, Glenville; Betty McBride of Jim Thorpe and others for sending recipes.

Funnel Cakes

3 tablespoons sugar
3 large eggs
1 cup milk
1¾ cup flour
2 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon vanilla or nutmeg
Hot oil

Combine eggs and sugar. Stir in milk. Sift together dry ingredients and mix with egg mixture until smooth and glossy. Heat ½ -inch oil in frying pan. Pour ½ cup mixture through narrow funnel into hot oil moving from center to outer edge making circles. Fry 2 minutes, turning once.

Beware Of Silo Fire Danger

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — In the wake of a recent rash of silo fires in Pennsylvania, fire safety and farm safety experts are advising farmers to use extreme caution when filling silos this fall.

"We've investigated four silo fires in the last several weeks," said Lloyd Henry, state fire instructor and chief of the Lampeter Fire Company in Lancaster County. "These fires were unusual because they occurred within several hours of the silos being filled, and started not inside the silo but in the access chutes, where dried-out debris and cobwebs can act like kindling. We're still trying to pin down the cause."

Henry and Dennis Murphy, professoer of agricultural engineering and a farm safety expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, say a combination of factors could be causing the blazes. "Dry weather in many areas may be causing poor fermentation of silage, which in turn might lead to the production of greater amounts of volatile gases," Murphy said.

Murphy explained that several gases, including hydrogen and methane, are by-products of fermenting silage. But it's not known whether either of these gases, or some other substance, is involved in the recent fires.

"If excess gases are present, they could burst into flames if exposed to a source of ignition, such as static electricity or sparks created during the loading or blowing of silage," Murphy said. "Other potential ignition sources are barn lights or other electrical equipment near or at the base of unloading chutes."

Murphy said farmers should take the following precautions to help reduce the risk of silo fires:

• Water down silo unloading chutes.

• Provide plenty of ventilation around the silo, especially at loading areas and up chutes. "Use a barn fan to keep extra oxygen moving up the silo chute," said Murphy. "This helps prevent the generation of excess silo gases and dilutes the gases present, keeping them from reaching explosive concentrations."

• Clean out chaff and other debris from the silo chute and from around the rungs or frame of chute doors.

Murphy said farmers also must remember that besides the potential fire hazard, silo gases are toxic, especially in the first 48 to 60 hours after filling. "If you must enter the silo within the first 48 to 60 hours, protect yourself by wearing a self-contained breathing apparatus," he said. "If you don't have access to one, stay out of the silo.

"Dangerous levels of silo gas may be present for an additional two to three weeks," he said. "To enter without a self-contained breathing apparatus during this period, ventilate with the silo blower. Open all doors, run the blower fan for 20 minutes, and leave it running while you are in the silo. Enter only after you have put on a respirator for toxic dust, and have a second person with you to assist in an emergency."

Milk Mustache Mobile Comes To Mid-Atlantic Region

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Bringing free bone density scans, a national milk mustache contest, and exclusive media opportunities for the dairy industry, the Milk Mustache Mobile recently traveled to Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

This celebrity-flanked mobile is part of the first ever 100-City Better Bones Tour, the nation's largest grass-roots education effort on bone health. Making stops nationally to promote the "Drink three for calcium" message, this tour educated Middle Atlantic consumers about the vital role calcium and milk play in osteoporosis prevention.

Deanna Rose, R.D., ADA/DC Middle Atlantic media specialist, explains the process offered for women to get free bone density scans at the Pinnacle Health Center in Harrisburg.

While touring the Middle Atlantic region, the Milk Mustache Mobile stopped at local hospitals, retail markets, and consumer events at the YO! Philadelphia Festival, the Baltimore Inner Harbor, and HersheyPark. In Washington, D.C., the Better Bones Tour joined with the "America Walks For Strong Women" event at the Landmark Mall. Local radio stations broadcasted live from the Milk Mustache Mobile stops to encourage consumers to bone up on their calcium by increasing their milk consumption.

Participating in more than six television interviews and four radio spots during the four-market tour, American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic registered dietitians were on hand at every event and answered nutrition questions from consumers. IN all, the Better Bones Tour generated more than 16 television, five newspaper, and four radio placements about milk and its role in bone health in the four cities.

In addition to providing health experts to answer consumer questions during the tour, American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic worked to find ideal locations for tour stops, alerted local media, and staffed each event. Local dairy princesses also helped with the milk mustache photos and distributed materials to people waiting to receive free bone density tests.

The Better Bones Tour will travel to New Jersey and Delaware in October. To find out where it will be stopping, contact the American Dairy Association/Dairiy Council Middle Atlantic at (215) 322-0450, ext. 3258, or visit www.whymilk.com on the World Wide Web.

York County Dairy Princess Jessica Pomraning and Chester County Dairy Princess Cindy Grossman promote milk to children visiting the Better Bones Tour in Harrisburg.

ANSWER — Pat Elligson, Millers, Md., sent in a recipe for cherry nut filling, which had been requested. Pat writes that this is an old recipe used by her aunt to fill candy Easter eggs.

Cherry Nut Easter Eggs

1 egg white
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 pounds confectioners' sugar
4 tablespoons soft butter
½ cup broken nuts
1 small jar maraschino cherries plus juice

Beat egg white, cream of tartar, and vanilla until foamy. Add enough sugar to make a thin paste. Beat in butter until mixture is smooth.

Add chopped cherries and nuts. Add remaining sugar alternately with cherry juice. A little water may be added if necessary.

Shape candy as desired. Place on waxed paper and refrigerate. Chill at least 8 hours. Dip in melted semi-sweet chocolate.

ANSWER — Shirley Miller wanted recipes using ground cherries and asked where the scarce berries can be found. Thanks to Mrs. Samuel Weaver, Myerstown, for sending a recipe. She writes that she grows ground cherries from seeds she orders from Jung or Burgess Seed catalog. Sometimes ground cherries are called husk tomato. When you start the seed in the garden, the plants come up like weeds, which you need to recognize as the plant. It does not replant well. As far as she knows, ground cherries are only used in pies.

Ground Cherry Pie

2½ cups ripe ground cherries
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons Clear-Jell
1 cup water

In kettle, boil ground cherries, water, sugar, and cinnamon until cherries are wrinkly. Take Clear-Jell and water and make a thin paste and stir in with ground cherries until thickened. (I fill with half apple slices so the taste isn't so strong). Pour mixture into pie shell and bake until crust is lightly browned.

Local And State Shows Wrap Up Fair Season

Kids had a blast participating in the Agri-Kid Olympics sponsored by Lebanon Valley Farmers/Fulton Bank on Saturday at KILE.

To enjoy the last fling of fair fun, kids of all ages attended the Manheim Community Farm Show and Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) held this past week.

These two fairs traditionally wrap up the 112 fairs held throughout Pennsylvania.

Fairs are for everyone. Although the main purpose is to showcase agriculture, you can see from these pictures, there are many fun events in which kids can participate.

Sandra Roth, 20 months, is fascinated by a sheep. Sandra is the granddaughter of Peggy Sowers, Manheim.

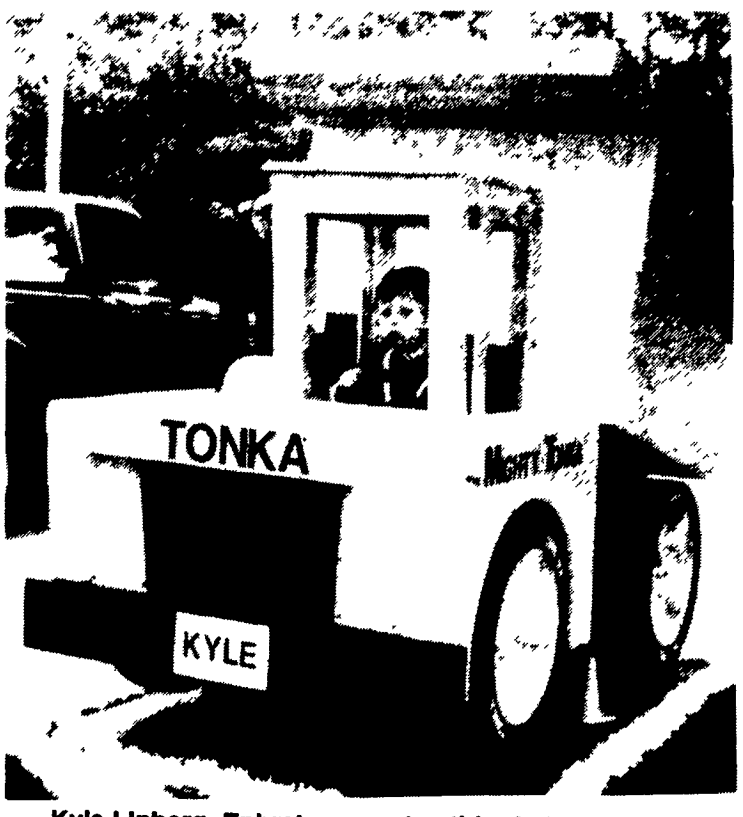
Contestants in the Keystone International Livestock Exposition Keystone Stockmen's Contest finish judging a pen of sheep in the state Farm Show Complex before moving on to the next testing station. KILE offers youth a variety of educational and fun activities.



Kyle Linberg, Ephrata, operates this rig in the Manheim baby parade.

On the left, a group of four volunteer older youth provide a tour of displays and events of the Keystone International Livestock Exposition to a leader and youth from the Oakwood Baptist Day School. The volunteer youth are members of 4-H and have exhibited animals at KILE.

Sarah Zurin Reigns At Manheim Farm Show

Sarah Zurin reigns as Manheim Farm Show Queen.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Monday night at the Manheim Farm Show should have been named Sarah Zurin night. First the petite 17-year-old captured the crown as Manheim Farm Show Queen then she led her spunky ewe lamb Katie in fashionable style to clinch top placing in the Shepherd's Lead Line Contest.

Her achievements were no fluke. Sarah has spent years competing in lead line competitions and in sheep-related 4-H projects.

A qualification for entering the queen contest requires contestants to be involved in some type of agriculture and to present an essay on what the Farm Show means to her. With seven years in the county 4-H Woolies Club, Sarah has been an active competitor at Farm Show events. And, lead line experience helps her gain ease before a crowd and remain calm when handling a rambuctious lamb.

The Lead Line requires contestants to dress in an attractive outfit that is at least 80 percent wool and lead a yearling ewe or lamb that is clean and neatly groomed. Contestants are judged on poise and presentation.

For her lead line outfit, Sara selected a brown plaid wool skirt with a matching brown vest over a classy white shirt. (Pictures and additional winners will appear in next week's issue).

Sarah lives with her parents Gary and Judy Zurin and two brothers at Newcomer Road in Mount Joy, which is in the Manheim Central School District.

She plays trumpet in the Marching Barons Band, and is a staff membe: of both the schools literary magazine and the yearbook. Sarah is also the secretary of the school's National Honor Society.

At Calvary Bible Church, Sarah is a member of the puppet team, the drama team, and a core Bible study group.

For the past three summer's Sarah has participated in mission projects with Habitat for Humanity and on missions teams to Jamaica, Ukraine, and Romania.

After high school graduation, Sarah plans to attend Bible college and then go into full-time mission work in Eastern Europe.

As Fair Queen, Sarah received a $100 savings bond and $50 in cash. In addition to handing out ribbons at livestock events, she will ride in the Farm Show parade and receive an all-expense paid trip to the State Farm Show Queen Pageant to be held in January.

After being crowned Farm Show Queen, Sarah Zurin made a dash to change into a wool outfit in order to participate in the Shepherd's Lead Line, where she captured the grand champion prize in the senior division.

Top Gun Award Winners Compete Nationally

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Five teen-age boys, four from Pennsylvania and one from Maryland, are celebrating a national victory.

The five received the Top Gun Award at the National Junior Show held recently at the All American Show in Indiana.

According to reports, it is unusual to have so many winners from this area because the show is dominated by western exhibitors.

More than 1,000 exhibitors attended the show and 300 youths competed for the Top Gun Award, which is determined from an accumulation of points attained by participating in various activities. The scores reflect the most well-rounded individual for sheep promotion, shepherding, marketing, and speaking. These are determined from showing the breed, preparing an essay, an ad layout, designing a logo, and video with script.

The five Top Gun winners are Kyle Fleener, representing the Hampshire breed; Jesse Rohrer, representing the Shropshire breed; Eric Cowden, representing the Dorset breed; Billy Leib, representing the Rambouillet breed, and Jacob Gargas, representing the Oxford breed.

Jesse Rohrer is the 16-year-old son of Jeff and Julie Poffenberger of Sharpsburg, Md. The family lives on a beef farm, but Jesse has raised his own sheep since he was 8 years old. He now has 40 head of Shropshires, Suffolks, and Hampshires, but won the award for the Shropshire species.

"I love showing, but lambing is also an exciting time because it's interesting to see what I'm going to have to work with the next season," Jesse said.

Eric Cowden, 17, is the son of Bruce and Sandy Cowden of Prosperity. It was the third year, Eric won the Top Gun award in the Dorset breed.

He also had his introduction to sheep through 4-H and begin raising sheep when he was eight. Eric has 60 registered Dorset ewes.

"I like the Dorset breed because they are easy to keep, hardy, and not much maintainence. I think they're the prettiest breed," Eric said.

After graduation, Eric plans to go into ag business and hopefully attend Penn State University.

Billy Leib, 17, is the son of Bob and Susan Leib of Mechanicsburg.

Billy's parents started a flock of sheep under the name Shepherd's Crook before he was born. As a toddler, Billy remembers shows being lots of fun. Billy now owns 25 Rambouillets, seven Southdowns, five Oxfords, and 30 Boer goats.

In addition to winning the Top Gun Award, Billy also won showmanship in his class at the national show.

At Cumberland Valley High School, Billy is a senior FFA member and both chapter and Cumberland-Dauphin-Perry Area FFA present.

He plans to study at Scottsdale Culinary Institute in Arizona.

"I've always been into cooking," said Billy, who thinks he can promote lamb cooking when he becomes a chef.

Jacob Gargas, 17, is the son of Paul and Eileen Gargas of Telford. Jacob and his brother Issac raise Merinos and Oxfords. They have 50-60 head.

Jacob is a junior at Christopher Dock High School. He isn't sure what he will do have high school graduation except he is certain: "I'll always keep sheep."

At 14-years-of-age, Kyle Fleener is the youngest winner. He grew up in a well-known sheep family who operate BluAcres in Robesonia. His Brubaker grandparents raised Hampshires and now his parents Sarah and Tim Fleener breed sheep. They have 100 head in all. Kyle owns about 10 of his own.

Kyle said that it's been rewarding to accomplish his goals. "I wanted to show the champion or reserve at the Pennsylvania Farm Show and I got a reserve in 1995. When I went to the All American last year, I decided I really wanted the Top Gun Award and now I got that," Kyle said.

Kyle recently began showing cattle and showed at the Shorthorn Junior National Show.

"Cattle are a lot easier to work with than sheep. They get calm and tame easier," Kyle said.

A ninth grader at Eastern Lebanon County High School, Kyle plans to go to college. He hopes to become a realtor and auctioneer.

"I'm having fun going to shows, but it's difficult to get enough people to help show a flock," Kyle said.

Auction To Benefit Conestoga Christian Day School

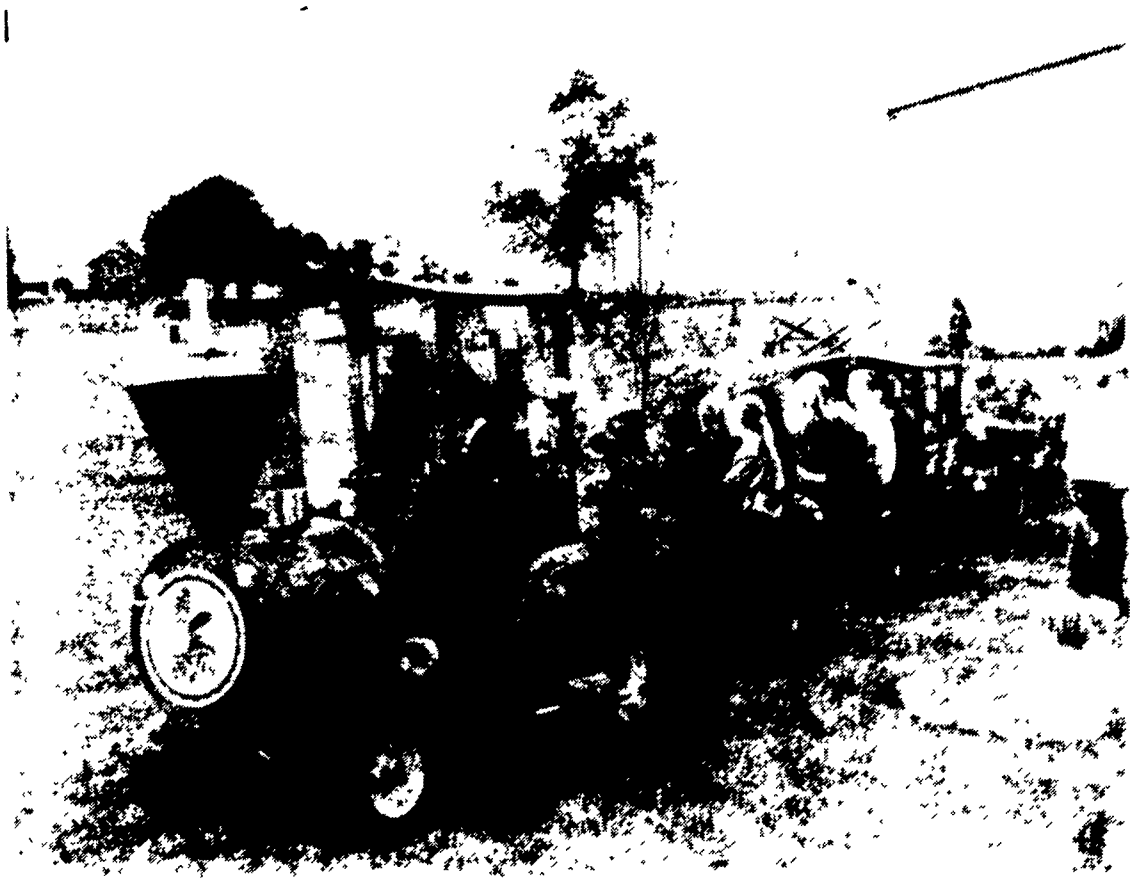
MORGANTOWN (Berks Co.) — Conestoga Christian School will hold its 25th annual Benefit Auction October 16 and 17, at the school in Morgantown. The annual event features a chicken barbecue and craft sale on Friday, October 16, and the auction on Saturday.

Friday's activities feature the chicken barbecue from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. with two drive-through pick-up areas. The drive-thru will be open from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the school on Route 23 just west of Morgantown. Complete chicken barbecue dinners and chicken halves will be available for pick-up or may be eaten in the gymnasium while visitors preview Saturday's auction items.

For those interested in doing some early Christmas shopping, the handmade craft sale is open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the school's gymnasium. The craft area features a wide range of country crafts and collectibles.

Saturday begins with a pancake and sausage breakfast from 6:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the Conestoga Mennonite Church across the street from the school. At 8 a.m. the craft area reopens and at 9:30 a.m. the main event begins with the opening bids at the auction. Hundreds of items donated by local businesses, friends of the school and school patrons, provide another opportunity for buy-

(Turn to Page B18)



One of the activities available for children during the school's benefit auction is a train ride. The children's activity area offers inexpensive toys to buy and activities and crafts for children to do.

Homemade apple dumplings will be sold during the Conestoga Christian School's annual auction to be held Oct. 16-17.

Showy Ewes And Fashions Spotlight Sheep Industry

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Ever since I was little, I've been entering this," said Angela Bowes of the Keystone Lead Line held annually in the Farm Show Complex during Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE).

But it wasn't until this year that Angela clinched the highly coveted trophy—first place win in the senior division.

Readers will probably recognize the 20-year-old under the name of Angela Lovell, former Lycoming dairy princess and oft-time winner ofomebred Dorset and Suffolk sheep.

Married in August, Angela lives in Williamsport and found time to stitch her own stylish wool outfit. Her 100 percent wool textured dress in a cream color showed off the wonderful new look of lightweight wool. She wore a fully-lined brocade jacket with a stand-up collar.

Taking second place in the senior division was Hilda Mitchell of Skaneateles, N.Y. The 19-year-old wore a black-crop style jacket and wrapped-around skirt that she sewed and crewel embroidered. She spun and dyed the wool used for the embroidery.

In addition to raising purebred Oxford and Romney sheep, she is vice president of the New York State Sheep Producers. Hilda is a third year student at Cornell University. She has spent a semester studying abroad in New Zealand. Hilda's major is fiber science and she hopes to pursue a career in the sheep and wool industry.

Third-place senior winner was Robin Harkins of Forest Hill, Md. The 15-year-old sewed her two-piece tailored outfit trimmed with tan ultra suede.

Robin is vice president of the Harford County Livestock Club and treasurer of the North Harford FFA.

Twenty-three contestants participated in the event organized by Joan Miller of Wolmesdorf.

In the intermediate division, Emmalynn Little of Harford County, Md., took first place. Emmalynn made a three-piece outfit with coordinating fabric. The coat, vest, and slacks were embellished with applique and embroidered blanket stitching.

Emmalynn led a registered four-horned Jacob yearling ewe.

Second-place in the intermediate division went to Amanda Miller of Womelsdorf. She wore a semi-fitted fully-lined wool teal jacket and skirt. She led a Southdown ewe on which she tied a matching teal scarf around her neck. Amanda wins numerous awards at local and state levels for her breeding flock and for market lamb projects.

Morgan Firestine took third-place in the intermediate division. She wore a two-toned black sweater vest made of wool and mohair and a stitched-down pleated skirt.

Morgan raises both Hampshires and Soutdowns and is a member of the 4-H Livestock Junior Judging team.

In the junior division, Laura Hunter took first place. She wore a blue jumper coordinated with wool accessories she made herself. This included a plaid bookbag, headband, and a matching blue halter for her Dorset yearling ewe.

Holly Lynn Phipps took second place. The 11-year-old from Harford Co., Md., wore a A-line skirt that she had sewn.

Third place went to Kelsey Bowman of Drumore, Lancaster County. She wore a fuchsia jacket coordinated with a swishing plum-striped skirt. The 11-year-old led a natural colored ewe decorated with matching plaid bows to complement Kelsey's outfit.

The purpose of the lead line is to present a class of yearling ewes in a most attractive manner to give spectators an opportunity to see the best of the sheep industry and to promote the varied and beautiful wools available for today's fashion-conscious consumers.

The impressive display of fashions is a crowd pleaser. The audience may sometimes be puzzled by the judges' decision, but judges base scores on a combination of the sheep's show characteristics and the lead person's ability to control and lead her sheep. A hard-to-control sheep can greatly alter the score of a potential winner.

Judges for the event were Ron Guenthern, sheep judge, and Wendy Nemec and Holly Wealdron, both of Connecticut.

From the left, Pennsylvania Livestock Association Secretary Beverly Gruber hands out educational packets to the many school teachers who brought classes on field trips to the state Farm Show Complex to see some of the four species of livestock exhibited at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

Holly Lynn Phipps

Robin Hawkins leads a Hampshire yearling ewe to place third in the senior division of the Keystone Shepherd's Lead Line.

FFA
BUILDING THE FUTURE

Cedar Crest At All American

The Cedar Crest FFA recently participated at the Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show.

Members worked as tour guides for elementary students in the Harrisburg area. Members who served as tour guides were Jason Balsbaugh, Joel Krall, Tom Perry, Jon Reilly, Nate Artz, Courtney Kreiner, Jeremy Balsbaugh, and Kris Keller.

The told the students about different breeds of cattle such as Holsteins, Jerseys, Brown Swiss, and Ayrshire. The tour guides informed the children about the different feeds, such as hay, ryelage, corn silage, haylage, and soybeans. They also showed the preschoolers how a cow is milked.

At the end of the tour the children were treated to a glass of milk. They also meet pinky the cow. After the tour the children realized that the milk they drink was not made at the store, but it came from a cow.

In addition to members serving as tourguides, Kendra Reist, Jared Zimmerman, Daniel Eberly, and Hannahy Bomgardner participated in the dairy judging team competition. They competed against 21 teams from across Pennsylvania. The team won 1st place with a score of 982. The following people placed: Hannay Bomgardner, 3rd; Dan Eberly, 7th; Amanda Martin, 13th; Kendra Reist, 37th; and Nate Artz, 42nd. The placings were out of approximately 400 contestants. Other people in the dairy judging career development event were Jared Zimmerman, Brent Copenhaver, Erin Templin, and Jason Shirk.

L.M.H.

Five Lancaster Mennonite High School FFA members will attend the FFA Farm Business Management Career Development Event in Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 11-12.

The Farm Business Management Team members are Joel Harnish, son of John and Judy Harnish, Washington Boro; Chad Hurst, son of George and Mary Hurst, Lititz; Ryan Martin, son of Gerald and Carolyn Martin, Ephrata; and Dayna Weinhold, daughter of Sharon Weinhold, Lancaster, and Daniel Weinhold, Salunga. Kerwin King, son of Clair and Donella King, Cochranville, served as alternate. The team is coached by C. Lehman Metzler.

"The two-part farm business management event tests the ability of students to analyze the agricultural commodity market and choose the proper endeavors for thei farm or business," said Dale Crabtree, National FFA Organization teacher services specialist. Students also apply the economic principles and concepts needed in making the correct business decisions while teaching them how to utilize records and other available information.

Participants are given a 50-question exam of economic principles in farm business management and a problem-solving analysis section. This sectino enables students to apply the concepts they have learned in real-life situations. Participants must understand the concepts they have used and be able to defend their decisions to the judges.

THE AWARDS

AE50 Award from the American Society of Agricultural Engineers

MF 6100 and MF 8100 Series Tractors have earned the two highest awards for uncompromising product innovation and technology.

OEMmie Award from the Society of Automotive Engineers.

THE REWARDS

Power efficiency. These 86-180 hp tractors deliver up to 90% of their engine horsepower to the wheels and PTO. This means they can outwork tractors that are larger and more expensive, and do it on less fuel.

Sarah Boyd Clinches Market Trophy At New Holland

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Sarah Boyd gambled and won. She showed Jordan, her heavyweight market lamb at four different county fairs.

The first three times Jordan took grand champion in the non-sale market lamb division. The fourth time Sarah decided to enter him in the sale division at New Holland Fair.

After some tough competition Sarah clinched the trophy and her dad Kerry Boyd said, "It's a rare feat to keep a lamb at 12:00 (market condition) for four weeks."

How did she do it?

"I'm not telling. It's a family secret," the 17-year-old from Ephrata said.

However, both daughter and dad stressed that to do so, you must first have a lamb bred with show quality and keep it solid with exercise.

"Barb knows what she's doing," Boyd said of the lamb that had been purchased from Barb Bambury of B&B Lambs in Ohio.

Ironically, the reserve champion market lamb had also been purchased from B&B. Shown by Rachel Day, daughter of Cliff and Anna Day of New Holland, the reserve named Scooter was conditioned by running ramps.

Lightweight market lamb champion and reserve were shown by Travis Donough of Manheim and Jimmy Zimmerman, Reinholds.

Showing the medium weight champion and reserve respectively were brother and sister Brad and April Lehman of Willow Street.

The non-sale market lamb champion was a bred and owned sheep named Sonar and shown by Jen Zimmerman, Reinholds.

Showing the non-sale lamb reserve champion was Heather Zeigler of Lititz. The sheep had been purchased from the Mid-Atlantic Sale.

In the breeding sheep competition, the grand champion over all breeds was a Hampshire ewe shown by Jimmy Zimmerman. The reserve champion was a Suffolk ewe shown by Andrew Gerhart.

Jimmy Zimmerman also showed the champion and reserve champion ram and ewe in both the Cheviot and Hampshire breeds.

Columbia champion ram was shown by Gabriel Bowman and his sister Kelsey showed the champion ewe. Kelsey also showed the champion Polypay ram and her sister Dallassa showed the champion ewe. Gabriel came back into the show ring to claim both champion ram and ewe titles in the Natural Colored breeds.

Corriedale competition was swept by Travis Redmond of Mohnton. His Corridale ram went on to become the reserve champion ram over all breeds. Travis also took Shropshire grand champion ram and ewe with his brother Travis giving him some competition in the show ring.

In the Dorset division, both polled and horned entries competed with Jennifer Zimmerman taking both champion ram and ewe. The Dorset ram went on to be named the champion ram over all breeds. Jennifer also showed the grand champion Southdown ewe.

In addition to the champion Suffolk ewe, shown by Andrew Gerhart, that went on to be reserve champion ewe and breeding sheep over all breeds, Adam Zurin showed the grand champion ram in that breed.

Alex Lauffer swept the Romney division.

Judge Paul Wissinger of Berks County selected Sarah Boyd as senior showmanship champion. Adam Zurin was first in the division for 2-3-years experience. The 11-year-old had previously captured trophies for showing at both 4-H Roundup and E-town this year. He and his sister Sara have a small flock on their parents' Judy and Gary Zurin's farm in Mount Joy. Although the Zurins did not capture a championship, their homebred flock is improving as both siblings took some first places in their market lamb classes.

Samantha Dissinger took a first in showmanship in the novice division. The 10-year-old from Reinholds was commended by the judge for holding the lamb's head erect at all times. Samantha, daughter of Dawn and Steve Smith, said that she decided to show sheep through the influence of her neighbors Jim and Jen Zimmerman.

Delaware County Fair Focuses On 4-H

SPRINGFIELD (Delaware Co.) — The Delaware County 4-H Fair was held recently at the 4-H Farm and Educational Center on the property of the Garrett-Williamson Foundation in Newtown Square.

Members exhibited their 4-H projects and competed for awards, according to Bud Bryan, 4-H fair coordinator. An annual highlight of the fair is the livestock auction where members sell the pigs and lambs they have raised. Frank C. Videon of Newtown Square again purchased the 240-pound champion market hog raised by Meredith Ruzowicz of Newtown Square for $625. The reserve champion hog weighing 224 pounds was raised by Katie O'Keefe of Havertown sold to Medfords Meats of Chester for $400. Medfords and Hatfield Quality Meats of Hatfield bought three other hogs. The other 13 hogs sold as "freezer trade" directly to individuals who wanted this top quality meat for family consumption.

Eleven market lambs were also sold, with the 115-pound champion raised by Joan Harris of Wallingford selling for $225 to Friends of James Harris of Springfield. Ben Ruzowicz of Newtown Square sold his 116-pound reserve champion lamb to Alex Oleyleowski of Upper Darby and Bill Cranny of Drexel Hill for $220.

The other members who received champion and reserve champion awards were: Poultry - Colleen Cranny of Drexel Hill, David Kays and Katie O'Keefe of Havertown, Julie McClelland of Colwyn, Elilzabeth Hanna of Newtown Square, Andrew Shaw of Merion Station. Sheep Showmanship - Katie Magliochetti of Media, Katlyn Novello of Sharon Hill, Holly Gingrich of Drexel Hill, David Kays of Havertown, Ben and Meredith Ruzowicz of Newtown Square. Hog Showmanship - John Ploeg, Meredith Ruzowicz, Anthony Skalski of Newtown Square, Brian Albany of Boothwyn, Emilie Davis of Springfield, Neal Bozentka of Media, Bridget Friel of Drexel Hill, Ryan O'Keefe of Havertown. Veterinary Science - Katie Magliochetti of Media, Lynne Erickson of Havertown. Gardening - Stuart Anderson of Wallingford, Aaron Barrett of Upper Darby, Aaron, Adam and David Murply of Collingdale. Horse - Emile Davis of Springfield, Sasha Kinney of Drexel Hill, Clare Castagnera of Havertown, Michele Shuman of Newtown Square, Tara Gary of Norwood, Mark Werzalis of Chichester.

Meat Evaluation Center Announces Boar Results

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center has announced the results of the 23rd Performance Tested Boar Sale, conducted at the Ag Arena on Penn State's University Park Campus during Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

The sale started with the top indexing pen of boars consigned by Neutzel Yorkshires. The top bid of the day, $1,000 was offered by Kenneth Jones of Danville. That bid entitled him to his pick of the top-indexing pen. He chose the lot #1 boar. The remaining boars in that pen sold for an average price of $833. The 22 Yorkshire boars in the sale sold for an average price of $520.

Four Durocs averaged $350. The top-selling Duroc was consigned by Twin Maples Farm as purchased by Ronald Perrin of Saxton for $400. Three Landrace boars were consigned by Billig Farms and sold for an average of $433. The top-selling boar in this pen was purchased by Kenneth Jones of Danville for $550.

The single Hampshire boar sold was consigned by Frank and Julie Feeser and was purchased by Fleming Bros., Inc. of Hampsted, Md. for $575.

The single Berkshire in the sale was consigned by Russel and Arlie Cornbower and was sold to Edward Eperthemer for $300. The 31 boars in the sale sold for an average price of $484

For more information about Pennsylvania's Performance Testing Programs and sales, contact Glenn Eberly, Director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Rd., State College, PA 16803, (814) 238-2527 or phone/fax (814) 865-5857 or fax (814) 863-6042.

A silent gift certificate auction featuring a variety of services from local businesses gets under way at 9 a.m. on Saturday and lasts until 1 p.m. At 11, the class gift baskets go on sale featuring the creativity and contributions from each of the K through 12 classes. The baskets are often a highlight of the sale. Artwork from wildlife artists Dan Christ and Ken Hunter, Mildred Sands Kratz, Todd Ream, and many others will be featured along with Winross trucks at noon. A 1984 Eddie Bauer edition Ford Bronco with current state inspection will be sold at 12:30 p.m. Then, at 1 p.m., the quilts, wall hangings, and other hand sewn items are auctioned. Quilt patterns at this year's sale include Irish Chain, Diamond Star, Mariner's Compass, Harrison Rose and others.

Specialty items such as sports memorabilia, including a football autographed by former Pittsburgh Steeler Jack Ham and a Scott Roden autographed print, various Longaberger® baskets, beef, pork, and home-cooked meals are auctioned off throughout the day.

Of course, no country auction would be complete without the food. The food tent menu offers favorites like apple dumplings, pies, baked goods, a pork roast, soups, and pizza.

All proceeds from the two-day sale benefit Conestoga Christian School. Conestoga offers a fully-accredited K through 12 program. Many of the school's 293 students are actively involved in the benefit auction which helps to fund the school's annual operating budget.

Whether it's early Christmas shopping or just enjoying the country auction and food, you'll enjoy the day. Bidder registration begins at 8 a.m. on Saturday. For more information, call the school at 610-286-0353.

Those available for interviews are: Glenna Hershberger, school administrator, 610-286-0353; Frank Law, school board chairman, 610-286-5754; Amos Stoltzfus, Spiritual Life Committee chairman, 610-286-5607; and Wayne Gascho, teacher at Conestoga, 610-286-0353 (by appointment during school hours).

Researchers Receive Apple Grant

GENEVA, N.Y. — Cornell University has received a three-year $717,000 grant from an anonymous donor to bring new technologies to New York apple growers and processors.

Entomologists, plant pathologists, food scientists, food scientists and horticulturists at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station (NYSAES) in Geneva will apply their expertise to the development of new apple products and more cost-effective and environmentally friendly orchard production systems. Agricultural economists in Ithaca will evaluate market feasibility and consumer reactions to the new products.

The grant is being carried out in cooperation with New York industry. Major players include Seneca Foods in Pittsfield, Red Jacket Orchard in Geneva, Nature's Pleasures in Wolcott, and Earl's Meadery in Locke.

"We have three main objectives," said Harvey Reissig, entomologist at NYSAES, one of nine Cornell researchers listed on the grant. "The first is to develop more sustainable, environmentally sound, economical apple production and integrated pest management system for apples so fruit is grown in an environmentally friendly manner that poses minimal risks to growers and consumers. The second is to stimulate the growth of the apple processing industry in New York State by developing technologies that support commercial production of diversified, high value apple products. The third objective is to assess the economic impacts, marketing potential, and consumer acceptance of these products."

In applying for the grant, researchers were responding to market pressures and industry demand. In order for the New York apple industry to remain competitive in global apple markets, growers are faced with making long-term investments that will bear fruit well into the 21st century. Older, less productive orchards need to be replanted with dwarf and semi-dwarf trees that yield good quantities of high quality apples that consumers will buy. Production systems need to be efficient and environmentally friendly, and the industry needs improved marketing options.

"For many years, researchers at Geneva have been developing integrated pest management (IPM) systems to improve control and reduce pesticide use in apple orchards using biological, cultural, and chemical controls that minimize risks and improve profitability," said Station Director James Hunter. "These funds will add greatly to our ability to capitalize on this work and carry out the research and extension program to bring new technologies to apple growers and apple processors. We are very pleased that the doctor recognizes the importance of Cornell's research and extension programs in apples, and has made a major financial commitment to support them."

Collaborative efforts among the state, apple growers and processors have supported apple research at Cornell in the past. These new funds will greatly accelerate the work of scientists at Geneva to strengthen the apple industry in New York and provide consumers with desirable products.

In addition to Reissig, the other investigators on the grant are Art Agnello (Entomology-Geneva), Wayne Wilcox (Plant Pathology-Geneva), Terence Robinson (Horticultural Science-Geneva), Steve Hoying (Horticultural Extension Specialist-Wayne County), Cy Lee and Mark McLellan (Food Science-Geneva), and Gerald White and Brian Henehan (Agricultural Resource and Manageent-Ithaca).

The New York apple industry is the second largest in the U.S., and the largest in the Northeast. Apples are produced on more than 56,000 acres and contribute an average farm gate value of $125 million annually (1990-95 figures). New York apple growers produce 1.1 billion pounds of apples annually. They market an average of 471 million pounds of apples as fresh fruit and 577 million pounds as processing products, primarily as sauce, slices, juice, and cider, in canned, frozen and bottled form. There are three major apple production areas in New York, situated along Lake Ontario, the Hudson River, and Lake Champlain. Per capita, Americans consume an average of 46 pounds of apples each year. Of that, 19 pounds are fresh and 27 pounds are processed.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — A reader has psoriasis and wants to know what remedies have helped other readers.

QUESTION — A reader writes that if L. Sensenig of Shippensburg sends in her full name and address to this column, she will send her a free copy of "The Warm Summer."

ANSWER — Mrs. Lester Weber, Nottingham, wanted the words to the song "The Paper Boy." Thanks to Maryann King, Narvon; Lorraine Oberholtzer, Annville; Glenda Siegrist, and others for sending the words.

The Paper Boy

Out on the corner, standing alone
Stood a little paper boy, hungry and cold
And as the crowd came passing by.
These words, he said, with a tear in his eye
(Chorus)
"Please buy a paper from me
So I can get me something to eat
My clothes are ragged, no shoes on my feet," Cried the little paper boy, there on the street.
"Out in the cold, wide world alone
I haven't a place on earth to call home
I haven't a chance like other boys have
I haven't a mother and neither a dad."
Chorus.
Early next morning when the crowd came by.
The boy was gone, and they wondered why
They started searching and found him dead
He died with a paper under his head.
Chorus.
No one was there, his body to claim
There he was lying, but he felt no pain
Now he's gone to heaven we know
The little paper boy, died in the snow.

ANSWER — The copy of the song, "The Orphans" was printed in the Sept. 19 issue. Numerous varieties of the song were sent in. Emma Fisher, Faradise writes that these four lines should be added to the chorus:

"'We can't earn our bread, we're too little,' she said.
Jim's five years and I'm only seven
There's no one to love us since Papa is dead
And our darling Mama's in heaven."

ANSWER — Kay Hampford, Pottsville, wanted to know where there are basket making classes and of a store that sells supplies. Thanks to Catherine Thomas, Mercersburg, for writing that she sells baskets and teaches basket making at 7229 Buchanan Trail West, Mercersburg, PA 17236. For supplies, she recommends The Country Seat, 1013 Old Philly Pike, Kempton, PA 19529-9321, phone (610) 756-6124.

ANSWER — Arlene Zimmerman, 600 B Gristmill Rd., Ephrata, wanted patterns for latch hook rugs. Thanks to Mary Ann Lapp, New Holland, for recommending Ada Martin, 330 Pleasant Valley Rd., Ephrata, PA 17522.

ANSWER — Doris Spitler, Dornsife, wanted the words to the following song about states. Thanks to Mary Ann Lapp, New Holland, for sending the words.

State Song

(Boys) "What did Delaware? Whate did Delaware? What did Delaware, girls? Oh, what did Delaware? I ask you now as a personnal friend, what did Delaware?
(Girls) "She wore her New Jersey boys. She wore her New Jersey. She wore her New Jersey boys. She wore her New Jersey. I tell you now as a personal friend. She wore her New Jersey.
(Continue in this fashion with the following lines)
Boys: "What did Tenessee? Girls: She saw what Arkansas.
Where has Oregon? She's taken Oklahoma.
What did Idaho? She hoed her Maryland.
How did Florida? She died of Missouri.
How did Wisconsin? She stole the Nebraska.

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

Gleaner Expands Combine Fleet

ATLANTA, Ga. — Gleaner has expanded its combine fleet with the development of a new C-series environmental model.

Called the C62, the class six combine joins the lineup of four Gleaner R-Series rotary models in the field.

The new C62 has a 61.5-inch feeding area, incorporates new threshing and separating systems, and sports a 300-bushel grain bin that unloads at 2.2 bushels per second.

"While this is a conventional threshing system, more than half of the combine comes from the best engineering in our rotaries," said Jerry Weaver, general marketing manager, Gleaner combines. "Several field-proven designs in our rotaries, like the exclusive accelerator roll system that speeds grain through a high-velocity air blast for quality cleaning, are incorporated into the C62."

Weaver said the C62 is "a conventional combine with an unconventional design." According to Weaver the threshing and separating systems use the best of traditional combine thinking while building on Gleaner's long-standing natural flow design that conveys the crop in a straight line to the concave and cylinder.

The C62 is powered by a Cummins C Series diesel engine (505 cu in./8.3L, 260 SAE hp) that connects to a hydrostatic transmission The combine can be fitted with a choice of high capacity heads which include a rigid, flex, draper, stripper, and windrow pickup.

The Hugger corn heads with their 21.5 degree entry angle are available with 4 to 12 row configuration and include both narrow and wide row setups.

Deere Introduces Rotary Disk Mowers

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere introduces two new 3-point rotary disk mowers designed for cutting thick or matted grass and hay, and to improve cutting performance in fields with gopher mounds or ant hills. The new 265 and 275 Rotary Disk Mowers replace the 260 and 270 Mowers in the product line.

The John Deere 265 Rotary Disk Mower has a 6-disk cutterbar with a 7-foot 10-inch cutting width. The 275 Rotary Disk Mower's 7-disk cutterbar cuts a 9-foot 2-inch swath. The high-speed rotating disks cut at 2,986 rpm, allowing operators to cut even tangled and wet hay up to 8 mph.

A heavy-duty driveline with overrunning clutch is standard on the John Deere 265 and 275 Rotary Disk Mowers. The mowers also feature spring-laoded belt tensioners that automatically compensate for initial belt stretch. Power is transmitted to the rotary disks through fully enclosed gears, running in oil for quiet, reliable operation.. A shearable pinion shaft, which protects a disk if it hits an object in the field, can be easily removed from the top of the cutterbar. Each disk has two free-swinging knives that are easy to remove and replace.

The John Deere 275 Rotary Disk Mower features a 7-disk cutterbar with a 9-foot 2-inch cutting width. The high-speed rotating disks cut at 2,986 rpm.

The frame and cutterbar ground clearance on the 265 and 275 Mowers have been increased, making it easier to clear end rows while making turns. The cutterbar cuts up to 35 degrees below horizontal, and a stronger float spring improves flotation.

The entire cutterbar is enclosed by a heavy rubber-coated protective curtain. The front section of the curtain hinges up and automatically locks in the raised position for easy access to the cutterbar area for maintenance or inspection.

The 265 and 275 Mowers feature a new swath forming wheel that replaces the swath sheild on previous models, reducing the chance of damage when turning or backing up to reengage the breakaway latch. The swath wheel, located inside the curtain, forms a more uniform swath when operating at different cutterbar angles and minimizes ground scuffing during sharp turns. An optional left-hand inner-swath forming wheel can be added to reduce the swath width.

AgrEvo Announces EPA Approval Of Bt Corn Hybrids

WILMINGTON, Del. — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has announced approved registration of StarLink™ brand Bt corn hybrids that control European Corn Borer (ECB) larvae. The current registration requires corn harvested from the StarLink corn hybrids be used in domestic animal feed and industrial non-food uses.

"StarLink brand corn hybrids provide corn growers with the next generation of Bt, and unsurpassed control of ECB," said Dr. Keith Newhouse, AgrEvo Bt corn marketing manager. "The StarLink technology provides the plant with an exceptionally strong dose of Bt for season-long control expressed throughout the plant, against both first- and second-generation ECB. A significant added value is that StarLink hybrids also provide resistance to Liberty® Herbicide from AgrEvo.

"StarLink technology represents a very important breakthrough in combating the possibility of European Corn Borer resistance to Bt, because StarLink contains the Cry9C protein. Cry9C has a different site of action within the insect gut compared to proteins produced by currently marketed Bt plants. StarLink technology has an excellent fit with EPA emphasis on careful resistance management of Bt to assure the long-term effectiveness of this environmentally preferable insect control technology"

Garst Seed Company will be the first seed marketer to commercialize StarLink corn hybrids, with four G-STAC™ Bt hybrids available for growers this year, in maturities ranging from 95 to 113 days. G-STAC is the name given to Garst's line of elite, multi-task hybrids.

Corn hybrids incorporating StarLink technology express the Cry9C protein from the bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt), noted Dr. Newhouse. When the target insect feeds on the plant, the ingested protein disrupts the lining of the insect's gut, causing death of the insect. Bt proteins do not harm non-target species, including beneficial insects, birds, fish, mammals or humans.

Hoffman Seeds Showcases Hybrids

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co) – Hoffman Seeds presented new advances in technology at a widely attended field day recently

Growers from New Jersey, Maryland, New York, Delaware, and Pennsylvania participated in Hoffman Seeds' Maximizer Technology Learning Center Field Day.

At the field day, growers receive hands-on training and information that can be applied to their farming operations, including demonstrations of Hoffman's deep portfolio of corn, alfalfa and soybean products.

Hoffman Seeds is the exclusive producer, marketer, and distributor of Novartis Seeds field crops in the northeast and Mid-Atlantic.

At this field day, Hoffman Seeds demonstrated several new corn hybrids including N763Bt and N4640Bt with YieldGard® protection and Max 496 and Max21 with Knock*OUT*® control.

This season, Hoffman Seeds is celebrating 100 years of service to eastern agriculture. Hoffman tests more than 700 corn hybrids and more than 350 soybeans and wheat varieties on 60 acres of replicated yield trials located throughout the 13-state region.

Tractors Added To Lineup

ATLANTA, Ga – White has unveiled a line of FieldMaster™ Series tractors with improved features, new styling, and power choices ranging from 160 to 225 PTO horsepower.

These new tractors were added to the existing FieldMaster™ family which includes the 8310 (125 hp) and the 8410 (145 hp). A Cummins Series 8.3L, high torque, emission certified engine powers the new 8510, 8610, 8710 and 8810 models.

"The Cummins Series engines have been designed to meet the new worldwide clean air standards while providing exceptional overall performance," said Steve Reiling, general marketing manager, White Tractors. "Each engine will provide lasting dependability and the best possible fuel efficiency."

Additional performance updates include the newly designed powershift transmissions, offering the deluxe convenience of improved electronically controlled shifting through 18 forward and 6 reverse speeds with a single lever. This feature provides improved shifting control of forward or reverse speed selections to be made under load on the go, without using the clutch and stopping the tractor.

The improved design of the White FieldMaster™ Series tractors offers a new sloping hood and sculptured frame that allows the front tires of the Power Front Axle tractors to turn at a sharper angle for improved maneuverability. Added to the list of design improvements is the dual unlatching, tilting hood that provides quick and easy access to all major service points on the engine.

Cab improvements include a larger glass area and a redesigned interior with controls that are easier to reach. Dual cab doors with full-length handrails allow easy entry and exit while the deluxe air-ride seat and standard heat and air conditioning provide comfort.

Tractors Built For Power, Performance, Comfort

TORRENCE, Calif. — Boasting the latest in 60-90 hp tractor technology, the M-Series line-up from Kubota is engineered for optimum performance and unequaled technology.

Three models are available with Kubota's 3.3 liter, 202 cubic-inch, 4-cylinder, environmentally friendly E-TVCS diesel engine: M6800 is naturally aspirated with 68 hp, M8200 is turbocharged at 82 hp, and the M9000, with a turbocharged, intercooled, 90 hp engine. All models are also equipped with live-independent hydraulic PTO with a hp rating of 62, 73, and 80 hp, respectively.

Reduced static weight, as well as a superbly balanced chassis, make the M-Series very maneuverable. Harmful soil compaction has been significantly reduced as well. A lower center of gravity allows the M-Series to pull with incredible power and makes these tractors perfect for hay work, grass cutting, working with cattle, dairy, orchard, and vegetable applications.

The advanced E-TVCS engine is a sophisticated liquid cooled 4-cylinder diesel features multi-valve technology and indirect injection for more efficient air-intake. This enables greater power, higher torque, faster combustion, cleaner emissions and lower noise.

The governor and fuel injection pump are integrated. Response to sudden load fluctuation is quick, reducing the engine RPM drop with an impressive 28 percent torque rise. The Kubota M-Series will perform smoothly under virtually any load conditions with less need for downshifting.

Newly adopted dyanamic engine balancers have been built into the crankcase. As a result, both vertical and horizontal secondary vibrations are minimized, making the Kubota M6800/8200/9000 tractor engines extremely smooth and quiet.

Diesel Model Joins Garden Tractor Line

PORT WASHINGTON, Wis. — A new diesel model joins the Simplicity Manufacturing, Inc. Legacy Garden Tractor line. The model has a Briggs & Stratton 24.5 hp, three-cylinder liquid cooled engine with fuel injection.

"This additional engine offering allows us to meet a growing demand for diesel powered lawn and garden products here in North America as well as overseas," said Warner C. Frazier, Simplicity CEO.

The legacy series includes three gasoline-powered models, including one liquid-cooled version. Mower decks in 48-inch and 60-inch widths uniquely mount to a pivoting front axle. The Legacy can be fitted with 26 optional attachements.

Grain Board Awards Scholarships

EDGEWATER, Md. — Two students from Maryland, both headed for careers in agriculture, are the first winners in a new scholarship program launched by the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB).

Jana Lynn Edwards, 19, a sophomore at Virginia Tech, and Patrick Goode, 20, who is attending the Maryland Institute of Applied Agriculture, have each been awarded $2,500 scholarships.

The students were formally recognized July 23 during the course of the 21st annual membership meeting of Maryland Grain Producers Association and presented appropriate certificates by Breck Debnam, president of the MGPUB which administers the grain checkoff program in the state.

Jana Edwards, a 1997 graduate of North Caroline High School will enter her sophomore year this fall at Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, where she is majoring in dairy science. For this summer, she is employed by McConnell Agronomics of Denton, Md. scouting for pests and weeds in truck crops. At Virginia Tech she pledged to the University's Dairy Club and has been elected club reporter for the coming year.

"Since I was young," she wrote in her application, "I have loved to work with dairy animals and work on a computer. What better way to put these two qualities together than to become a dairy computer consultant, which is my goal. I believe that dairy farmers need to recognize the importance of technology and to use the information to enhance productivity in a more efficient manner. I would like to help them install computers for their business and to educate them on how to increase profitability."

Patrick Goode is attending the Institute of Applied Agriculture on the College Park campus of the University of Maryland, majoring in ag business management. He will complete IAA's two-year program next May and plans to continue his studies at the university, seeking a bachelor of science degree in agriculture and resource economics.

Goode said he plans to return to the family farm, supplementing his income, perhaps, with a job in the field of nutrient management. Goode has worked summers on the family farm, Malcolm Goode and Son, since 1988.

"My most important career goal," he wrote in his scholarship application, "is to keep the family farm and other surrounding lands in agriculture. Regardless of the money and time spent, I find nothing more rewarding than farming."

4-H Fair Releases Results

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — The annual Montgomery County 4-H fair was held at the 4-H center.

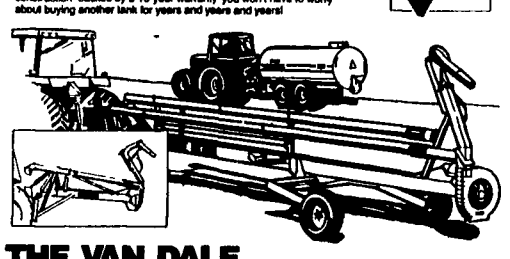
RENT US For Your Lagoon Cleaning

Van Dale Tag Team!

SERIES 5000 LAGOON PUMPS & SPREADER TANKS

Here are two Van Dale Waste Handlers that really compliment each other. Start with the new Series 5000 Lagoon pump that will agitate and empty the biggest and toughest lagoons or pits faster than any other pump on the market.

Then check out the Van Dale Tank that meets your needs in 2700 - 5500 gallon capacities. They feature a low uniform spread pattern. And with specially treated, corrosion-resistant 1/4" steel plate construction backed by a 10-year warranty you won't have to worry about buying another tank for years and years and years!



THE VAN DALE ADVANTAGE

CHECK OUT THESE PUMP FEATURES
- Hydraulic Control from the Tractor Seat
- Dependable Bearing Assembly
- Aggressive 36" High Pressure Impeller
- Heavy-Duty Drive Shaft
- Adjustable Nozzle

Herbert Hoover Farney says, "I didn't think they could mix it."

Steve, Dale, and Herbert Hoover Farney
Silvery Falls Farms - Lowville, NY

Mr. Farney is talking about mixing 11 5% long stem dry hay by ration weight in the Knight Reel Auggie 3450, which he and his sons decided to purchase in September of 1994

Herbert was born the day Herbert Hoover was elected president

The Farneys previously owned a three-auger Oswalt stationary unit They state that the "old mixer tended to ball material up, especially in wetter forages, while the Reel Auggie 3450 'fluffs' the ration."

The Farney's herd average is up about 1,000 lbs , and they have a higher protein test as well They milk 160 Holsteins, and feed a total of 260 head. They like the low power requirement — the 390 cubic foot machine is powered by a John Deere 2030 tractor

3000 Reel Auggie TMR Mixers
Now available in seven sizes with capacities from 147 to 600 cubic feet

CLAAS® Country
Meeting all your harvesting needs!

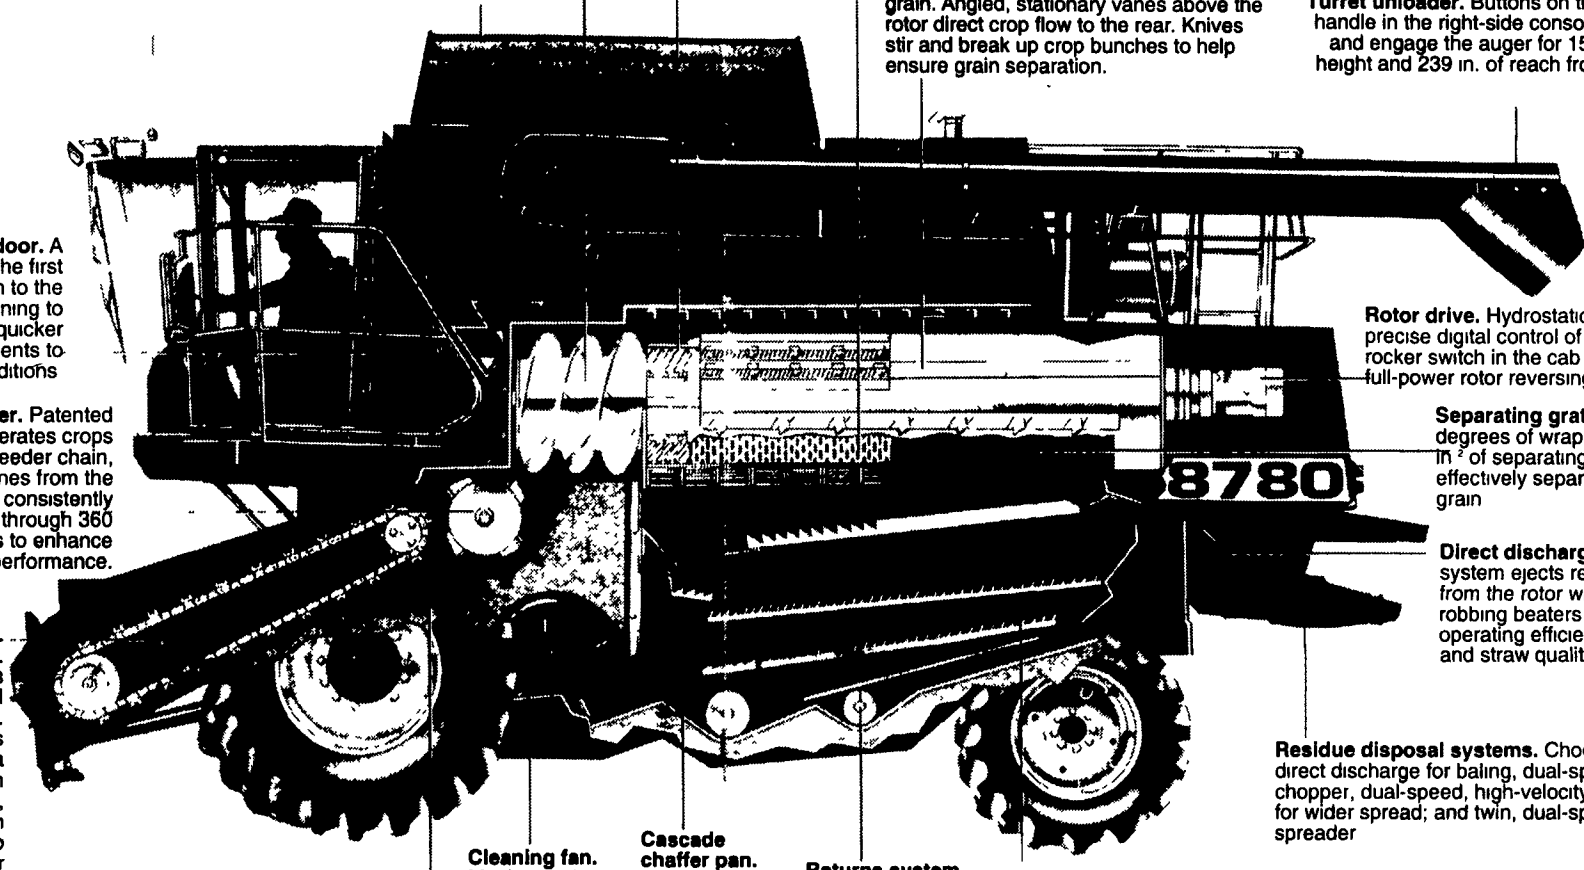
MASSEY FERGUSON 8780



Rotor intake. Hardened auger flighting moves crop from the conical rotor intake area to the threshing area.

Threshing area. Hardened threshing elements smooth crop flow while rasp bars rub crops against the concaves to efficiently dislodge the grain.

Concaves. Seven sections with 140 degrees of wrap provide more than 2,200 in² of area for gentle, yet complete threshing.

Grain tank. 230-bu. tank has folding extensions to reduce combine height to just 148 in.

Sweeps, knives, and vanes. Rotor sweeps ensure crop rotation generating centrifugal force to separate remaining grain. Angled, stationary vanes above the rotor direct crop flow to the rear. Knives stir and break up crop bunches to help ensure grain separation.

Turret unloader. Buttons on the multifunction handle in the right-side console let you swing and engage the auger for 159-in. discharge height and 239 in. of reach from the combine center

Grain sample door. A chute delivers the first bit of grain to the access opening to facilitate quicker adjustments to changing conditions

Front feed beater. Patented beater accelerates crops leaving the feeder chain, separates stones from the crop flow, and consistently feeds the rotor through 360 degrees to enhance performance.

Rotor drive. Hydrostatic motor provides precise digital control of rotor speeds A rocker switch in the cab provides easy, full-power rotor reversing

Separating grates. A full 180 degrees of wrap provides 2,241 in ² of separating area to effectively separate remaining grain

Direct discharge. Patented system ejects residue directly from the rotor without power-robbing beaters for increased operating efficiency, reliability and straw quality

Feeder system. Wide, 44-in. width matches the exceptional rotor capacity. Downtime is reduced with a feed system reverse, operated from within the cab, to quickly clear feed system and header

Residue disposal systems. Choose from direct discharge for baling, dual-speed chopper, dual-speed, high-velocity chopper for wider spread; and twin, dual-speed spreader

Cleaning fan. Monitor and adjust fan speed from the cab to ensure proper cleaning under changing conditions.

Returns system Large augers and elevator maintain harvesting rates in high-yelding crops.

Pressurized cleaning shoe. Front 8 in. of lower sieve area is nonadjustable airfoil material Along with a large chaffer and lower sieve, this produces a total cleaning area of 6,815 in² .

Built for the long haul

The New Holland Model 185 is a spreader you won't buy too often...because it's going to be with you for a long time.
Here's why:

- Corrosion-resistant steel sides
- Indestructible plastic floor boards (HDPE)
- 12-year guarantee for FREE floor and sides if they fail

The Model 185 carries a 287-bushel load with ease. We'd like to show you why this is the best-selling spreader in its class.

Super Boom™ is best

When you're looking for a skid-steer, there's the challengers and then there's the champ. Well say hello to the undisputed champ in the all-new Model LX885 New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader.

It has a 60-horsepower, turbocharged diesel engine for the ultimate in power. Its massive 2,200-lb. operating load picks up where all others leave off. Of course, it has the features you expect from New Holland, such as the best speed, stability, visibility, lift height and dump reach in the industry. Add that to the Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system and there's nothing it can't handle.

Stop by today and see for yourself why no other skid-steer can compare.

NEW HOLLAND

Why choose a New Holland skid-steer loader?

- Superior visibility
- Unbeatable stability
- Faster speeds
- Superior dump height & reach
- Greater bucket & lift capacity
- The most attachments
- Unmated dependability

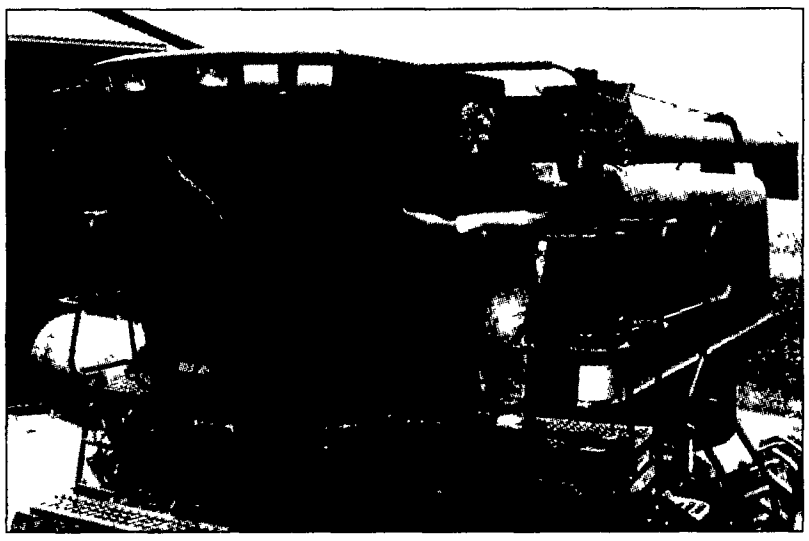
HIS DEALER GOES THE EXTRA 112 MILES - DOES YOURS?



ADVANCED MACHINERY SERVICE

"What really impresses me is that if I have a problem, it doesn't take Hoober long to fix it. Hoober mechanics are specialized, so no matter what machine it is, there isn't a problem they haven't seen. Plus they care about getting you up and running fast. That's important."

Richard Beachel, August 1998

Richard Beachel's luck wasn't running real high. It was harvest and he found himself stuck in the field with a combine that was inoperable because of a blown hydraulic hose. Richard called Hoober's McAlisterville dealership, but they didn't have the part in stock.

However, Hoober's parts manager at McAlisterville called the Intercourse location and discovered they did have the hose in stock. Because it was in the middle of harvest, Hoober knew Richard needed the part today, not tomorrow. So Hoober's airplane delivered the hose to Richard in less than two hours from the initial call. The hose was replaced and Richard was harvesting again.

You've Never Seen A Harvest Like This

Introducing The 2100 Series Axial-Flow® Combines.

The three 2100 Series combines are equipped with a high-visibility operator environment so revolutionary, everything else is history.

Wider, amazingly comfortable and designed with convenient cab-forward controls and instrumentation, this cab literally conforms to its occupant An engineering landmark – Focalized Cab Mounting – minimizes motion for a smooth, steady ride A multi-function propulsion lever puts most operations right in the palm of your hand. And an all-new right-hand console moves in tandem with your seat.

At the heart of the 2100 Series remains the strength of the Axial-Flow combine – the exclusive, patented rotor. And the recent addition of the Cross Flow™ cleaning fan provides a remarkably uniform, powerful airflow throughout the entire sieve area.

Why not stop by and see the new Case IH 2100 Series for yourself? We'll help you discover a better way of looking at your harvest.

Radial Hydraulic Pump Rebuilding Service. Tested & Ready to Install

Crop Processing Forage Harvester

Chop and process corn silage with one pass through the field. Gehl's high-speed grooved rolls crack kernels, break up the cob and smash the stalk. The results: 10 to 20 percent higher digestibility for significant increases in milk production.

- Huge harvesting capacity - utilizes up to 300 tractor horsepower.
- Eight-knife cutting cylinder - delivers length of cut up to 1 inch.
- Swing-away auger allows access to cylinder knives, processing rolls.
- Roll assembly is easily removable for haylage operations.
- Processing roll gap adjusts for varying crop conditions.

GLENCOE® SS7200/SS7400 SOIL SAVER®

For your primary tillage needs, nothing prepares your seedbed better than Glencoe SS7200 or SS7400 Soil Savers These one-pass tillage tools feature a heavy-duty 6"x4" frame with the strength to stand up to high horsepower tractors and years of hard use

Our adjustable spring-cushioned slicer gang is rock-shaft mounted for optimum bearing and blade protection. Choose heavy-duty rigid, spring cushion or AutoReset shanks with twisted shovels or sweeps to match your conservation requirements. For even more versatility, Soil Savers have working widths that range from 6 to 21 feet.

To get a closer look at the SS7200 and SS7400 Soil Savers, contact us today. Once you see how easy it is to build the optimum seedbed, you'll wonder why you didn't purchase a Soil Saver sooner

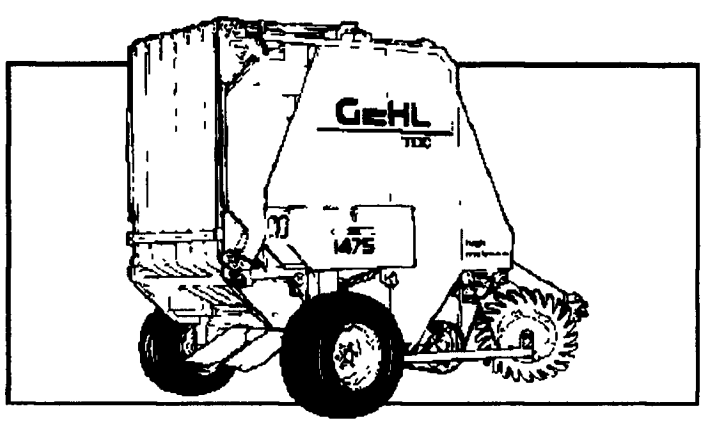
GEHL

TOTAL BALE CONTROL



.. With Gehl's variable chamber 1475 & 1875 round balers.

- Total density control (TDC) - Custom-build bales.
- Bale control system - Monitors complete baling function
- Quick-wrap option - Speeds baling, preserve quality.
- Constant velocity driveline - For smooth operation
- Electric dual twine wrap - With manual or auto control.
- Low horsepower requirement - Needs only 40 h.p.

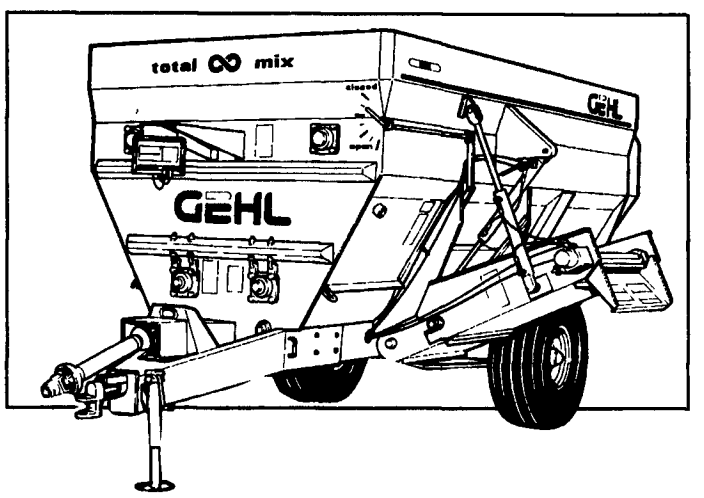
TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and mositure content.

- "Hay - slicer auger" - Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure - 8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capcities.

Early Bird HESSTON

Reserve Your 1999 Lineup And Save Next Spring.

Now through December 31, 1998 you can reserve a quality Hesston® machine for spring delivery and lock in 1998 prices. This offer includes some of Hesston's most popular models, from self-propelled windrowers, and mower conditioners to round and square balers. As every Early Bird knows, the Hesston line combines reliability and ruggedness with the advanced features you expect to cut maintenance, boost productivity and get maximum profit from every bale. See your Hesston dealer before December 31st for Early Bird prices on equipment that's a cut above the rest.

Hesston High Caps — 3900 Series

Rake it higher, wider, faster.

With high clearance inboard mounted wheels and extra wide operating widths Hesston High Capacity Rakes are in a class by themselves

High clearance.

All three models have 46 inches of rear beam clearance so hay flows easily into the windrow And theres nothing to keep the windrow from making a clean exit thanks to the overhead frame at the rear of the rake

Plus you can match these rakes to your operation since raking widths are infinitely variable within the minimum and maximum settings

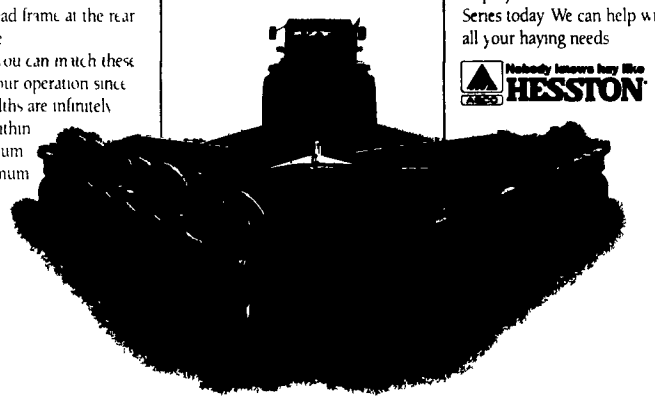
Three models.

Choose from three sizes – 12 14 and 18 wheel models The Model 3983 is 24 feet the Model 3986 is 28 feet and for the ultimate in capacity the new Model 3995 has 18 wheels and operates at a width of up to 35 feet

All models fold to eight feet for narrow road transport

For high-capacity raking stop by and see the 3900 Series today We can help with all your haying needs

Nobody knows hay like HESSTON



Hesston Balers — Model 545

Silage or hay. Wet or dry.

The Hesston' 545 Silage Special lets you join the growing group of livestock producers who are using high moisture round bales to conserve feed value while reducing haytime weather worries

Beefed-up drive.

The 545 pulls double duty – it easily produces a 2 400 pound high moisture silage bale or a 1 250 pound dry bale Thats because it comes with a beefed up drive system heavyweight suspension and wide flotation tires to tackle tough wet crops with ease

Up to 20 tons/hour.

The larger starting roll and deep groove drive rolls have been specially designed for the extra residue of high moisture baling You can bale wet hay at up to 23 tons an hour dry at up to 20 tons an hour

Stop by today and check out the baler thats built for high moisture work – the 545 Silage Special from Hesston

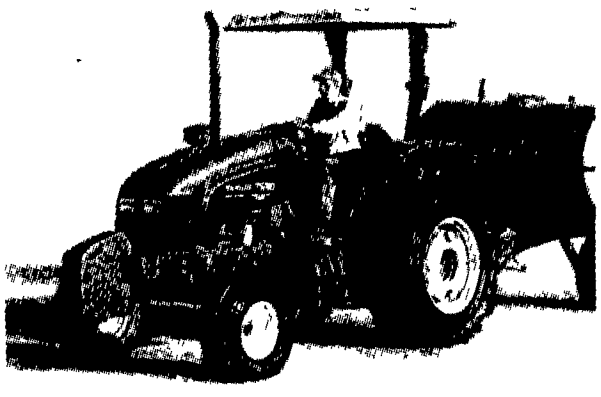
Excellent in the field - and on the farm

New Holland 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors feature a 16x16 Pulse Command™ transmission with push-button power shifting within each of four speed groups. Speeds are evenly spaced 18% apart, with nine speeds in the usual two- to seven-mph working range. Plenty of gear overlap makes range shifting unnecessary most of the time.

The shuttle lets you pull out from a dead stop or change direction without clutching. An optional, electro-hydraulically engaged creeper is also available.

NEW HOLLAND



Shuttle back and forth with ease

The left-hand, column-mounted shuttle control on New Holland 40 to 62 PTO hp tractors with 8x8 and 16x8 transmissions provides convenient shifting of the best, fully-synchronized shuttle in this horsepower class. Shuttling is controlled with the left hand, leaving your right hand free to operate the loader.

Great looks. Aggressive power.

New Holland 35 Series tractors really "work big" in the field or on the job.

- Engines have good lugging ability with 1000 useful rpm's between maximum torque and maximum power
- 14.5 gpm hydraulic flow assures fast implement response
- 3-point lift system, activated by touch control, is best-in class
- Electro-hydraulic differential lock provides maximum traction when needed.

Dandyland Starbuck Maggy Supreme Of 35th PAADS

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 4-year-old Holstein owned by Tom McCauley of Elizabethtown and Fred Strouse of Centre Hall was named supreme champion of the 35th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show (PAADS) at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Last week, Lancaster Farming reported the champions of some of the six breed shows at the PAADS. The rest of the report is made this week.

National Guernsey Show

In the National Guernsey Show, the grand and reserve grand champions of the open division were also the grand and reserve grand of the youth division show.

The grand and senior champion was an aged cow, Dix-Leee Perfecto Fanna-Twin, owned by Brett Dixon of Dix-Lee Farm in Chestertown, Maryland.

The reserve grand and reserve senior champion was a 4-year-old, Sniders Opp Georgie, owned by Jan Snider of Snider Homestead Farm, in New Enterprise.

The open division junior champion was an intermediate calf, Rutter Bros. Fayette Lizzy, owned by Terri Johnson of York. It was also the junior champion of the youth division show.

The reserve junior champion of the open division was a junior calf, Sun Set Kean Francis, owned by James and Janet Bates and family of R-Way Farm in Southington, Ohio.

The reserve junior champion of the youth division was a junior yearling, Hi Field Bossman Sady, owned by Amy Guyer of Hi Field Farm, in Derry.

Premier breeder of the show was Jan Snider of Snider Homestead Farm, while the premier exhibitor was Aaron Gable, also of Snider Homestead Farm.

The total performance winner was the sixth-place 4-year-old, Trotacre Bucky Mamie, owned by Holly Liggett of Trotacre Farm in Enon Valley.

Mid-Atlantic Regional Jersey Show

The reserve grand and reserve senior champion was a junior 3-year-old O Bryons Merit Trena Mae, also owned by Waverly Farm.

Wavery Farms was premier breeder and exhibitor of the show.

The junior champion, was a winter yearling, Shamrock Jude Julianna, owned by Ernest Kueffner, of Keuffner Holsteins & Jerseys of Boonsboro, Maryland.

The reserve junior champion was a senior calf, Piedmont Patrick Kitten-ET, owned by Deborah Osborn and Paul Stiles of Keymar, Maryland.

In the youth division show, the grand and senior champion was a senior 3-year-old, Stoney Hollow Brook Micky, owned by Amy Jo Hixson of Hixson Farm in Scottdale.

The reserve grand and reserve senior champion of the youth division was a 4-year-old, Springfield Dunker Lucky, owned by Curtis Reichard, of Reich-Dale Farm, in Chambersburg.

The reserve junior champion was a fall yearling, Regal Juno Heather, owned by Aaron Horst of Mi-Rose Jerseys in Chambersburg.

Milking Shorthorn

The grand champion and senior champion of the Milking Shorthorn Show was a 4-year-old, Innisfail RB Edda 415, owned by James Young of Horizon Farm in New Enterprise.

Edda wasn't in the youth division show, because otherwise she would have captured that show as well. However, Young showed the reserve senior and reserve grand champion of the youth division, a junior 3-year-old, Horizon Peerless Shelby. Shelby was best bred and owned of the open division show.

The reserve grand and reserve senior champion of the open division was an aged cow, Pinesedge EDT Alfair, owned by John and Marjorie Kuszlyk and family of Kuszlyk Cattle Company, Batavia, New York.

Their junior yearling, Kuszmar BT Alfair-EXP, was named junior champion. Their senior calf, Kuszmar Roberta-EXP, was named reserve junior champion.

Eastern National Holstein Sale

In addition to the shows, the 35th PAADS event featured two sales, the Eastern National Holstein Sale, and a Milking Shorthorn Sale. The results from the Milking Shorthorn Sale were not made available.

The Holstein sale, organized by the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, averaged $2,515 on 35 lots.

The top selling cow was 4-year-old Burket-Falls EC Sarina, consigned by Tom Mercuro and Ray Shoemaker of Chambersburg. A Sarina Syndicate, based out of Jefferson, Maryland, purhased Sarina for $8,300.

The second high-selling consignment was the choice of an embryo consigned by Greg Wiles of Futuraland 2020 Holsteins of Williamsport. Nelson Ebersole of Annville purchsed the embryo for $7,500.

Third high selling was a March calf, Londondale Rudolph Marla, consigned by Londondale Farms of Punxsutawney. It was purchased for $6,000 by Kr. Shaw, R. Huntsman and C. Schilling of Londondale Farms. For more information about the sale, contact the PHA at (814) 234-0364.

The PAADS is an annual event cosponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association, the state Department of Agriculture and the state Farm Show Products Commission.

Connie King Exhibits, Promotes Wool

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Connie King of Sterling, Ohio, showed both the champion and reserve champion natural colored fleeces at the 42nd annual Keystone International Livestock Show, at the State Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

King also exhibited the reserve grand champion fleece. She placed first in the Merino Ewe Fleece class and second in the Merino ram fleece. She also exhibited the reserve champion purebred farm flock fleece and reserve champion commercial farm clock fleece.

The King family has owned their Merino flock for seven years, and it has grown to 200 head. They also have Southdowns. King is a great ambassador for the Merino breed, explaining that their wool is a very fine wool, and can be used in "very good garments." King said its softness means that it can be worn next to the skin.

King has developed her wool business, selling both the fine wool which she produces, and garments such as sweaters, hats, mittens, scarves and blankets. At KILE she knitted while tending her sheep between classes.

She spends a lot of her free time promoting all natural fibers, including wool. She said, "Natural fibers are a lot more forgiving than synthetic fibers. They breathe and are good insulators, and wool serves as a natural fire retardant."

King attends many festivals which promote wools and natural fibers, including the Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival, the New York Wool Festival, Fiber Fest in Michigan and Ohio, a North Carolina craft fair and the Bob Evans Farm Festival in Ohio where she appears in a period costume made of natural fibers. She also visits a lot of schools, and talks about flax, silk and other natural fibers.

She said she feels she has found a niche market for the Merino wool and can get a premium for the high quality she produces. "My customers appreciate the fiber and quality from my animals."

King says it takes a little longer to do chores when keeping the sheep as clean as possible to maintain the high quality of the wool.

Study Shows Baleage Breakthrough

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The average weight gain among yearling beef heifers fed sliced silage bales is 23 percent more than those fed unsliced silage bales, according to a study conducted by the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State University. The two-month trial included two types of feeders and two feed access times.

The feeding trials were conducted at Penn State's Beef Cattle Research Center by Harold Harpster, Ph.D., and his staff, who evaluated the growth and performance of yearling heifers offered round bale silage in both sliced and unsliced bales produced by New Holland round balers.

The sliced bales were baled with the Bale-Slice™ feature engaged. This feature, exclusive to New Holland's Roll-Belt™ Model 644 Silage Special, slices the bale as it is being rolled inside the bale chamber.

The baler makes bales 4-foot in width and up to 5-feet in diameter. Up to seven knives rotate into the bale after the core is formed and retract just before the bale reaches its full size. The sliced bale is then secured with twine or net wrap.

"The study shows an overall significantly higher rate of gain in those heifers fed bale sliced forages," said Harpster. "The intake data combined with our feeding behavior data shows the animals are able to access the material in sliced bales and consume higher levels of dry matter per day. In terms of what this means to the average producer, the benefits are a higher rate of weight gain as well as a denser package when the bale is sliced versus unsliced."

Because of the smaller particle size, the sliced bales, according to the Penn State study, were 14 percent denser than unsliced bales although the slicing action permits easier access and higher intakes by cattle. The Penn State team found that sliced bales weigh 14 percent more than bales produced by the same baler with the Bale-Slice™ feature disengaged.

Heavier bales translate into more crop per bale and fewer bales per field. This means less twine and net wrap is used, there are fewer bales to transport and store, and less fuel is consumed in harvesting and transporting the bales. Additionally, less crop was wasted because the heifers were able to consume more of the bale.

An additional benefit of sliced bales is their ease of handling in a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) system. "As we handled the bales after the netting was removed," says Dr. Harpster, "they literally fell apart. They'll work much easier in a TMR system."

At the start of the study, the heifers averaged 966 pounds. Over the entire two-month trial, those fed sliced bales gained an average of 2.2 pounds per day, compared to 1.79 pounds per day in the group fed unsliced bales.

Exhibitors Make Grade At Perry County Fair

NEWPORT (Perry Co.) — "Today, I'm going to do something I have never done before," explained swine showmanship judge Henry Holloway of Bel Air, Md.

He then went on to name two junior exhibitors, 9-year-old John Ebersole and 10-year-old Cole McGuire, as champion swine showman and reserve champion swine showman of the 28th annual Perry County Fair.

In the swine showmanship event, these two enthusiastic young men placed highest in a group of 48 showmen, which included intermediate and senior exhibitors up to 21 years in age.

John and Cole are active, second-year members of the Perry County 4-H Livestock Club, which has grown considerably during recent years and presently has 84 members. Members of the livestock club and local FFA chapters showed 23 steers, the most entered in any Perry County Fair, and 53 market lambs, which represented a considerable increase from last year. Twenty-four market goats, 81 market pigs, and five meat pens of rabbits also were shown.

The fair held in August, also featured dairy cattle, dairy goat, and dog shows. Showmanship competitions were held for each type of animal present at the fair. This year's fair also included a stockman's competition.

Pennsylvania Lt. Gov. Mark Schweiker and Secretary of Agriculture Samuel E. Hayes, Jr. attended the market steer and swine shows. Patrick Finkenbinder's 1,275-pound Limousin steer won grand champion honors, and Amber Hetrick's 1,120-pound Maine Anjou was reserve grand champion. Sheena Hines was master market steer showman, Patrick Finkenbinder was reserve champion showman.

"This was a very competitive lamb show, with large numbers of lambs in each class," said market lamb judge Dick Kuzemchek of State College. Junior Exhibitor Katelynn Curtis won grand champion with her 122-pound Suffolk lamb. Bart Gill won reserve grand champion with his 127-pound Dorset lamb. Bart was also master sheep showman, John Hines was reserve champion sheep showman.

Honors for grand champion market goat went to Bart Gill's Boer crossbred goat, and Abigail Finkenbinder's Alpine crossbred market goat was reserve grand champion. Abigail Finkenbinder was master market showman. Reserve champion market goat showman was Bart Gill.

From a total of 81 market swine, the honors for grand champion went to John Ebersole's 268-pound Yorkshire/Hampshire crossbred hog. Keri Rowe's 265-pound Hampshire/Duroc crossbred hog was reserve grand champion.

In the rabbit competition, Tracy Lindgren received honors for the grand champion rabbit meat pen, and Cole McGuire won honors for the reserve. Cortney Pontius was rabbit master showman and Tracy Lindgren was reserve master rabbit showman.

Kassy Snyder showed the best 4-H dairy goat at the fair and was also dairy goat master showman. Amanda Myers showed the 4-H grand champion dairy cow, and Brian Salzburg was dairy cow master showman. Regan Walker was master dog showman.

On the fourth night of the fair, master showmen from each of the above animal categories participated in the competition for supreme showman, one of the highest honors associated with the fair's livestock shows. Animals from all of the above categories were shown by each contestant. Sheena Hines was supreme showman of the fair, and Bart Gill won the reserve title.

Area business leaders and other buyers provided strong support at the annual livestock auction held on the last night of the fair. Mutzabaugh's Market, Duncannon, and Hatfield, Inc. of Hatfield, Pa. led the buying with the purchases of nine animals each. H.F. Campbell and Son, Millerstown, purchased eight animals. One hundred eighty-two animals crossed the auction block for a record sale of $68,800. Buyers came from six counties to purchase animals. Record prices were set for the grand champion hog, which sold for $1,525; the reserve champion hog, $1,300; the grand champion market goat, $700, and the reserve champion market goat, $400.

ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS

With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots. The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.

The ROTO-MIX end-to-end... side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat.

Alley Cat™
Cable Scraper System
YOUR ALL-IN-ONE FARMSTEAD EQUIPMENT SOURCE
J-STAR

INCREASE YOUR MILK PRODUCTION WITH THE DEPENDABLE SCRAPER THAT KEEPS YOUR BARN CLEANER!

A cleaner barn means a healthier, better producing herd The Alley Cat's proven "V"-shaped blade moves large volumes of manure at a safe 7' per minute in 7' to 14' wide alleys It automatically folds together for the return route. The system features extra strength long-life 3/8" stainless steel cable for added dependability. Plus its programmable timing feature cleans according to your - and your cows' - schedule But the real secret to the Alley Cat's reliable performance is in its powerful and efficient drive The drive system can pull up to eight scraper blades and clean up to 880' of alley length

Put less wear and tear on your tractor or skid loader, and start saving time and money with the Cable Scraper System that out cleans them all - the Alley Cat

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last

Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

Announcing New Products for Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers.

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP
This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high bypass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL
A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animals fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

GOLDEN MEAL 40
An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

IN ALUMINUM BODIES

EBY BUILDS IT

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.
